Fear Pacific Flyers May Have Died.

BULLETIN.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 9.—A check of all points along the coast of British Columbia tonight failed to reveal any trace of Don Moyle or C. A. Allen, American airmen, long overdue in Seattle on an attempted nonstop flight from Japan.

(An earlier report from Seattle said it had been rumored that a huge monoplane, which might be that of Moyle and Allen, had landed on an island off northern British Columbia.)

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Four coast guard vessels of the Bering sea patrol were ordered out this evening to search for the monoplane Classina Madge, bearing Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, American aviators, and which had not been reported hours after it was due here on a nonstop flight from Japan. Four merchant vessels on the great circle course across the north Pacific also reported by wireless that they were keeping watch for the plane, but had not sighted it.

Moyle and Allen carried a gasoline supply which could not have lasted longer than 43 hours of continuous flight. This allotted time was up at 2:30 p. m. today [Chicago daylight saving time] without a word having been received from the flyers since they were sighted at Point Erimo, Japan, 10 minutes after taking off from Samushiro beach at 3:30 p. m. Monday [Chicago time].

Fiancée Awaits Moyle.

Meanwhile, before a large crowd massed at Boeing field awaiting the flyers' arrival, Miss Frances Bresson of Riverside, Cal., Moyle's fiancée, stepped from a northbound commercial plane and asked anxiously: "What have you heard from the boys?"

A moment's silence.

"No word?" she asked again.

Her brother, Frank, and his wife stood on each side of her and supported her, but only for a moment. The girl straightened and walked more or less steadily toward the office.

"He asked me to meet him here at 4 o'clock this morning," she said. "It is past that, but I won't begin to worry until 5 o'clock. We are going to be married at Riverside Mission within a month."

Coast Guard Takes Up Hunt.

The request for coast guard aid was made by W. W. Conner, state senator and aviation enthusiast, on behalf of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. Conner is a member of the chamber's aviation committee and governor for Washington of the National Aeronautical association.

Capt. H. D. Hinkley, commander of the northwest division, immediately notified the Bering sea patrol by wireless to take up the search, particularly among the Aleutian islands.

Four ships were said to be available—the Northland and Unalaska, the Itasca and Chelan in the Bering sea and the McLane, en route from the Aleutians to San Francisco, somewhere in the north Pacific.

Like Needle in Haystack.

On the chance that the flyers might have been forced down on some bleak and uninhabited island, coast guard vessels will search as far as Attu, the most westerly of the islands of the Aleutian chain.

"It is like looking for a needle in a haystack, however," Capt. Hinkley commented. "Moyle and Allen had only about one chance in a hundred when they started out. Any one who has been in that country knows that it is terrible, particularly at this time of year."

Amy Johnson Back in London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Amy Johnson, British aviatrix, whose flying time to Australia a year ago is still a record for women, returned to Croydon from Berlin this evening, completing a round trip flight to Tokio.

Dr. Harry P. Davis, Head of KDKA, Is Dead at Pittsburgh

He was chairman of the Board of the National Broadcasting company, a vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and a director in numerous other corporations. FIVE SUSPECTS TO FACE KIDNAP VICTIMS TODAY

Five downstate Illinois hoodlums of varying degree of gang importance, were held in detective bureau last night as suspects in four kidnapings which may have netted them thousands of dollars. Two of the prisoners have already been partly linked to one of the crimes and the victims of two other abductions for ransom will view the suspects this morning in an effort to identify them.

LIEUT. CUSACK.

Victims to View Suspects.

James Hackett, for years the gambling chief of Blue Island, and John J. Lynch, part owner of a Chicago racing news service, are two of the victims. Fred J. Blumer, head of the Blumer Products company, a brewing concern of Monroe, Wis., is another. Lynch and Blumer will view the five prisoners this morning. The fourth victim was Ralph Wehrenberg of Springfield, an employe in State Auditor Nelson's office.

Lieut. William Cusack of the detective bureau yesterday brought the suspects to Chicago from Decatur, where all were arrested. Cusack believes his most important prisoners are Monte A. Moore, possessor of a long criminal record, and Joe Yates, Decatur's chief hoodlum and a former member of the Shelton gang which terrorized southern Illinois for years. The other captives are William Wallace of Decatur, reputed "fence," and John Esslinger, and Morris Luttrell of Springfield, minor gangsters.

Warrants Out for Three.

It was learned last night that warrants charging the kidnaping of Wehrenberg had been issued at Springfield for Moore, Luttrell, and Esslinger.

The evidence in possession of Lieut. Cusack, he said, points to Moore's participation in both the Hackett and Blumer kidnapings. Yates is also believed by the lieutenant to be aligned with the gang which last May held Hackett a prisoner until $75,000 ransom was paid. Lynch, kidnaped on Aug. 20 near his home at Lake Geneva, Wis., was released after six days' captivity, when $50,000 was turned over to his abductors.

One circumstance which was said to have directed suspicion to Yates and Moore in the Blumer case was that Blumer was released in Decatur when the police were close on the heels of his kidnapers.

Roche Questions Suspects.

Lieut. Cusack and Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office spent hours last night questioning the five suspects, particularly Yates and Moore. They were interested, among other matters, in the report current in Decatur early yesterday, which was later repeated in Chicago by Roche, that $50,000 of the Hackett ransom had gone to grafting Decatur policemen who broke in on the kidnapers as they were counting the money. The story is unconfirmed.

While he was being questioned by Cusack in the Macon county jail at Decatur on Tuesday night, Moore delivered a comment considered significant in respect to the reported shakedown.

"I won't tell you anything except this," he informed the lieutenant, "if some guys in this town don't come across with the dough I have coming, I'll tell a little story that will shake the whole United States."

Refuses to Tell More.

He was silent after this outburst, answering most questions with "Aw, forget it," or "You don't have anything on me."

When word of the story that the police had taken the kidnapers' cash reached the Decatur police chief, E. F. Wills, he promised a thorough and immediate examination of the financial accounts of his force.

"I can't believe any of my men ever took a dime," he said, "but I shall surely take steps to clear them immediately from any such suspicion as has been voiced. I will have their bank books investigated and all accounts examined for sums of suspicious nature. I want the complete truth."

Hackett accompanied Lieut. Cusack

Cops Use Axes on Luxurious Gambling Den

The Aquarium Social club, 814 Diversey parkway, ornate gambling place conducted by "Northside Frankie" Pope, the self-styled millionaire newsboy, was raided late yesterday afternoon by a police squad from the state's attorney's office under the command of Sergt. Michael Ahern. Pope and three dealers were booked as keepers and 61 patrons were booked as inmates.

CAPT. CHRISTENSEN.

The Aquarium, directly across the street from Pope's previous venture, the Beau Monde, now closed under a federal injunction for violation of the liquor laws, was raided on Aug. 19 on the orders of Mayor Cermak. This raid was followed by the removal of Capt. Thomas Duffy as commander of the Sheffield district, also on Cermak's order. The mayor said that Duffy was removed because he disobeyed orders to raid the gambling places in the neighborhood. Capt. Alfred Christensen was sent to command the Sheffield district.

Find 20 Women in Place.

Apparently, however, the raid by the mayor's police did not keep the place closed. More than a hundred persons, including about twenty women in afternoon frocks and seemingly possessed of plenty of money, were in Pope's establishment when it was raided yesterday.

Sergt. John Scherping was the first to climb the flight of stairs to the club floor. A double door of four inch steel bared the entrance. The guard, apparently thinking he knew Scherping, opend the door. "Step in, Bud," the guard said.

When Sergt. Ahern, carrying an ax and followed by Policemen J. L. Zegar, John Walsh and Leo Anderson, also crowded in the guard tried to close the door and swing a heavy bar into place. One of the policemen struck him on the chin and the squad entered. A guard at an inner door, warned by the noise, shut the door, similar to the outer gate, and dropped the bars in place. Ten minutes' work with three axes tore the door from the hinges.

Inside dealers were rushing around clearing away cards, hiding dice and shoving a roulette wheel behind a cur-

The citation was issued by Hobard D. Brink, second in command of the field forces in the Baltimore prohibition area, after he visited the surgeon's offices and obtained what he described as "three bottles of cognac, three bottles of assorted liquors, and three bottles of orange brandy."

2 Gunmen Rob T. J. Bowler, Wife of Gems

From Bowler, who is a former alderman of the 41st ward, the gunmen took $65 and a diamond ring valued at $1,200. From his wife they took a diamond ring which cost $1,800.

A short time before the holdup the Bowlers, returning from a loop theater, stopped at a drug store at Austin avenue and Irving Park boulevard to purchase ice cream. Mr. Bowler noticed a loiterer watching him. When Bowler stepped into his car the man boarded another machine containing two other men.

When Mr. Bowler got out of his car in front of his home a man, wearing a handkerchief over the lower part of his face, stepped out from the bushes. Bowler punched the man on the jaw, dropping him.

The latter arose quickly, pointing a pistol. "This is a stickup, alderman," he warned. Another man joined him, also armed, and Bowler surrendered.

"Where is your ring?" one of them asked. Bowler took it off and handed it over. The bandits then tried to tug off the ring from Mrs. Bowler's finger. Bowler told his wife to take it off. She did. The gunmen did not search the children or Bowler's chauffeur, Anthony Mustaccio. Bowler saved approximately $200 he carried.

Miss Muriel McCormick to Be Bride Today

Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, will be married today in Bar Harbor, Me., to Maj. Elisha Dyer Hubbard of Middletown, Conn., son of the late Elijah Kent Hubbard, a pioneer Chicagoan.

Formal announcement of the engagement yesterday was made by Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, who received the news in a letter from her daughter. The announcement was followed last night by a statement from the Rev. William E. Patterson, rector of St. Savior's Episcopal church at Bar Harbor, that the wedding would take place today.

Only Close Friends Invited.

The ceremony will be private, he said, and at Deep Cove, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock of Chicago. Only close friends of the couple are to be present, according to the Rev. Mr. Patterson, who will officiate.

There is a law in Maine providing for an interim of five days between the issuing of a license and the wedding ceremony, but there is a provision for waiver of this. Since there was no record of a license having been issued yesterday, it is understood that arrangements have been made under the waiver clause in the law for a special marriage license.

Interested in Stage and Opera.

In recent years Miss McCormick, who is 29 years old, has lived much of the time with Mr. and Mrs. McKinlock, in Chicago, Palm Beach and Bar Harbor. She has been a leading spirit in Red Cross and other charity drives here, and was the first woman guarantor of the Chicago Civic opera.

After her debut Miss McCormick interested herself actively in theatricals. At one time it was reported she considered a motion picture career. At least she was offered the opportunity. However, she devoted her energies largely to the stage and appeared in, as well as supported, a number of amateur theaters. Last winter she financed and organized the Play House at Palm Beach. Yet her aim was at times toward the opera, though not professionally. She has devoted much study to voice culture.

Miss McCormick frequently visits her grandfather, John D. Rockefeller, with whom she has been regarded as a favorite.

Harold McCormick, father of the bride of today, is in the east and is expected to be present at the wedding. Miss McCormick's brother, Fowler, was married recently to Mrs. Fitz Potter Stillman.

Bridegroom a War Veteran.

Maj. Hubbard, who is about 53 years old, is a war veteran, and well known in the east. He served overseas with the Yale unit, and has been continuously interested in military affairs. He served on the staff of Gov. John H. Trumbull with the rank of major. He has never been married. He maintains a country estate, Lone Tree farm, about three miles outside of Middletown. At present he is at Indian Point, Me., the summer home of his brother, E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association.

The Hubbard family is widely known in New England and the middle west. The late Elijah Kent Hubbard, father of Maj. Hubbard, died in 1915, some time after he retired as president of the Russell Manufacturing company of Middletown. The elder Mr. Hubbard was born in Chicago in 1835, but moved east not long after the civil war. He had three sons, Maj. Hubbard, E. Kent Hubbard, and Louis De Koven Hubbard, and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence E. Wadsworth of Middletown, and Mrs. Anna Stillman of Boston.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday was reported to have been named in a true bill containing two counts voted on Tuesday by the Lake county grand jury investigating the affairs of the defunct Waukegan State bank. The true bill was said to charge misfeasance of office and culpable omission of duty.

The state auditor appeared before the grand jury on Sept. 1 following charges made by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county that the Waukegan State bank was insolvent last fall and that Nelson failed to perform his official duty to close the bank, but instead consented to a plan of reorganization. The bank closed on June 17 with deposit liabilities of $1,224,000 and cash on hand of $38,000.

The indictment, which, it is reported, may be returned Monday, is expected to charge Mr. Nelson with failure to close the bank last November and failure to order an assessment on stockholders. Mr. Smith has repeatedly charged the bank failed because of criminal acts of its officials. He also blamed "influential Chicago bankers."

Nelson Makes Statement.

Mr. Nelson in Chicago yesterday dismissed the report with a shrug.

"The bank at that time, in my judgment, was sound," he said. "If they want to indict me despite that fact, let them do so. I have nothing to say in addition to the fact that the bank was sound last November. And it was."

The failure of the bank was reported to have been blamed by Carl R. Stenger, chairman of the board of the defunct institution, on the fact that Chicago bankers stepped in and tried to take control of the Waukegan bank. The bank was a correspondent of the National Bank of the Republic, since merged with the Central Trust company as the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Mr. Stenger volunteered to appear before the grand jury and signed an immunity waiver. It has been reported that the grand jury voted true bills against him, and John Murray Connors, and Milton C. Smith, former vice presidents of the bank.

Former President Indicted.

The jury has returned an indictment charging Norman O. Geyer, former president of the bank, with receiving deposits after he knew the bank to be insolvent. Geyer appeared before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady yesterday and furnished $10,000 surety and signed a $10,000 personal recognizance bond to guarantee his appearance at the opening of the court term Oct. 5.

Stenger was questioned for more than three hours yesterday. He was reported to have testified to the signing of an agreement in December, 1929, with George Woodruff, former chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, by which the Waukegan bank became a correspondent of the Chicago bank. This testimony was said to have contradicted that of Mr. Woodruff, who was a witness on Tuesday.

Reports on Bank Arrangement.

According to reports of Stenger's testimony he was approached in December, 1929, with a proposal for the arrangement by William H. Miller, a vice president of the Chicago bank, at the former's home. Stenger was then president of the Waukegan bank. Miller was said to have broached the project, to have purchased 297 shares of the Waukegan bank and to have arranged a meeting of Stenger and Connors with Woodruff, Gustave Fischer, president of the National Republic Bancorporation, and himself for the following day.

Woodruff, Stenger was reported to have said, presented a contract of affiliation, which Stenger signed. By the contract, it was said, stockholders of the Waukegan bank were to be urged to trade their stock for that of the corporation at a ratio of seven shares of corporation stock for one share of bank stock.

Bank Audit Revealed.

On Jan. 2, 1930, the Chicago bank was reported to have sent Auditors Harry McCreight and A. J. Mulrooney to audit the Waukegan bank's books. At the same time Stenger sent letters to stockholders advising them to make the transfer, asserting that he sincerely believed the affiliance to be an aid to the Waukegan bank, it was said. After the auditors returned a report, the Chicago bankers started to back down on the plan, it was said, evidently because of an unfavorable report.

In July of 1930, according to reports, Woodruff told Stenger he was dissatisfied with the Waukegan bank and sent W. R. Schuster, one of the assistant vice presidents of the Chicago bank, to bolster it up. Stenger was said to have charged Schuster alienated rather than drew support of Waukegan citizens to the bank, because his large scale ideas were not suited to the smaller bank.

New President Named.

In November Geyer was sent by the Chicago bank to reorganize the Waukegan bank. He became president and Stenger chairman of its board. State Auditor Nelson was said to have urged the reorganization under which the Chicago bank surrendered 795 shares of the stock it held in the Waukegan bank and urged Stenger to sell the stock to citizens of Lake county with a view to strengthening the bank. The agreement provided that the Waukegan bank pay the Chicago bank $6,000 annually as soon as solvency was assured, it was reported.

Stenger was also reported to have discussed the merger of the People's State bank of Waukegan early in 1929 with the Waukegan State bank. He was said to have declared that Nelson urged the merger and approved $600,000, urged the merger and approved $3,250,000 in assets, including both paper and cash.

On the reorganization of the bank in October, 1929, State Auditor Nelson held $400,000 in stock to be worthless, it was said. Edward Durkin, former director of the bank, also a witness, was reported to have supported Stenger on this testimony. Durkin was said to have added that he asked Nelson why this paper had been approved previously and was answered with, "That's all water over the dam."

Other Witnesses Heard.

Other witnesses before the grand jury were W. E. Acomb, superintendent of the American Steel and Wire company's branch at Waukegan; John E. Reardon, secretary of the Waukegan board of education; A. M. Sick, president of the Bunting Printing company, and Bert Crush, manager of the American Can company. They were reported to have testified that Schuster, who was a witness on Tuesday, led them to believe that the Chicago bank was affiliated with the Waukegan bank. Schuster was rumored to have denied the statement, but said such an impression might have been received by the business men.

The grand jury adjourned until next Monday.

DISCUSS BANK INQUIRY

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], who asked State's Attorney Swanson for a special grand jury investigation of the closed banks of Cook county, held a conference with the prosecutor yesterday. After the meeting Nelson, who also asked an investigation of the administration of the state auditor, expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the bank investigation is being handled.

"There will be no special grand jury until such action is deemed necessary, if at all," Mr. Swanson said. "If we find any one outside the individual banks to be in any way responsible for the failures we will take proper action."

State Auditor Nelson yesterday closed the First Italian State bank, 2201 West Taylor street. The bank had a capital of $200,000, surplus of $50,000, and deposits of $350,000. S. Adriani is its president. The bank is the 66th bank in the county to have failed in the last two years.

SWANSON TAKES HAND IN WOLF THEFT INQUIRY

Confers with Attorneys Representing Bank.

State's Attorney Swanson took a hand yesterday in the investigation of the $3,667,000 embezzlement of Water E. Wolf, manager of the coupon collection department of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

WALTER E. WOLF.

Mr. Swanson held a conference late in the day with Attorneys Carl Meyer and Frederic Burnham, counsel for the bank, to determine when Wolf, a voluntary prisoner of the bank's investigators for the past six days, would be turned over to the state for prosecution.

The attorneys are reported to have told Mr. Swanson that Wolf, relieved at having confessed his defalcations, is prepared at any time to go before the grand jury, thence to court to plead guilty, and finally to a prison cell to expiate his theft.

Wolf Aiding Investigation.

Moreover, it was said, they told the state's attorney that Wolf has been lending them invaluable aid in building up evidence against several individuals outside the bank who, bank officers believe, were willful accomplices of Wolf in his thefts for stock speculations.

It is understood that the lawyers informed Mr. Swanson that they desired to retain his custody for several days longer, perhaps a week, in preparation for civil suits which the bank and their insurance agents, Lloyd's of London, expect to file against a number of brokerage houses for recovery of collateral stolen by Wolf.

Mr. Swanson indicated he was agreeable to the proposals of the attorneys. He took occasion to deny that the lawyers had broached any discussion of the punishment to be meted out to Wolf.

"I am satisfied that the bank attorneys are in better position to conduct this investigation than my staff," Mr. Swanson said. "For the present they will keep Wolf in their custody. At the conference there was no discussion of the penalty to be demanded for Wolf, either on the side of rigor or leniency."

Exchanges Speed Inquiries.

The Board of Trade and the Chicago stock exchange also moved yesterday to investigate Wolf's operations in stocks and grains.

James C. Murray, president of the Board of Trade, named a committee of three, John C. Wood, Edwin T. Maynard, and Kenneth S. Templeton, to inquire into the tradings of David D. Weiss, member of the board, reputed to have handled above $1,000,000 of Wolf's accounts. Mr. Wood, a former vice president of the board, was named chairman of the committee.

The chairman declined to say what procedure will be followed in the investigation, reserving any announcement until early next week, when, he said, the committee will meet and organize a program. The committee will probe the transactions, not alone of Mr. Weiss, but of any other members who dealt with Wolf, Mr. Wood said.

Stock Exchange Acts.

At the same time the board of governors of the Chicago stock exchange met at the call of the president, Paul H. Davis. The operations of Maurice Davis, customer's man for Stein, Alstrin & Co., brother of Brig. Gen. Abel Davis and a broker for Wolf for several years, were discussed in a general way.

No announcement was forthcoming. It was confidently asserted by members of the exchange, however, that in due time Mortimer D. Cahn, chairman of the business conduct committee of the exchange, would be instructed to proceed along the lines already indicated by the Board of Trade investigation.

Another Account Revealed.

Daniel F. Rice, head of the brokerage house of D. F. Rice & Co., issued a statement yesterday admitting that Mr. Weiss had carried an account with that firm for four years and declaring that, to his knowledge, the account was not involved in Wolf's defalcations.

"So far as we know the Weiss account is not involved," he said. "Mr. Weiss was a customer of our house, and if he had any controversy with any person or institution claiming an interest in the account we think it comes with poor grace from us to discuss his account with anybody."

Probe Charge of 600% Interest Being Levied by Loan Sharks

Complaints that loan sharks are gouging small borrowers out of interest at the rate of more than 600 per cent were made yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Duffey of the racket bureau. Mr. Duffey said he would investigate charges made by borrowers against the Community Trading and Loan company, 4000 West North avenue.

This company, according to information received by the prosecutor, lends small sums, $10, $20, or $30, for short periods, usually until the next pay day, and discounts the loan 10 per cent. In an effort to circumvent the small loans law, the borrower is told that he pays no interest. For the 10 per cent discount he receives coupons for the amount withheld, redeemable in groceries at a designated store, provided he buys ten times as much as the amount of the coupons.

Case Cited as Example.

The case of a motorman for the surface lines was cited as a typical example of the manner in which the scheme works. This man, who has a family, found himself indebted to five money lenders in the amount of $600. He was not able to meet the various payments, so he turned his pay over to a so-called amortization concern, which acts as an individual receiver, charging 4 per cent for the service. Out of his monthly salary of $130 they began paying off his obligations at $40 a month, returning the remainder to the client.

But he needed a few dollars extra for an emergency and applied to the Community Trading and Loan company. He made an assignment of his wages on a note for $10 and received $9. In addition he was given four merchandise coupons for 25 cents each, good at the store four miles from his home on a $10 purchase of goods.

File Salary Garnishment.

The note became due in six days and the company filed a garnishment against the man's wages. Then the company went into court and obtained a judgment for $26, including attorney's fees and other costs. The amortization company is seeking to vacate the judgment on the ground of usury.

Mr. Duffey said the practice of disguising interest as merchandise coupons was clearly an evasion of the law, which allows a maximum 3½ per cent interest a month for licensed money lenders and 7 per cent a year for unlicensed lenders. There is a stipulation in the contract whereby the money withheld for the merchandise coupons is "retained as liquidated damages" if the borrorer does not use them within sixty days.

Interest at 600 Per Cent.

The actual interest of $1 on a $9 loan for six days would be about 11 per cent, or approximately 670 per cent for a year, Mr. Duffey pointed out. And, the prosecutor said, the borrower would not be seeking the $9 loan if he had $9 to put with the coupons and buy $10 worth of groceries.

Most complaints received by the racket bureau are against the so-called "240 per cent boys," who style themselves "salary buyers," or "collectors." They lend money on wage assignments and charge 10 per cent a day, twice a month. When the borrower defaults on his interest, they tie up his wages and force him to sign a judgment note to get his salary released.

FIVE OUT OF 13 WOMEN DRIVERS FLUNK IN TEST

Five out of thirteen women students in the driving school sponsored by the accident prevention bureau in Evanston flunked in their final examinations yesterday.

The five were unable to park their automobiles between two machines in a space five feet longer than the individual length of the car without touching the back or front cars or the curb. The other eight students qualified. Twenty-five more women students will take the driving tests today.

Meanwhile reports were current last night that Policeman Frank Kreml, who founded the accident prevention bureau, would return to the Evanston force and reassume charge of the bureau. He left the bureau several months ago to become secretary of the Chicago safety commission. It is understood that Kreml will confer today with Police Chief Freeman. Kreml, the reports state, will return to his old bureau Sept. 16.

FREAK AUTUMN HOT WAVE SENDS MERCURY TO 91

A hot sun and scorching wind from the southwestern plains sent throngs of Chicagoans to the parks and beaches yesterday as a freak autumn heat wave swept over the city. The official temperature mounted to 91 at 2 p. m., and hovered around that mark for the rest of the afternoon.

No relief was in sight, according to W. P. Day, government forecaster, who predicted fair and continued warm weather for today and tomorrow.

A low pressure area moving in from the southwest, which caused a temperature of 110 at Hays, Kas., on Monday, is responsible for the heat wave, Mr. Day said. The high mark for Sept. 9 recorded by the Chicago weather bureau was 94 degrees, registered in 1897.

Temperature as high as 101 degrees were reported in Minnesota and the Dakotas yesterday.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY BODY.

South park police were seeking last night to identify the body of a well dressed man, about 60 years old, which was recovered from the lake at 8th street yesterday. All labels in the clothing had been removed.

SAYS MATE BROKE PLEDGE TO LEARN TO DANCE; SUES

William Austin Duncan, 719 Judson avenue, Evanston, did not learn to dance as he had promised in a prenuptial agreement with his wife, Sarah Amelia, 7446 North Seeley avenue, who kept her own part of the bargain by learning to play golf and bridge. This was one of the charges contained in a bill for separate maintenance which Mrs. Duncan filed in the Superior court yesterday.

Less than a year after their marriage in September, 1927, the bill, drawn by Attorney Samuel Hoffman, charges, Mrs. Duncan suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of a quarrel with her husband. On Christmas day of the same year, the document avers, Mrs. Duncan returned from a visit to her mother's home in Minnesota to find her apartment littered with powder puffs, women's handkerchiefs and empty liquor bottles. In October, 1929, the bill charges, Duncan was overheard at a telephone suggesting to a physician that his wife be taken to the psychopathic hospital.

Duncan, according to the bill, has a yearly income of $25,000 from the estate of his father, William Duncan.

BRITISH CABINET SEEKS TO RULE AS A DICTATOR

Prepares to Enact 'Crisis' Laws by Decree.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A virtual dictatorship which will swing the ax on British national expenditures cast a hulky shadow across the land today. It came in the shape of an economy bill which was presented in the house of commons this afternoon by Prime Minister MacDonald of the national government.

The object of the bill is "to authorize the making of economies by order in council." This will enable the emergency government to enact its reform program almost by decree and in the fashion of a steam roller. By this move the government also indicated it intends to avoid obstruction in parliament as far as possible. Orders in council are issued by the king on the advice of privy councilors and do not require parliament's approval. They can be rescinded, however, after becoming a law by a majority vote.

The government, which yesterday won a vote of confidence from commons, today added to its strength when it obtained a majority of 93 on resolutions limiting the business in commons strictly to the nation's financial emergency.

Rich to Learn Fate Today.

The country's unemployed have already been forewarned that their weekly dole of about a pound will be reduced ten per cent. Tomorrow the men with country estates and limousines will learn just what sacrifices the government will demand of them.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden will reveal the government's hand on new taxation when he presents the supplementary budget designed to wipe out a threatened deficit of $600,000,000. The proposals will be kept a secret, however, until after the markets close at 5 p. m. There has been no leak, but it is believed that incomes will be hit by higher taxes.

Increased duties on tobacco, beer, wines, whisky, sugar, tea and gasoline are expected. It is even hinted that the owner of every radio in Great Britain will be called upon to pay a higher license fee. The license is now £1 per year.

Labor Masses Strength.

Prime Minister MacDonald's "dictatorial" economy bill passed its first reading today. It was a mere formality. It arises again on Friday for second reading and the Labor party opposition is expected to fight its passage vigorously.

The Labor opposition today was powerless to obstruct the government's plans to push through the emergency relief measures. Stanley Baldwin's closure motion to permit the government to monopolize all the rest of the session in its struggle to save Britain from bankruptcy drew a loud protest from the Labor ranks, but it passed.

The atmosphere in commons was tense. There was some horseplay, but there were also bitter debates. The arguments became strenuous and on one occasion Sir Oswald Mosley dared a heckler to "come outside and fight."

March on Police Court.

Last night's attempt by communist agitators to create a riot in Parliament square had a quiet sequel in the Bow street police court today where 17 Englanders, including one woman, were placed on trial on such charges as "insulting behavior" and "obstructing the police." Three were charged with assault.

As the trial opened, 200 men marched up in a procession, but a dozen "Bobbies" strolled out of the station and sent them away. Three men were ejected from the courtroom during the hearing. Most of the accused were fined, bound over, or discharged.

Another sequel to yesterday's parliamentary proceedings was today's protest meeting of the trades union congress at Bristol. The delegates were depressed over the strength of the emergency cabinet's majority in the vote of confidence. Then, too, they were forced to listen to an attack on the dole by J. V. Moreschi, delegate from the American Federation of Labor.

"Dole Won't Cure Ills."

"In America we have agreed that the cure for employment is not the dole, but work," he said. "If present conditions continue we may be driven to the dole, but we agree that it must be temporary and not a fixed policy. In the long run it will not be of an advantage to the worker, nor will it cure his ills."

Another demonstration of "hunger marchers" under communist auspices failed at Bristol. It was mostly confined to making faces. The police halted the procession and permitted the leaders to march into the trades' union conference hall and demand admission. It was refused and the deputation, in which one woman took an active part, stormed the doors, but were forced back.

LINCOLN PARK VOTES 12 YEAR BUS FRANCHISE

An ordinance granting a new 12 year franchise to the Chicago Motor Coach company was passed unanimously by the Lincoln park commissioners at their regular meeting yesterday. It is estimated that the new franchise will increase the park system's revenue approximately $108,000 for the 12 years.

Previously the company had paid to Lincoln park 4 per cent of its gross annual receipts from buses operating in the park district. Under the new franchise the company will pay 4½ per cent for the first four years, 5 per cent during the next four years, and 5½ per cent for the remainder of the contract. The franchise will become effective on March 25, 1932.

Bus service will be started, according to the agreement, in North avenue between Clark street and Lake Shore drive to accommodate persons using the new beach being constructed at the foot of North avenue. A bus line will also be allowed in Lakeview avenue between Diversey and Fullerton parkways.

The Hoover standard traffic code, which was adopted by the city a few weeks ago, was adopted by the park board.

13 ARE OVERCOME FIGHTING FLAMES IN LOOP BUILDING

Thirteen firemen were overcome by smoke and carbon monoxide fumes last night and a number of others affected less seriously when they entered the basement of a burning building at 173 West Lake street. None was seriously injured.

Those overcome are Lieut. John Burke and Firemen Martin McGinty, Walter Rubin, Harold Quisthoff, John Cotter, and John Hoff of engine 42; Capt. Cornelius Minnehan and Firemen Neville Connors of engine 40; Firemen John Kriis and William Tomazewski of engine 17; Fireman Hubert Whitman of squad 9; Fireman Warren Williams of hook and ladder 9, and Fireman William Sagert of squad 1. Tomazewski, Hoff, and Rubin were taken to the Iroquois Memorial hospital, and Kriss and Cotter to the Henrotin Memorial hospital.

The burning building, five stories high, is occupied by the Spitzer's Office Supply House, Inc. The fire, believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion in excelsior and furniture stored in the basement, was confined there and caused damage estimated by Fire Marshal Daniel Cassidy at $3,000. Traffic in Lake street between La Salle and Wells streets was tied up for half an hour.

PLANE BRINGS SERUM TO TREAT MOTHER OF SIX

Drug Sent Sufferer from Addison's Disease.

Two vials of cortin, a rare serum employed to combat Addison's disease, were brought to Chicago from Buffalo, N. Y., by airplane last night in an effort to save the life of Mrs. Andrew Nelson, 4102 North Overhill avenue, Norwood Park, a victim of the disease.

The special medicine will be administered to Mrs. Nelson at the Albert Billings Memorial hospital this morning by Dr. Allen Kenyon of the hospital staff. Mrs. Nelson, mother of six children, was stricken with Addison's disease a week ago, and her attending physician, Dr. Richard Torpin, sent out a plea for the serum.

Planes Carry Medicine.

Dr. Frederick A. Hartman of the University of Buffalo, who discovered the serum, responded. Two vials of the medicine were obtained as quickly as possible. The serum is gotten from certain glands of cattle, and enough of it for only one day's treatment requires the use of 150 head of cattle.

The serum was placed in an American Airways ship at Buffalo, and at Cleveland transferred to a National Air Transport plane. The second ship reached the Chicago airport at 7:58 o'clock last night and was given to waiting hand by Pilot W. H. Kennedy and Co-Pilot E. B. Gray. A squad of police under Sergt. Michael Hackett took the serum to the hospital.

Addison's disease affects the suprarenal capsules—glands located above the kidneys which are believed to furnish an internal secretion by which blood pressure is increased. Certain abdominal sympathetic nerves are also affected and the disease is characterized by progressive anemia and prostration.

V. B. King's Condition Unchanged.

In the Chicago Memorial hospital physicians reported as unchanged the condition of Valentine B. King of Elgin, who is suffering from the rare disease agranulocytosis. Mr. King, a brother-in-law of the late Charles E. Erbstein, Chicago lawyer, is ill with the strange ailment that destroys white corpuscles.

This disease in the last few months has taken the lives of Mrs. Lillian Caldwell, wife of H. Wallace Caldwell, school trustee, and Mrs. Nancy Hatton, wife of Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university.

Warren Wright to Receive Bulk of 30 Million Estate

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Disposing of an estate valued at around thirty millions of dollars, perhaps much more, the will with four codicils attached, of the late William Monroe Wright, nationally known trotting horse breder and turfman, and former president of Calumet Baking Powder company, Chicago, was filed for probate in County court here today.

WARREN WRIGHT.

The bulk of the huge estate, including famous Calumet farm, and its valuable stable of trotting horses, goes to his only son, Warren Wright of Chicago, who lives at 209 Lake Shore drive and is president of the Lincoln park board.

The entire estate, with the exception of property valued at five million dollars or less, was bequeathed to his son. The will establishes a trust fund, composed of approximately one million dollars in securities and cash, or enough to insure an annual income of $70,000 for his widow, Mrs. Georgia Owen Wright. She also receives $100,000 in cash, the Wright residential property in Highland Park, Ill., half of his total insurance, household goods and similar property at Calumet farm and the use and occupancy of mansion and immediate grounds at Calumet farm during her lifetime provided she makes her home there.

Grandson Contingent Heir.

Mrs. Wright is given the right to dispose of approximately two hundred of fifty thousands dollars of the trust fund at the time of her death. The remaining seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars goes to the son if he is still living. In the event he dies before Mrs. Wright, the remainder will be held in trust for his son, Warren Wright Jr., until he reaches 40 years of age, when it will become his unconditionally.

The remaining half the life insurance and all other property not otherwise disposed of goes to the son, Warren Wright, subject only to government taxes and obligations of the deceased.

Other bequests, all to family connections, include:

George Daniel, Lexington, $100,000; H. Daniel Reno, Chicago, $20,000; Mrs. Ernest B. Wright, Buffalo, N. Y., $10,000; Georgia Wright Daniel, Lexington, $2,500; Elliott Daniel, Toyah, Tex., $20,000; Mrs. Elliott Daniel, $2,500; Charles Elliott Daniel Jr., Georgia Wright Daniel, and Mary Daniel, all of Toyah, $2,500 each.

The will further provides for cancellation of mortgage on home of Forest E. Marsh, Highland Park, Ill., and also cancellation of the indebtedness of H. O. Reno company, Chicago.

A trust fund of one hundred thousand is established for William Wright Daniel, Tayoh, Tex., interest to be used for his support and education until he reaches his majority, when he is to receive $25,000. Upon reaching thirty he is to receive another $25,000 portion of the fund, the remainder of which goes to him on his 35th birthday. In the event of his death, the money held in trust is to go to his children, and if he has no children, to revert to the estate.

Widow Becomes Executrix.

The will names Warren Wright as executor and dispenses with the surety bond requirement. It provided, however, that Mrs. Wright Sr. be appointed executrix in the event the son was unable to qualify. Since Warren Wright was a nonresident of Kentucky and was ineligible for appointment as executor, Mrs. Wright qualified as executrix, executing bond for one million without surety, according to the provisions of the will.

All bequests must be paid directly to the beneficiaries and are not assignable for debts, according to a clause of the will. The original will was dated Jan. 22, 1923, and the four codicils dated respectively Dec. 29, 1925; Feb. 6, 1929; Dec. 17, 1930, and Feb. 3, 1931.

AN ADVANCED TYPE OF VENTILATION INSURES COMFORT AT ALL TIMES
There is as much difference between the Henrici coffee bean and the ordinary coffee bean as there is between a fine old vintage wine and young wine made at home by an amateur.
Only small quantities (relatively) of Henrici coffee are roasted at one time, because coffee owes its choicest flavor to elements which become so volatile after roasting that they are dissipated quickly. After grinding, this volatility becomes still more rapid, and so Henrici coffee is ground only as required for use. Since coffee is at its highest point of merit as a beverage for only a very short time after brewing, small quantities are "made" at a time. These are among the reasons why coffee as served at a Henrici table is the finest cup of coffee in all the world.

Frankie Pope's Place Is Shut by Raiders.

tain. Patrons were rushing about the room trying to make an escape by a rear exit, locked and barred, or by windows along the side, likewise heavily barred. Several of the woman were weeping. One of the women screamed and was directed to a washroom by a policeman.

According to Sergt. Ahern the interior was fitted up like an exclusive club. A row of plush easy chairs lined one wall. The walls had been newly decorated.

All of the women and about thirty men, who satisfied the police they were "professional and business men of good standing," were released. Four patrol wagons removed the others to the Sheffield avenue police station. A wagonload of gambling paraphernalia was taken to the Town Hall court where it will be presented as evidence this morning.

Produces Alcock Order.

On the inner side of the inner door of the club was posted the copy of an injunction, restraining the police from raiding the "Aquarium Social club" and issued on Aug. 12 by Judge Joseph Burke of the Criminal court. Pope expressed indignation at his arrest and pointed to the injunction. Sergt. Ahern replied that the injunction was directed at the police and did not refer to the state's attorney.

As soon as notice of the raid was given, Capt. Christensen and four of his policemen appeared. Questioned by the raiding squad as to why he had not closed the place or kept it closed after the raid ordered by Mayor Cermak, Christensen produced an order from Commissioner Alcock, sent out on Aug. 14, directing police of the district to comply with the injunction until court action had been concluded.

The closing of the place yesterday after two police captains and a raid under the personal orders of the mayor had failed was the result of a concerted move by neighborhood property owners.

Appeal to Racket Bureau.

On Tuesday a delegation of business men and home owners, residents of Diversey parkway and Sheridan road apartment homes, visited the racket bureau and conferred with Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Mueller and Charles Lounsbury. According to their spokesman, whose home is near the gambling place, they had been unable to get action from other enforcement agencies.

"I obtained entry to the place yesterday by a stratagem," one of the delegation said. "I asked a tough lounging on the sidewalk where I could place a bet and he directed me upstairs. Inside I asked to speak to Mr. Pope and he came out to my table. After I had told him that the neighborhood desired his removal and that we would appeal to the authorities he showed me an injunction, laughed in my face, and had me led to the door."

Residents of the neighborhood complained that members of their families had been repeatedly insulted by loungers around the entrance to the club. Another complaint was the noise made late at night by those leaving the place.

FIGHT FIRE FOR 4 HOURS.

After a four hour fight firemen extinguished a fire in a building at 4825-27 Ravenswood avenue yesterday which resulted in damage of $2,500.

Charge of Surety Monopoly in Schools Stirs Trustees

Charges that the law department of the school board has given a monopoly on surety bonds to the Louis E. Golan agency led to a heated discussion in a secret conference of the trustees prior to their regular public meeting yesterday. Golan was official ballyhoo leader for the previous city hall administration. The charge was made by T. E. Dunne of the United States Casualty company, who was formerly associated with George Brennan in the United States Fidelity and Casualty company.

President Myers and Trustees Carr and Hefferan were reported in favor of throwing the school board business open to four or five reliable surety companies, but they were opposed by the other trustees, appointees of a previous administration, and the matter was eventually referred to the committee on finance.

Thomas V. Sullivan, attorney for the school board, admitted favoring the Golan agency, but defended his action on a basis of good service over a period of five years. Disdaining any excuses for the policy of giving all the business to one agency, trustees supporting Sullivan's view openly maintained that it was a matter of political privilege.

"Every other local government has its own favorites," one trustee was quoted as saying, "why shouldn't we?"

"This is still a Republican board," another trustee was reported to have said, "and so long as the school board is protected there's no reason for changing a policy that has thus far been entirely satisfactory to us."

"Giving all the surety business to one man, as insisted on by a majority of the board, appointed by a previous administration, is plainly a matter of politics," said Mrs. Hefferan.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL TAKE UP $250,000 SCRIP

Use Tuition Cash to Redeem Paper.

Redemption of $250,000 worth of scrip, given to unpaid employés instead of cash, was ordered at a meeting of the board of education yesterday. The cash, President Lewis F. Myers explained, comes from summer school tuition fees. None of the cash will be used to pay teachers or other school board employés who have taken no scrip.

Because teachers were the last to accept scrip, the action of the board was termed "unfair" by some of the teacher groups who counted that available cash should be distributed on a pro rata basis among all school board employés. Scrip of the face value of $3,585,000 has been accepted by about 6,000 of the school board's 18,000 employés, most of whom have received no cash since April. Engineer-custodians and janitors were first to accept the paper. The teachers, who number 14,000, hold a comparatively small share.

Will Redeem Early Issues.

By the board's resolution the $250,000 now available will be used to take up the scrip in the order in which it was issued.

Secretary Charles E. Gilbert said that a large share of this money will fall into the hands of persons who took the scrip from school employés at heavy discount, but said he saw no way of avoiding it. The payments, he said, will get under way within a week and preparations are being made to take up another $250,000 worth of scrip from tuition cash which is expected to be available within a short time.

Irvin A. Wilson, president of the Chicago Principals' club, following the meeting, said he considered that the board, to be fair, should pay all school employés or none.

The acute shortage of school seats and accommodations, aggravated this year by an unexpectedly large increase in enrollment, was called to the attention of the board by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan. "There are now more than 70,000 children faced with inadequate and irregular accommodations," he said.

COUNTY STARTS 1929 TAX SALE; BUYERS ARE FEW

Crowds of Speculators Absent This Time.

Sale of properties for nonpayment of 1929 taxes was started yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough in the county building. He placed on the auctioneer's block 264,616 parcels of city and country town real estate. The total tax bill on the delinquent properties amounts to $15,170,082.

The crowds of professional tax buyers who formerly gathered to bid against each other for the right to pay the taxes on choice parcels were absent. It is indicated that most of the properties will be forfeited to the state. The few tax buyers who were present said they were acting as agents for banks or mortgage companies seeking to protect mortgages held on the delinquent property. All declared there is no speculative tax buying this year.

Berwyn Realty on Block.

Yesterday the sale progressed through all the realty in Berwyn on which 1929 taxes have not been paid. The amount of property taken up by the tax buyers and that forfeited to the state could not be learned until the seven books in which the Berwyn property is listed are audited today.

Under a law passed by the last legislature the penalty for forfeiture of property to the state is 10 per cent a year of the tax bill. Formerly the penalty was 25 per cent a year. Although the delinquent taxpayer has no choice in the matter, county officials pointed out yesterday that it is better for him to have his property forfeited to the state than bought by the tax buyer. In neither case does the owner lose title to his property, though the title may be clouded.

The "buying" of delinquent property by a tax buyer consists of paying the taxes. The owner may redeem his property within a year by paying the tax bill and interest at the rate of 12 per cent for each six months following the sale. This money goes to the county and the county in turn refunds to the tax buyer the taxes which he has paid. The buyer also gets the interest paid by the property owner.

If the property is not redeemed at the end of the first year and the buyer pays the taxes for the second year, a tax deed, amounting to a lien on the property, is issued to him. In order to clear this cloud from the title the property owner must deal directly with the tax buyer and purchase the deed. The buyer, officials said, charges whatever sum he thinks the owner will pay.

Cases of Forfeited Property.

In cases where property is forfeited to the state the penalty of 10 per cent begins to operate after the property has been offered for sale and refused by the tax buyers. Between the date the taxes become delinquent—May 15 for the 1929 taxes—and the date of the sale a penalty of 1 per cent interest a month is assessed. The penalties and interest go to the county.

Each year the delinquent property is offered for sale. When it is forfeited over periods of years the owner still retains his title and may redeem the property at any time by paying taxes and penalties. The county board has the power to compromise such penalties and officials said the board has been known to allow owners to pay the total of the taxes and one year's penalty, even though the accumulated penalties for several years of delinquency would be much larger.

Loop Tax Hearings Begin.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday started hearings on the complaints of fifty-seven loop property owners, growing out of the action of the board of review in increasing valuations in the loop on the 1928 reassessment. The property owners assert that their holdings were overvalued by $22,000,000, increasing their taxes more than $1,000,000.

The Marshall Field and Potter Palmer estates, the University of Chicago, and the Chicago Board of Trade are among the objectors whose protests are being heard.

Attorney Lester L. Falk, representing the majority of the objectors, asserted that the board of review arbitrarily raised the value of the property in question without raising that of adjoining properties in the same proportion. There was no testimony yesterday, Judge Jarecki continuing the hearing until next Wednesday.

COUNTY TO MEET PAY ROLL OVERDUE THREE WEEKS TODAY

The 4,500 employés of Cook county will get their pay checks for the first half of August, overdue three weeks, today. Including the payment of mothers' and blind pensions, approximately $666,000 will be distributed. The county has recently collected, from various sources, $1,050,000, and there will be enough left from that sum, with some added fee collections expected soon, to meet pay rolls for the last half of August within a week.

RUBIO'S 2 SONS QUIT U. S. FOR CANADA SCHOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 9.—Guillermo and Fernando Rubio, sons of President Rubio of Mexico, will arrive at Bonaventure station tomorrow morning to make application for admission to McGill university. They are following their father's instructions to leave the United States to attend school in Canada.

The sons say their father made the change because of the shooting last spring of their young cousin, Emilio C. Rubio, and another Mexican youth by a deputy sheriff of Ardmore, Okla. They will be met upon their arrival here by the Mexican consul general.

The brothers have been attending St. Benedict's college in Atchison, Kas., and it was after their cousin and his friend, Manuel Garcia Gomez, had paid the Rubios a visit there that the two students were shot.

OPPOSES COSTLY BATTLE BY CITY OVER GAS RATE

Let Commerce Body Decide, Sexton Says.

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday announced that he is not inclined to involve the city in prolonged litigation with the gas company over the new rates to be charged to the consumer when natural gas piped from Texas is mixed with the manufactured product here in Chicago.

The announcement came as Ald. Jacob M. Arvey called a meeting for this morning of the council committee on gas, oil, and electricity, of which he is chairman. The committee will discuss action to be taken by the city before the Illinois commerce commission when hearings on the gas rates are started next week.

Says City Lacks Funds.

"The last time that the city became involved in a suit with the gas company it cost the taxpayers over a million dollars," Mr. Sexton recalled. "The city has no funds now with which to conduct costly litigation, and I think we should hesitate before jumping into the matter blindly.

"The Illinois commerce commission has experts and engineers to determine a proper rate to be charged. There seems to be no reason why the city should hire additional experts to duplicate their work. The city, of course, will be represented at the hearings."

A reduction of 2¼ per cent in rates to domestic consumers has been offered by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company if permission to mix natural gas with the manufactured gas is granted by the commission. The Illinois commerce commission has yet to grant this permission.

For Acceptance of Rate.

Ald. Arvey declared a belief that, pending the settlement of a fair rate, the city should ask the commerce commission to allow the proposed reduced rates to go into effect at once if permission to turn on the natural gas is granted. The committee is expected to instruct Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Grossman at the meeting today.

Ald. Arvey said the city should try to avoid lengthy litigation because of its financial condition. His committee has about $10,000 in its treasury to build. Whether this money could be turned over to the corporation counsel was doubted by several committee members.

SUTTONS OFFICES MOVED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Executive headquarters for the federal customs inspectors in the parcel post division of the postoffice has been moved temporarily while gambling activities are under way, according to Walter Wilde, collector of customs.

ACCUSES MATE OF TURNING THEIR SON AGAINST HER

Mrs. Irene A. Bowers charged yesterday that her husband, Francis, had turned their 14 year old son against her and that the boy had tried to hold her while his father struck her with his fist. The accusations were made in a bill for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court by Attorney David Branower.

Bowers, who is head of the real estate company bearing his name at 8 South Dearborn street, has an income of $16,000 a year, according to the bill. Judge Harry B. Miller granted Mrs. Bowers' plea for injunctions restraining her husband from disposing of his property and from molesting her. The Bowers have five children.

Probe Mystery Death for Poison Evidence

Coroner's Chemist Clarence W. Muehlberger yesterday began a chemical examination of the viscera of John Trojan, 36 years old, 2454 Lockwood avenue, a machinist, who died on Tuesday. Trojan, who was married, became ill of a mysterious ailment three weeks ago and was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. Friends of the dead man said yesterday that they believed he had been poisoned. The inquest was continued for two weeks until the result of the analysis is learned.

GUARDS CRUSH CONVICT REVOLT AND KILL ONE

Battle for an Hour in Utah Penitentiary.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A convict riot that flared for an hour today in the Utah state penitentiary left in its wake one convict dead, one guard believed fatally wounded, and a deputy warden, a guard, and two convicts injured.

A dozen convicts, armed with a revolver and crude bombs and knives, were held in check by the refusal of the warden and his deputy to capitulate to their demands for the surrender of the guards' weapons.

After riot calls had brought policemen, deputy sheriffs, and firemen swarming upon the wall to reinforce the guards and a company of National Guardsmen had been assembled in their armory with machine guns, the mutineers agreed to the demands of Warden R. E. Davis that they surrender and liberate two guards they had taken prisoner.

Louis Deathridge, 29, serving a term for robbery, was shot down from the wall by a guard as he was clambering up a rope ladder. C. L. Christensen, a guard attacked by the convicts, received a fractured skull and stab wounds that were expected to prove fatal. Deputy Warden Wilford F. Giles was cut in the hand and D. L. Rees, a guard, was beaten over the head.

Two convicts, Raymond Underwood and Joe Speel, were wounded by bullets of the guards.

Warden Davis said Delbert W. Pfouts and R. H. Elliott, by participating in today's riot, were subject to death. Each is serving a life term on a charge of murdering a jailer in an escape from the Grand county jail at Moab, Utah, two years ago.

Mrs. Brown also charged that her husband often came home drunk, beat her, and refused to allow her to sleep.

Prisoners Quizzed About Four Abductions.

to Decatur and concealed himself in the sheriff's office to watch the prisoners as they were being questioned. He told the lieutenant, the latter declared, that "Moore's voice bears a very strong resemblance" to the voice of one of the men who held him prisoner. Hackett was blindfolded almost immediately after he was seized in the grounds of the Navajo Fields Country club, west of Blue Island, and has only a hazy impression of the faces of his captors, he said.

He told reporters at the state's attorney's office yesterday, however, that he would not talk to them and would not tell them anything even if the suspects had been members of the gang which kidnaped him. This attitude was believed to have been caused by his reluctance to identify any of the five positively.

Roche expressed the belief that the prisoners perhaps were not the actual kidnapers but might be hangers-on of the ring who had valuable information.

Cusack Starts on Trail.

Cusack has been working on the case since he received information that James Ward of Chicago Heights, reputed bootlegger, was seeking vengeance on a gang which had kidnaped him twice. He was said to have paid $50,000 ransom for his release on the second occasion after his captors had held his leg over an automobile heater to bring him to terms.

With this information Cusack set out on a trail which led him from one source to another until the names of six or seven men had been obtained. These men were said to have had a rendezvous near Decatur. One of the first questions Cusack asked Moore was the location of this hideout.

"Forget that," replied the ex-convict. "I won't tell you anything about it."

Three Seized at Country Club.

Moore, Esslinger, and Luttrell were arrested Sunday night as they lurked near cottages on the grounds of the South Side Country club, five miles from Decatur. Moore had a revolver and Luttrell tossed away a gun as the police arrived.

They gave the explanation that they had been left there by friends to wait for other men in a second car. This gave rise to a rumor that some persons were seeking to take Moore for a ride because he had talked too much. Another rumor was that a gang was in Decatur Monday night looking for Moore, not knowing that he was in jail.

Esslinger and Luttrell say they are laborers in Springfield, but they will be held so that Wehrenberg may face them. He was kidnaped from a drug store in Springfield on July 30 at the point of a gun and was taken to a roadside near Decatur where his captors demanded, "How much money have you?"

Wehrenberg turned over the contents of his pockets, about $29.

"We must have the wrong man," one of the kidnapers complained, but he pocketed the money, nevertheless.

FEARS BOOZE

CHARLES ZAHARA.

BOTH KILLED AS CHIEF OF POLICE, EX-MAYOR DUEL

Hartford, Ala., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Chief of Police J. C. Roney and J. H. Radford, a former mayor of Hartford, enemies for years, stood in the main street here today with their left hands clasped on each other's shoulder and fought with pistols, killing each other.

A crowd, too dumfounded to interfere, watched the shooting.

The fight, arising from an argument over street grading, was over, witnesses said, before they were aware of what was taking place.

While the shooting was the direct result of a grading machine chipping the curbing before Radford's home, officers said the two men had been at odds for the last six months because of dry raids on the former mayor's filling stations.

Roney dropped with four bullet wounds in his body. He died within a few minutes. Radford also was wounded four times and died as he reached the operating room of a Dothan hospital.

Radford is survived by his widow and a daughter and Roney by his widow and four children.

STRAWN SAYS WE CAN ATTAIN 1925 PROSPERITY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Approval of President Hoover's unemployment relief committee was linked today by Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, with the assertion that business men are better able than politicians to deal with conditions.

"We must come to a realization of the patent fact that we canot expect to climb back immediately to the era of unprecedented prosperity which ended with the stock market debacle in the fall of 1929," Strawn said, "but we can, by the exercise of courage and determination, begin now to work our way back to the level of prosperity which obtained, say, in 1925."

BOOZE VICTIM FAILS IN PLEA FOR JAIL TERM

Put on Probation After Telling Story.

The story of Charles Zahara, 37 years old, a miner from Staunton, Ill., who came to Chicago a year ago to seek greater opportunities, but instead became a victim of prohibition booze, was told yesterday by the victim in a police cell. The ease with which liquor is obtained throughout the city proved too great a temptation for the young man, and although he worked steadily earning a good salary, he said he ended up after every pay day broke, drunk and discouraged.

"I had to do something," he said yesterday. "The booze was getting me. I started out Tuesday night with nearly $40 in my pocket and ended up with less than 25 cents. It has been the same since I have been here. I figured the only way out was to be sentenced to jail for six months where I couldn't get it."

Asks to Be Locked Up.

Zahara dragged himself into the garage of the Des Plaines street police station late Tuesday night, the effects of a spree just wearing off. There he asked Policeman Lawrence Manthey to lock him up for six months. The policeman was sympathetic, but told him to go home and "sleep it off."

However, Zahara was determined to reform—to take the "jail cure." He went to 4331 South Scramento avenue, where he is living with his married sister, Mrs. Theresa Corso, took his revolver and returned to the station. Again confronting Policeman Manthey, he threw the weapon at his feet. "Now will you lock me up?" he asked.

Fails to Get Sentence.

His request was granted and he spent the night in a cell. Yesterday he was arraigned before Judge Edward Casey in the Des Plaines street court charged with carrying concealed weapons.

His pleas to be locked up for six months were futile and Judge Casey, after learning the young man had no criminal record, placed him on probation for six months.

Zahara works as a gasket molder and averages $45 a week in wages.

"I thought I could do well in Chicago," he said, "but there is nothing but booze here wherever you go. You can't escape it. If you don't buy it for yourself, some one buys it for you."

Judge Issues Dry Law Writs Against 24 Places

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday issued 24 temporary injunctions against places charged with violating the national prohibition law. Among the places included in the list are the Breakfast club, 661 North Clark street, operated by John Berry and John H. McGovern; Lorena's restaurant, 65 West Grand avenue, operated by Jo Lorena, and the Dean Smoke shop, 508 North Clark street, operated by Cliff B. Dean.

BANDIT'S SHOES GIVE HIM AWAY; HE CONFESSES

McGraw is 24 years old and lives at 22d avenue and 18th street, North Riverside. Several weeks ago, Sergt. Fred J. Murphy and Detective Lawrence F. Maise of the Fillmore street station saw him riding in the stolen automobile of Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan. He abandoned the car and escaped, but a few days ago they arrested him.

Murphy and Maise brought in fifteen recent robbery victims, among them Michael Dworak, owner of a shoe store at 2749 West 22d street. Dworak looked at McGraw and said he was quite sure that he was the man who tried on a pair of shoes in his store on Aug. 25, then threatened him with a gun and walked out with the shoes and $97.

Thirteen holdup complaints have already been signed against McGraw.

WHAT IT IS — EDISON SERVICE — WHAT IT DOES

WHY YOUR DOLLAR BUYS MORE LIGHT

Efficiency, Economy tell the whole story

IN Chicago today every dollar spent for electric light buys three times as much actual illumination as it did in 1910.

That is because EDISON SERVICE, ever since it has been the stand-by of Chicago homes, has recognized two major obligations to Chicago householders:

1—To raise the standard of living by making available new uses of its product which lessen the labor and add to the health and comfort of the household;

2—To lower the cost of living by decreasing the unit price of its product through economies in production and distribution accomplished by its management, and by providing for the home lamps and other appliances of higher efficiency.

These twin processes of increasing the field and efficiency of its service and of reducing the unit cost of that service, have been going on throughout the forty-odd years that EDISON SERVICE has been in existence.

Throughout these years the prices of commodities which enter into what is commonly called "The Cost of Living" have gone up when times were good, and down when times were bad. But throughout these years, in good times and bad, the unit cost of EDISON SERVICE has steadily gone down.

The unit of measure in the purchase of EDISON SERVICE is the kilowatt-hour. By that yard-stick alone the price paid for household service today is less than one-half that of 1910—4.57 cents per kilowatt-hour in 1930, against 9.61 cents in 1910.

The price per kilowatt-hour of electric service is not the only test of the increased purchasing power of the dollar the householder spends for such service, however. Increased efficiency in lamps and appliances help just about as much. In the case of light, increased lamp efficiency has added a whole dollar to the purchasing power of the 1910 dollar that was spent for light.

Like increases in efficiency, which add to the buying power of the electric dollar, have been and are being made in every household appliance using EDISON SERVICE.

ALCOCK REVEALS HIS PLANS FOR POLICE CHANGES

Cermak Again Denies He Favors Shakeup.

Immediately after Mayor Cermak had reiterated yesterday that he contemplated no changes in the police department, Acting Police Commissioner Alcock revealed that he has made definite plans for reorganization of the police department upon lines designed to rehabilitate the force.

Mayor Cermak pounded his desk in emphasis of his statement that the present acting commissioner was safe in his job. And Acting Commissioner Alcock's following statement indicated that the reports that Morgan A. Collins, chief of police under Mayor Dever, would soon be appointed commissioner, were at least premature.

Alcock in Full Charge.

"Alcock is commissioner of police and I have given him complete charge of the police department," declared the mayor. "When any changes are made an announcement will be made by me. I told Alcock to use his own judgment in picking men for positions and not to pay any attention to their political or other affiliations.

"I told him to chase the loafers and put reliable and hard working men in their places. Placing of young, active men at the detective bureau will make the others speed up because the new men won't be members of any clique."

The mayor declared that rumors of a shakeup demoralized the morale of the department because men who were doing a certain kind of work feared that they would be put on something else if there was a change. He announced that the Garfield school, 1435 Newberry avenue, abandoned by the school board, was being remodeled and will be used as a training school.

"I want all 'soft snaps' in the police department abolished," he asserted in conclusion.

Alcock Tells His Ideas.

Soon afterwards Acting Commissioner Alcock, usually very close mouthed about his plans for the department, revealed some of his ideas for betterment of the force.

A physical and mental examination of every man on the force is now being undertaken, the acting commissioner said. The same tests will be given to rookies and veterans of two years or more.

At the present time Acting Commissioner Alcock is personally examining for their mental worth the 134 veterans of the department who are over 65 years old.

Finds Most of Them Useful.

"Eighty-five per cent of these older men are normal and efficient mentally," he declared. "Even if their physical condition does not compare with that of the younger men, I find that they are of great value to the department because of their experience and knowledge. I am placing them where they can work to the best advantage."

Acting Commissioner Alcock said he had found of value the suggestions made by Bruce Smith, police authority, who, at the expense of Elmer Stevens, made a thorough investigation of police conditions during the regime of Commissioner William F. Russell.

Guns to Be Tested in Inquiry on Girl's Death

The coroner's office will make ballistic tests this morning of bullets and guns found in the apartment at 6251 Blackstone avenue of Patrick ("Buck") Gavin, city plumbing inspector, and former professional football player, where Evelyn Danielson, 22 years old, a beauty operator, was found shot to death Sunday. The inquest has been continued to Sept. 15. Gavin is held.

SENATOR SWIFT'S WIDOW ATTACKS NUPTIAL PACT

Sues to Void Contract as Fraudulent.

A bill to set aside an ante-nuptial contract was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan on behalf of Mrs. Mary Hannon Swift, widow of former State Senator Rodney B. Swift, who died March 21. Mrs. Swift charges that the contract, by which she agreed to waive all rights to her husband's estate upon his death, was fraudulent and should be declared void. Swift left an estate of $450,000.

Defendants in the action are Mrs. Swift's three children, Genevieve Swift, 17 years old; Rodney, 13 years old, and Francis, 8 years old, and the Northern Trust company, their appointed guardian. The children live with their mother at 661 Crofton avenue, Highland Park.

Signed on Eve of Wedding.

Mrs. Swift declared in her bill that two hours before her marriage on March 16, 1912, Swift took her to the offices of Attorney Conrad H. Sippel in Chicago and requested her to sign the agreement. By its terms she was to keep full control of her small estate, which she had gained as a trained nurse, and upon her husband's death, if they were not living apart, she was to receive $25,000. Mrs. Swift was to be given $5,000 worth of bonds if she signed the contract.

She signed the agreement on Swift's advice, Mrs. Swift claimed, without knowing that he was a wealthy man. Her bill charges that she was never given the bonds, that $25,000 is "unjust, unreasonable and grossly disproportionate to his means," and that this sum would be inadequate to maintain her in the style to which she has been accustomed.

The state senator died without leaving a will. The agreement, Mrs. Swift charged, is a cloud on the title of the estate and should be destroyed. She insisted that her husband before his death agreed that the contract was unfair and meant to remedy the matter.

When she and Swift were married, she was 22 and her husband was 54 years old.

Former State Senator Swift was an attorney and associated with the International Harvester company for a number of years. He entered the state senate in 1916 and was reelected two subsequent terms.

MONEY CIRCULATION OF U. S. RISES 214 MILLIONS IN MONTH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The treasury today said per capita circulation of money in the United States increased $1.66 in August and money circulated during the month totaled $5,051,333,592.

The latter figure showed an increase of approximately $214,000,000, as compared with the $4,837,084,512 in circulation on July 31. The per capita increased from $38.65 in July to $40.31 at the end of August.

Total money in the country increased $206,872,061 to $9,360,175,387. Of this amount $4,993,937,387 was in gold, of which the treasury held $3,780,864,624, with $1,213,072,253 held outside the government vaults. Federal reserve banks and agents held $850,625,638.

Realty Dealer Seized by U. S. on Rum Charge

William H. Suchier was arrested by deputy United States marshals yesterday in his real estate offices at 25 North Dearborn street on a bench warrant issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes charging him with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law. His bond was set at $2,000. The action was the result of testimony given in the trial of Paul Parris, alleged operator of a small brewery at 1219 North Wells street.

HOLDUP VICTIM SLAYS ROBBER WITH OWN GUN

One of four bandits who held up a stockyards worker was shot to death with his own pistol by their victim early this morning in front of 4854 Throop street. The slain robber was Andrew Baholick, 20 years old, 4820 South Ada street, who, police say, has a record and is under indictment for the theft of an automobile.

The man who did the slaying is Andrew Hladan, 1317 West 49th place. He was on his way home from a party where there had been some drinks, he told the police, when he was set upon by the robber quartet and severely beaten. One of the robbers took $7 from him. He said he did not clearly remember how he got the bandit's gun, but it was with that weapon the shooting was done. Police said they were satisfied the story was true.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—For the first time in five years five out of city judges are sitting in the vacation term of the United States District court in an effort to clear up the congested criminal dockets.

GEO. MEDALIE. [U. & U. Photo.]

Even with the elimination of the more than 200 "deadwood" cases from the criminal calendar, which United States Attorney George Z. Medalie has ordered nolle prossed, the indictments are creeping ahead of the number of dispositions of criminal cases.

The assignment of the five judges is in line with Mr. Medalie's drive to clean up the criminal calendar which he instituted with the coöperation of Presiding Judge John C. Knox.

From South and West.

The judges are from the south and west. Judge T. Blake Kennedy of Wyoming is sitting in the mail fraud trial of the Bankers' Capital corporation. Judge Harry B. Anderson, who last month disposed of hundreds of prohibition cases, is sitting in the case of Santo Sarfi, an alien charged with fraud in getting an extension of his permit to remain in the United States.

In another section of the court Judge John E. Martineau or Arkansas today opened the trial of Pauline Roth, accused of sending obscene literature through the mails in the alleged sale of the late D. H. Lawrence's book, "Lady Chatterly's Lover."

Floridan Hears Dry Cases.

Judge Halstead R. Ritter of Florida is hearing prohibition cases.

Judge Robert T. Ervin, the fifth of the assigned judges, is hearing the Matzoth anti-trust case.

The vacation period extends to Oct. 1, each federal judge getting three months' holiday a year. During this time the indictments pile up as usual and an especially lengthy trial gives the calendar a chance to get in advance of the federal attorneys' office.

Mr. Medalie this year decided to meet the situation by asking for the assignment of three extra judges.

WOMEN'S LETTERS FIGURE IN SLAYING OF POLICE CHIEF

Bernardsville, N. J., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Eighteen letters in women's handwriting addressed to Chief of Police Charles J. Cavanaugh and removed from his private files in police headquarters a few hours after he had been shot to death on the porch of his home gave a new twist to the murder mystery today.

Clyde Wolfe, head of the Suburban Protection association, lifelong friend of Cavanaugh's, was arraigned before Recorder Arthur A. Palmer on a charge of obstructing justice by concealing the letters and other documents taken from the file. He was held in $500 bail. Wolfe is the son-in-law of a former Bernardsville police chief.

What women wrote the letters or what possible bearing they might have on the murder has not been established, according to C. A. Cranmer, Somerset county prosecutor. He said a certain number of the letters are believed to have been written by a married woman who lives in Morristown.

SEEK TO PICK UP TRAIL OF POWERS AT EAST CHICAGO

Woman Says He Operated There.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 9.—[Special.—Coöperation of East Chicago, Ind., police was enlisted in an attempt to shed additional light upon the clouded life of Harry F. Powers, West Virginia Bluebeard.

CARL B. SOUTHERN.

Carl B. Southern, city detective, dispatched a telegram to the Indiana police today following receipt of a letter from Mrs. Jesse Shirren of Jackson, Miss., who wrote: "I am sure he [Powers] is the same man who brought his dirty work into our state a few years ago and gave me cause to want a noose drawn around his neck. I am sure you can look around East Chicago, Ind., for other victims."

Following Powers' arrest, his fingerprints were sent to the department of justice and the war department in Washington, but no records were found in the files. This, officers say, proves that Powers did not serve in the army as he has maintained. Fingerprints were also sent to the bureau of identification at Washington, but no report has been received.

Attorneys for the estate of Mrs. Dorothy Lemke of Northboro, Mass., one of Bluebeard's victims, plan to take the necessary steps to make Attorney Law reveal under oath what Powers' safety deposit box contained.

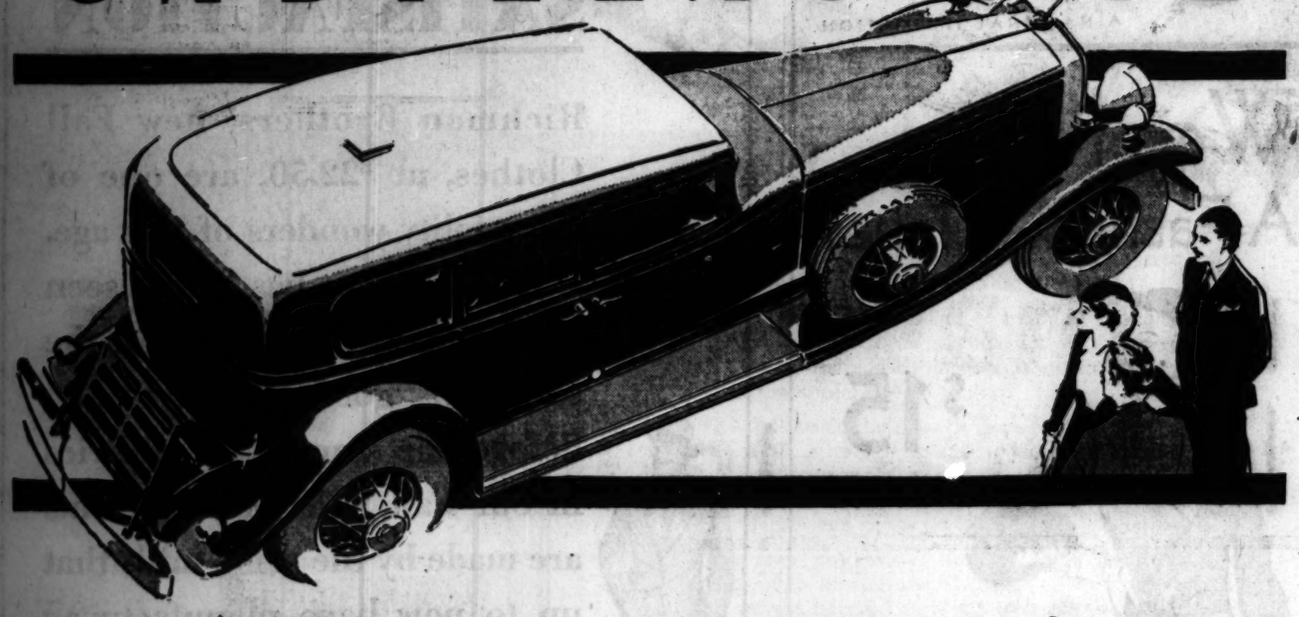
CADILLAC V-12



We promise a revelation when you first drive a Cadillac V-12

As the automotive industry advances, it becomes increasingly obvious that the foundation of motoring luxury is the engine itself.

Other units of the car, of course, must be designed and built to standards comparably high—but unless there is this basis of luxury in the engine, there can be no luxury in the car.

It is because its engine is so very fine that those who are driving the Cadillac V-12 are so generally outspoken in its praise.

It is a literal truth that they have never known such luxurious performance as they now enjoy—for, excepting the V-16 alone, there has never before been an engine like that of the Cadillac V-12.

To describe this car's performance is next to impossible—but to experience it, first-hand, is to get an impression you will never forget.

At every speed, the V-12 is almost completely silent. Even when you accelerate suddenly, you hear no laboring—sense no strain. You have a feeling that liquid power is taking hold of your car, and rushing you ahead with almost unbelievable swiftness.

And since the rest of the chassis and the body is engineered to the same exceptional degree of quietness, your ride becomes simply an effortless movement through space.

To be thus transported, almost without a hint of mechanical propulsion, is to enjoy a sense of power and luxury that never loses its thrill. In fact, V-12 owners drive their cars much farther, month after month, than they ever drove a motor car before.

We should like, extremely, to have you come in and drive a Cadillac V-12. Or, if you prefer, telephone—and a car will be sent to your home.

$3795 up f. o. b. Detroit

GOV. ROOSEVELT ACCUSES U. S. OF FOOL FINANCING

Denounces Recent 800 Million Bond Issue.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York governor and potential Democratic presidential nominee, tonight took issue with the latest financial plan of President Hoover's cabinet.

In an address at a dinner given annually to a large number of farmers and agricultural organizations, the governor advised his home state it would be "very foolish" to follow the precedent established by the federal government in floating an $800,000,000 long term bond issue to "cure the defects of a budget." The bond issue plan has been credited to Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury.

Gov. Roosevelt admonished particularly against the use of such a plan by New York state to meet emergencies imposed by the economic depression, asserting that "we cannot and must not borrow against the future" because "depression is today's problem."

Publisher Is Host.

The dinner was given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard.

In the address the governor repeated his long standing policy of having any government pay expenses as they arise instead of creating a debt through long bond issues to be paid off in futures years. Drawing an analogy between a government and an individual, he said the individual would be at his "rope's end" if he met his current deficits by borrowing against his capital, unless "it should happen that the luck of fools takes care of him."

"I don't believe," he went on, "in banking on fool's luck as applied to the public finances, in spite of the fact that it has come to the rescue of some communities and some divisions of government in this nation at times in the past."

Criticizes U. S. Policy.

Swinging directly into the current depression and governmental plans for tiding it over, the governor said:

"Times of depression such as the present ought to teach us something about public financing and public thrift. They ought to teach us that we can't expect to be immune from periods of stress and difficulty and that we will be in poor shape to meet such emergencies if we have a mounting burden of debt crushing us when they come upon us.

"Right now we have to consider how to meet such an emergency. Shall we meet it according to the example of our federal government, which feels itself obliged to put out eight hundred million dollars of long term bonds to cure the defects of a budget whose revenues have not come up to expectations?

"I think we should be very foolish and recreant to our trust if we should follow any such precedent. We don't know what the future holds for us. This depression is today's problem. The state must act in the emergency to prevent the most dire distress among its own citizens, distress which private agencies admit they are unable to alleviate except in part."

GANDHI PREFERS "PROTECTION OF GOD" TO POLICE

S. S. RAJPUTANA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi would rather not have detectives watching over him day and night when he gets to London for the round table conference.

"If anybody—communist, anarchist, or revolutionist—wants my poor life he can have it," he said today. "It's all I have to give for the cause of Indian independence. God is my only protector."

His colleagues wirelessed British officials that the Mahatma preferred to cover the last leg of the journey from the English coast as an ordinary traveler by train rather than by automobile as the government is planning.

AL SMITH OUT, SAYS N. Y. PAPER; BOOMS BAKER

Ex-Governor Will Not Confirm Story.

New York, Sept. 9.—The New York Evening Post said today in a copyrighted story from Washington it had learned on "impeccable authority" that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would not be a candidate for the 1932 Democratic nomination and would not allow his name to go before the Democratic convention.

The dispatch said that the ex-governor was planning a fight in the convention for a straight out and out wet plank, and that forces opposing the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt were concentrating on Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, as their candidate.

"They hope to have an open declaration from Mr. Baker of his candidacy," the story said. "Up to the present Mr. Baker merely has let it be known he is a receptive candidate.

Expect Announcement Soon.

"Mr. Baker will address the convention of the American Legion in Detroit in about two weeks. The Legion is pretty solidly for him for President, so it is probable that this speech will mark the beginning of his active candidacy.

"Ex-Gov. Smith is going to make his fight in the Democratic national convention for the plank proposed by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee—the so-called home rule, which provides for retaining federal prohibition only as it applies to states which desire to remain dry and leaves the other states, on a referendum of their voters, free to adopt their own methods of liquor control.

"Mr. Smith has been cool to the Roosevelt candidacy, but it is not believed he will openly oppose the present New York governor unless an issue arises between them over prohibition."

Unauthorized, Smith Says.

Mr. Smith, reached by the Associated Press at Canoe Place, L. I., said he knew nothing about the published story. The principal paragraphs were read to him.

"No one is authorized to speak for me," he said with emphasis. "That statement did not come from me. I gave out no announcement. I have no statement to make."

When read the statement that he would fight for a home rule wet plank he refused comment.

He also refused to say anything amout the statement that opponents of Gov. Roosevelt were concentrating upon Baker, and he was likewise silent after listening to the paragraph that referred to his "coolness" toward the Roosevelt candidacy and suggesting a possible split with Gov. Roosevelt over prohibition.

"My sweetheart smokes 'em . . .

"NOW, you know, Bob was raised in a tobacco country. He has worked in two cigarette factories; and I have heard him say all of them are just the same. He says there are a lot of pipes and things like that running through the roofs of the factories and sometimes they look different, but that the way cigarettes are made is all the same.

"Bob says all tobaccos receive the same sort of drying—heat treatment, he called it. In one factory, he says, they may talk about 'baking' the tobaccos and in another they call it another name. He says what they actually do is to 'dry' the tobaccos—reduce the moisture in them—and that the machine that they all use is called a 'Dryer.'

"But when it comes to the quality of tobacco, that's quite a different story, so Bob says; some factories use mild, ripe tobacco, while others think that thick heavy tobacco is good enough. Bob knows tobacco and he tells me that it takes good tobacco—mild and ripe—to make a cigarette as good as CHESTERFIELD.

"You know how it is when a piece of fruit tastes just right—not raw or sharp or too ripe or tasteless—just pleasing and satisfying. Well, that's the way it is with CHESTERFIELD—they just suit me right down to the ground—they satisfy."

HOOVER PRAISES RED CROSS FOR 50 YEAR RECORD

Calls It a Product and Asset of Democracy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover today hailed the Red Cross as a national "monument to individual and local initiative."

Speaking in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first chapter at Dansville, N. Y., by Clara Barton, the President praised the Red Cross for its activities in the prevention of suffering and asserted that its continued success proved "the ability of a democracy to create from the people themselves the agencies for their service."

While the President did not refer to the part the Red Cross is to play in the national unemployment relief program this winter, he did state that this charity organization has become the nation's assurance of adequate, prompt and efficient handling of any catastrophe within our borders. He added that in its lifetime it has expended one billion dollars in the relief of human distress.

Tribute to Clara Barton.

"It is the flowering of the spiritual impulse to serve the common need," he said. "It represents both the common impulse of sympathetic help and the mechanism for its practical expression."

The warmest tribute was paid by Mr. Hoover to Clara Barton for founding the Red Cross and to the womanhood of the nation for carrying on her work. He stated that women's interest in the prevention of suffering and in ministrations of mercy is the foundation of the Red Cross organization.

"The law provides," said the President in beginning his address, "that the chief executive of the nation shall also be the president of the American National Red Cross. This fact adds to the sense of personal pleasure in the privilege which I have today of greeting those who have assembled at Dansville, N. Y., to commemmorate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Clara Barton chapter, No. 1, the first Red Cross chapter in America. This chapter has the distinction of being organized by Clara Barton herself in 1881. It is a great distinction which your chapter enjoys both for the association with Miss Barton and as the beginners of one of the most beneficent institutions of our history.

Grows to 20 Million Members.

"The nation joins in your celebration because of the success of the great humanitarian agency which sprang from the mind of Clara Barton and the spirit of your community. The establishment of the pioneer chapter in the village of Dansville was the forerunner of 3,500 chapters now in existence throughout the United States, enrolling at times of national need as many as twenty million members."

"In its lifetime the Red Cross has raised and expended nearly a billion of money in the relief of human distress. The national organization has become our nation's assurance of adequate, prompt and efficient handling of any catastrophe within our borders. It is the flowering of the spiritual impulse to serve the common need. It represents both the common impulse of sympathetic help and the mechanism for its practical expression. It stands as a monument to individual and local initiative. It proves the ability of a democracy to create from the people themselves the agencies for their service.

Women Foundation of Service.

"More than a century has passed since Clara Barton was born. And it may be well said that the institution was not only founded by a noble woman but it has been carried on very largely by the womanhood of our country. The fifty years which have passed since the pioneer beginning have written a chapter in the world-wide relief of human suffering which is a fitting memorial to Miss Barton and a proud tradition to her countrymen.

"Women's interest in the prevention of suffering and in ministrations of mercy to those in sickness, peril and need, is the foundation of the Red Cross organization which has been fittingly described as 'the greatest mother of them all.' To Miss Barton, Miss Mabel Boardman and the many thousands of other devoted women, in all localities of this broad land, the cause of prompt, effective and sympathetic alleviation of suffering and distress owes its debt of gratitude and remembrance."

DROPS DEAD OF HEART ATTACK.

SHOT BY ROBBER

MRS. JOHN SAPIENZA.

Mrs. Sadie Sapienza, 19 years old, 325 Menomonee street, yesterday shot one of a pair of bandits who invaded her home posing as prohibition agents and was herself shot by his confederate. Both will probably die, physicians said.

The man she shot is Tony Zarcone, 1236 Penn street. Police are seeking his companion, believed to be his brother. They entered the house where Mrs. Sapienza lives with her child, her father, Frank Benanti, an employé of the city water pipe extension bureau, and her mother and announced that they were prohibition agents come to search the house.

Mrs. Sapienza snatched Zarcone's revolver from his hand and shot him below the heart. The other man, who was rifling a trunk, then shot her three times in the body. She was taken to the German Deaconess hospital. Zarcone fled from the house, but collapsed on the sidewalk outside. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

4 NATIONS URGE LEAGUE TO PRESS WORLD ARMS CUT

Insist Something Must Be Done About It Soon.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Spokesmen of four nations today warned the league of nations assembly that disarmament is the most urgent problem facing the league this year and something must be done about it soon.

M. K. YOSHIZAWA. [Acme Photo.]

The proposal put forward by Italy yesterday to arrange an immediate armaments truce pending the outcome of the coming general disarmament conference was not mentioned, however, by any of these spokesmen.

Sir B. L. Mitter, India's delegate, began the discussion by suggesting that perhaps the time had come for the great powers "to establish their moral preëminence" by achieving something definite in the way of disarmament.

Japan Backs Plea.

M. K. Yoshizawa, the Japanese spokesman, likewise emphasized that, of all the problems calling for the league's effort, "the problem of reduction and limitation of armaments holds, beyond question, first place."

Japan's army, he said, already had been reduced to 65 per cent of its pre-war strength and Japan was faithfully carrying out its naval limitation agreement, but "although the Japanese government is ready to make all these efforts in full agreement with other governments to contribute to the success of the general conference it is very anxious that all powers whose situation closely affects the national defense of Japan should make similar efforts."

Canada Adds Its Voice.

Hugh Guthrie, Canada's representative, urged postponement of all incidental questions "until the supreme, the all-important question of world peace shall have been placed upon a more firm and satisfactory basis than that on which it rests today." He declared Canada's adherence to the principle of "arbitration, security, and disarmament."

The controversy over whether security must precede disarmament in this formula (France has consistently maintained that security must precede disarmament) was described as futile by D. J. Ghika of Rumania.

"It would be useless, however," he added, "to expect that after such a disastrous war as the last one and in the present state of society the nations should lay down their arms before they are in a position to establish security."

Mexico Approves Joining League.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The senate tonight unanimously ratified Mexico's acceptance of an invitation to join the league of nations. At the same time, the foreign office published its message of acceptance, which was cabled to Geneva today, in which it is made plain that Mexico does not recognize the Monroe doctrine, mentioned in article XXI. of the league covenant.

Police Forbid Ex-Kaiser's Son to Address Fascists

KIEL, Germany, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former Kaiser, was forbidden by police today to speak at a Fascist meeting which was to have been held tonight. Police said they feared his appearance might cause disturbances.

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS REJECT ITALY'S PLAN FOR TRUCE IN ARMS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—With an emphasis which exposes once more the almost insurmountable differences dividing European powers upon the issue of disarmament, Dino Grandi's suggestions before the league of nations assembly yesterday for a truce in armaments were unanimously rejected today by the press of this country. From nearly all sections of public opinion, with the exception of the Socialists, sharp criticisms were made of "Italian tactics," and there is unanimity of opinion that the Italian foreign minister's speech was written with a view to pleasing both Washington and Berlin.

The Journal des Debats declares that, with policies so far apart and conditions as they are upon the continent, the disarmament conference scheduled for next February presents great danger to peace.

L'Intransigeant says there can be no doubt that Grandi's speech was the outcome of American Secretary of State Stimson's visit to Rome.

LEAGUE INVITES AMERICA TO JOIN 'ON OWN TERMS'

Proposes U.S. Appoint an Official 'Ambassador.'

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—A bunch of American newspapermen, a French cabinet member and an anonymous person who can only be described as the "highest authority of the league," got together over liqueurs in a back room of a Geneva café this afternoon and launched, or watched the launching of a campaign to get the United States into the Geneva fold.

During this huddle—a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association of Paris for the French minister—the gentleman termed the "league's highest authority," issued an invitation to the United States to come to Geneva on its own terms, with or without adherence to the league covenant.

U. S. Would Name "Ambassador."

It was specifically suggested that a high ranking diplomat be appointed to a permanent post at Geneva as "ambassador" to the league without authority to engage his government in any way, but with the understanding that he would be America's official representative and not a mere unofficial observer, as the United States is now represented.

The speaker indicated that if there were any signs of favorable sentiment to his proposal the league would take the initiative in sending an official invitation to Washington.

An unofficial invitation went out tonight to millions of American citizens over a nation-wide radio hookup. It was presented in the persuasive accent of William Hard, former Chicago newspaperman, a lean jawed, leather faced, pocket sized veteran Washington correspondent and intimate of President Hoover. Hard, who is said once to have been an active opponent of the league but has become a convert to limited participation by America, told of the plan in the news talk he delivers nightly into a microphone hooked up with the trans-Atlantic telephone.

How Move Was Started.

It was Hard himself who drew the invitation from the league spokesman. He suggested the idea of America appointing an "ambassador" to the league without at the same time signing the covenant, and asked how the Geneva officials would receive such a move, whether they would shut the door in the American delegate's face or kiss him on both cheeks.

"My dear sir, we would kiss his feet if he wanted it," the league authority replied.

He further declared the league would be only too delighted to be recognized by the United States under any conditions, and would nowise be disappointed if she demurred at signing the covenant. He concluded by saying he thought that very shortly Washington would swing around to this viewpoint, not in order to help the league, but to further America's own interests.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGOLAND

1. Make Chicago the First City in the World.
2. Start the Subway.
3. Electrify the Railroads.
4. Abolish the Smoke Pall.
5. Separate Grades of Boulevards and of Through Streets.
6. Continue the War on Crime.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CONTINUE THE WAR ON CRIME.

The sixth plank in THE TRIBUNE'S Platform for Chicagoland at the head of this page has been changed. Formerly it read: "End the Reign of Gangdom." The new plank reads: "Continue the War on Crime."

It is no longer just to speak of the reign of gangdom in Chicago. There are many gangsters still at large, plying their trade of murder and extortion, but they no longer can be said to rule this community. Many of them are under sentence, if they are not already in jail. Others are facing trial in the state and federal courts. Recent elections have removed from state and local office the more notorious of the political allies of the gangs. The morale of the gangsters is broken.

Ever since the successful prosecution of Brothers the evidences that the gangsters are in retreat have been accumulating. One may still speak of the reign of gangdom in New York, but not in Chicago. Here the worst and hardest part of the struggle is past. What is needed here is a continuance of the pressure now being applied. Any weakening, of course, will serve to restore the gangsters to power.

A LESSON FROM FINLAND.

Finland, like the United States, is trying the prohibition experiment, and the Federation of Finnish Judges have been moved by their observations of its effects to address the government. Their experience in the administration of the law entitles them, they think, to speak with authority, and they are worthy of attention in our country.

The judges estimate that liquor consumption has increased about 50 per cent under the prohibition regime, and over 100,000 individuals are convicted annually of offenses against the dry law. The federation asserts that prohibition is not supported by the nation and that a large part of the people openly repudiate it, thus undermining legal order and increasing crime. The judges, especially, note and deplore the spread of drinking among the younger generation, which they declare is threatening its moral and physical stamina.

Finland, compared to the United States, is a small country, with a population of 3,611,000, or a little more than half that of Illinois. If the device of compelling total abstinence by force of law could be expected to work at all it should be at least reasonably successful in so small a jurisdiction. Instead it appears to be as great a failure there as in this continental nation of 123 millions and for the same reason. The Finns are a liberty loving people of strong character and intelligence, and they consider prohibition an unjustifiable and mischievous intrusion of government into the proper realm of private conscience and conduct. Obedience to the law in such circumstances cannot be counted upon, for laws must have something better than the cachet of a ruling power. They must have the sanction of the common conscience. This is inherent in the nature of government and prohibition cannot be successful until it wins this sanction, which it has not now and shows no signs of achieving. On the contrary, it has checked the advance of the only temperance worth having, that which is voluntary.

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the division of far eastern affairs, addressing a gathering at Holyoke, Mass., gave a survey of the course of American international and domestic policies which deserves the pondering of his countrymen. He points out that in spite of our traditional opposition to foreign entanglements we have now under the initiative of President Hoover "taken the lead in effecting a moratorium of war debts and reparation payments," that we are preparing to go next year into the world disarmament conference at Geneva, that as to our internal affairs, "a country which has been not at all receptive to the idea of state socialism has been for some years past engaged in helping its citizens combat the undesirable evils of organized traffic in alcohol," and that while we have been most positive in asserting the benefits of economic individualism, we have appropriated half a billion dollars to "assist farmers to organize and coördinate their efforts under the direction and with the support of the government."

Dr. Hornbeck might have given a much longer list of activities illustrating our departure from the basic principles of the American political and economic system, but his examples are enough to give any citizen who still regards his American heritage as worthy of respect ample food for meditation. They illustrate indeed the most important fact in our public life, a current of influence and action which is carrying us far away from the fundamental character of the American experiment in democracy, a drift unhappily obscured by our private preoccupations, though now, we hope, emerging into the foreground under the pressure of our present difficulties.

The questions presented to us are whether we are gradually and almost unconsciously to abandon our policy of political independence in international affairs, and whether we are in the same manner to suffer the loss of our system of individual liberty and democracy in exchange for socialism and an all powerful bureaucratic state. These, it must be clear, are the most important questions raised in American history, and they cannot be shirked. They have been answering themselves in a way which a people who wish to direct their own destiny as free men cannot afford to permit. The decision now lies below the surface of the nation's consciousness. It is going by default. It must be brought forth where all can see it, to know its significance and give it the sanction of our deliberate judgment, whichever way it goes.

We may, indeed, decide to surrender our political independence and walk back into the wrangling household of old world politics from which our forefathers fled. We may, indeed, barter our splendid heritage for a mess of pottage, we may surrender our great adventure in human liberty and put our necks in the yoke of bureaucratic rule, we may give up our faith in progress through the freeman and embrace the ancient fallacy of the benign state. But at least we shall know what we are doing, as we do not now.

THE FUTURE OF INDIA.

The impression has gone out that Mahatma Gandhi consented to go to London only after he had been assured by British spokesmen that India, in effect, would be accorded a dominion form of government, different somewhat in detail, but not in essentials, from the government of Canada or Australia. To any who may have thought that the English were prepared to go that far in reorganizing the government of India, the summary of the Gandhi-Irwin agreement must have come with something of a shock. While it is true that India is to have a somewhat larger measure of self-government than formerly, the control of the situation is still left secure in English hands.

For the present and the indefinite future the viceroy is to remain an appointee of the London government, and the viceroy has complete control of the armed forces in India and of foreign relations. The legislative authority is vested in two houses, one of which will be dominated by the native princes and the other elected at large. As the native princes will continue to owe their sovereignty to the imperial forces in India, the viceroy will continue to have a powerful leverage to exert in guiding legislation. He can play one house against the other, and, accordingly, he can continue to hold India safely within the British scheme of things.

In principle this is described as dominion government, but in fact it is far from being what dominion government is. Under this scheme there is no reason to anticipate any marked departure from traditional British imperial rule in India, provided, of course, that the London government is able to find viceroys sufficiently adroit to retain the upper hand. The probability that such men can be found is great. England has not lacked for skilled diplomats. They dominated Europe in the century preceding the war, and no doubt others will be found to carry on their work now. The agreement with Gandhi is itself an evidence that British diplomacy has lost none of its finesse.

A TARIFF ON KNOWLEDGE.

The determination of the Canadian government to place a tariff upon foreign magazines raises a question of great importance. Canada, of course, did not invent the tariff on printed matter. Many countries, including ours, have sought to protect their printing trades through import duties, and we would be the last to suggest that this policy is wholly without justification. Any country which adopts such a policy, however, must realize that in a measure it is denying its people the benefit of the thought and experience of the rest of the world in all fields of human activity and knowledge. The question arises whether that is not too high a price to pay.

Certainly a blanket tariff on printed matter is difficult to justify. Scientific publications, publications in foreign languages, and serious publications generally ought to be circulated as widely as possible, whatever the country of their origin, and there is probably little disposition in most countries to interfere with their importation. The trouble comes, of course, in drawing the line between the serious and the frivolous. To a manufacturer of women's dresses a Parisian style review is a serious publication, though it probably would be regarded very differently by those not in the clothing business. To a student of sociology an English sporting journal can be a document of utmost significance, though not even the editor of the paper would so regard it.

Tariff makers formerly were careful to guard against too much exclusion of printed matter.

ST. LOUIS PINEAPPLE OUTRAGES.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

In New York a meeting of 20,000 citizens was held to protest against the immunity for crime in that city.

If nobody is quite ready to summon such a meeting of intent citizens in St. Louis, a condition against which little headway seems to be made is not to be ignored. A summary records almost a score of high explosive outrages in the city and county caused by a "pineapple" gang since Jan. 1 last. Police estimates of the loss after each outrage foot up to a total of more than $125,000.

Some of these outrages were due to labor troubles and others to feuds between rival gangsters or gamblers, and in the case of others not enough could be ascertained from those affected to hazard a guess as to the motive.

Of two remarkable facts that stand out in the series, one is that, despite the violence of the explosions, not a single life happily was taken and injuries inflicted were slight. These are thus placed within the class of crimes in which the objective is sought through intimidation—racketeering crimes. Persons of supposed means are not kidnaped for the purpose of taking their lives. They are made captive to extort ransom. The "pineapple" is used, not as a weapon against life and limb, but to force consent to some valuable consideration.

The second outstanding fact is that in only one instance has this long succession of outrages been followed by warrants and arrests, even on suspicion.

VACCINATION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA.

In New York state the policy of controlling diphtheria by vaccination campaigns has been used for more than five years. Dr. Palmer's study shows that New York has had exceptional success in controlling diphtheria. A good part of this is attributable to vaccination against the disease.

The honor of leading all other New York cities in this particular goes to Middletown. In 1929 more than 70 per cent of all children under five years of age had been immunized. By 1930 it was said that about all of this age group were immunized. In Ogdensburg the protected were over 50 per cent of the entire number in the age group.

In Marmaroneck one-half the children of pre-school age were immunized, besides a considerable proportion of the older children. In Utica, within six months, they increased the proportion of immunized children from 38 to 68 per cent in the five to nine years age group, and from 9 to 29 per cent in the pre-school group. In Niagara Falls, in three months, they increased the proportion of the immunized in the five to ten year group from 67 per cent to 95 per cent; and in the pre-school group from 8 per cent to 42 per cent.

Auburn was one of the first cities to prove that immunization against diphtheria was worth while. Schenectady has had reasonably good success with a plan differing in many ways from that employed elsewhere in the state.

Miss M. W. Sheahan gives it as her opinion, based on her experiences in New York state, that the best way to get the children in a community immunized is to run a short, vigorous publicity campaign along the lines of a church revival. Meanwhile, an immunizing center is opened at the health department, or in a public school. Volunteer workers and nurses call at the homes and persuade the parents to take, or send, their children to the center to be immunized. Many of them are given a free automobile ride. Volunteer and paid clerks at the center keep records on the immunized and the nonimmunized children. Physicians give the injections. In Miss Sheahan's opinion, fear is not a requisite for success. A campaign can be made to go if everybody is in earnest, even though there is no diphtheria in town and the people are free from apprehension.

TREATMENT FOR ITCH.

Mrs. A. F. writes: What is a cure for the itch? The children of our community are badly infected with this terrible plague. Those who don't know what to do, or don't care, keep scattering it. For the love of humanity and little children, tell our community what to do.

REPLY.

Sulphur ointment will cure itch if you use it properly. A strong, penetrating ointment, such as Danish itch ointment, needs to be used only a few times. Less penetrating sulphur ointments must be used more frequently and rubbed in more thoroughly. It is customary to give a hot soap bath and to scrub the scabs away with a brush, and then to rub the ointment well into the sores. It is necessary to sterilize the clothing also. Since the careless reinfect the cured your community should have a health officer and nurses, and they should be given power to treat all who need it and to prevent the careless from infecting others.

AVOID USE OF RAW MILK.

A. R. writes: My baby is 28 months old and I want to take him to the mountains. Would it be very harmful for him to drink the raw milk out there, or how should I give it to him? I am going for just a week.

REPLY.

Do not feed your child raw milk, even though it be fresh. You have no way of knowing what microbes it contains. Heat the milk until it begins to simmer. That will make it safe. Or, give canned milk, milk powder, or baby food.

CHILDREN'S HOME DEFINED.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it necessary for people caring for children under six years of age to have a license of some kind? The party we have in mind has been caring for one child day and night and caring for two others days only. Can this be done in a private home and not be called a day nursery? 2. Also, this party cares for furnace in a three flat building. Doesn't this call for a license also?

I. E. B.

1. Sec. 1873, article XI. of the city code provides: "For the purpose of this article a home is hereby defined to mean any institution, place or family used for the reception or care, for a longer period than twenty-four hours, of three or more infants or children apart from their parents." Sec. 1874, article XI. of the city code provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person to open, conduct, manage, or maintain any home, as defined in this article, within the corporate limits of the city, without first obtaining a license."

2. No.

NO AGE LIMIT.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—What must I do to become a naturalized citizen? Does it matter if I am here between 25 and 30 years? What is the age limit? What are the dates one must apply?

L. S.

The writer should procure form A-2214 from the naturalization service, room 776, postoffice building, fill it out completely and return it to the same place with first paper, photographs, and money order as described on the back of the form. After the record of arrival shall have been found he will be notified to appear with his witnesses. There is no age limit. Notice to appear will be sent as soon as possible after the record of arrival shall have been found.

R. L. ROETHE,
Acting District Director United States Department of Labor.

PETITION CITY.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When we purchased our home we were under the impression that an alley would be put through, but so far such is not the case. Will you advise if, as a taxpayer, we are not entitled to a rear entrance to our premises? Our taxes were just as high as our neighbors who have alleys. What steps, if any, could we take so that the city will condemn the property in this block and put an alley in?

C. B. C.

You have no absolute right to an alley, but if all of your neighbors desire one it is probable that you could get the board of local improvements to put the necessary steps through.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, FRIENDS, speaking of American sportsmanship, if anybody was, there are two very interesting things in the papers right now. One is the case of Gar Wood, who says he tricked the English contestant, Kaye Don, into making a false start in the race and accordingly being disqualified by the judges for getting away seven seconds in front of the gun. "I figured I could outsmart him," the clever Mr. Wood is quoted as saying, "and you know what happened." Now, after gazing on that picture for a short time, let us turn to another one. In this second picture, friends, we observe Lowell R. Bayles, winner of the Thompson trophy air race in Cleveland, throwing away the chance of breaking the American and world land speed record and much fame and coin to take two injured mechanics to the hospital. In fact, friends, let us gaze quite a long time on the picture in which Lowell R. Bayles is the central figure. Looking at Lowell R. Bayles we are proud, oh very proud, of American sportsmanship.

RONDEL FOR SEPTEMBER.

Dowager willows
From garments of green
Are changing to golden,
And the pool where they lean
Takes to its breast
The leaves as they fall,
Calm and at rest
With the sky over all.
Tranquil the days,
Steady and good,
Leaves of the maples
Stippled with blood.
Hills that are bathed
In amber and gold,
Ruby and garnet,
Fold upon fold.
Mist in the valley,
But light on the crests,
Banding of blackbirds,
Scarlet of breasts,
Tepees of corn and the whispering blades,
Green of the reeds in the swamps and the glades
Yield of the harvest, feel of the fall,
Voices of autumn heard over all;
Changes, departures, journeying time,

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

SUPPOSE that today is as hot as yesterday! All right; then when it's at its very hottest sit down. Now we're not going to tell you how many jobs people would get in the distilleries if they opened up or how much grain the farmers would sell 'em or anything like that. We just want to fix your mind on a thing of beauty, for a thing of beauty, as the late Mr. Keats has so well said, is a joy forever, its loveliness increases. Imagine, then, that before you stands a waiter in a white jacket. His name is Heinie. His name would be Heinie. Far off somewhere a band is playing a Strauss waltz and overhead the leaves are whispering sweetly together as they sway softly, wooed by the gentle breeze. You speak to Heinie, he disappears, he returns, he puts on the table a stein filled with a rich golden fluid covered with an iridescent soft white foam. You raise the stein, you say "Prosit"—but, ah, we can say no more. Men have gone to jail for less.

NOWADAYS whenever the G. O. P. suggests a man to run for this or that office the man hastily starts talking about his poor health and his other interests and that his wife's relatives are looking to him to help 'em out during the w. k. depression. He names some other man who would be the very one for the job in question, and the other man names another man, and so on. But over in the Democratic camp the faithful are standing in line for every job and making terrible whoopee. All of which may be very significant of what may happen at the national election next year or mean nothing at all. Roll your own.

CENTER COLLEGE, KY., reports that as one of its new players, Dallas Long, 213 pounder from Arkansaw, was returning to college yesterday he encountered a bull that had run amuck. Springing at the enraged animal, the new student hurled him to the ground, and, giving him the old half-Nelson hold, held the animal until the village gendarmerie arrived with ropes. Ah, the college football season has not yet begun, but already they are throwing the bull.

A TEXAS LEGISLATOR, Mrs. Rountree, has a great scheme for helping the cotton growers. She wants laws passed compelling men to return to the old cotton nightie and women to wear cotton petticoats not shorter than fourteen inches from the ground. Also it would be a good idea for gents to be compelled to have their shirt tails eight inches longer and for all the gals to be made to wear cotton stockings. Don't laugh; the idea couldn't work out worse than the nation's plan to help the farmer by buying up wheat and putting it into cold storage. Only one flaw in your scheme, Mrs. Rountree, you may get the gents to wear cotton nighties and add eight inches to their shirt tails, because gents are quite reasonable; they've been browbeat by the gals down to the point where they'll agree to anything. But you just try to make the women wear cotton stockings! But first ask the Rocky mountains to take a running jump into the Pacific, ask the Mississippi river to turn around and empty into Hudson bay, ask Jim Ham Lewis to shave his whiskers, or watch for England to hold a tag day to buy flowers for the French. And any and all of these things will happen before you can get the girls to wear cotton stockings instead of silk.

Goodness Gracious! Have They Schools for That, Too?

[From the Peoria Evening Star via Peek Inn.]

Earl Ogden, Peoria, Ill., liquor law violator, is at liberty on parole from Leavenworth penitentiary by order of President Hoover so that Ogden may assist authorities in training an Iowa murderer.

IT CANNOT BE autumn yet. No, because we have not yet read on the football page that "Stagg Fears Purdue." Not until Mr. Stagg begins to fear Purdue can we believe that the glorious autumn is really here.

JUST GRAZING ALONG

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 10, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson requested the recall of Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, privy councilor and ambassador of Austria-Hungary to the United States, for conspiracy to disorganize the war munitions industry in America. The President cabled American Ambassador Penfield at Vienna, instructing him to ask the Austro-Hungarian government to recall its envoy. The withdrawal of Ambassador Dumba is asked because he proposed "to conspire to cripple legitimate industries of the people of the United States and to interrupt their legitimate trade." Also because he violated "diplomatic propriety in employing an American citizen, protected by an American passport, as a secret bearer of official despatches through the lines of the enemy of Austria-Hungary."

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Albert Goodwin Spalding, famous throughout the world as an old time baseball player and a pioneer sporting goods manufacturer, died from apoplexy. He was 65 years old. Mr. Spalding had been retired from active business for several years.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Vienna declares that the Russian front north of Olyka was broken and Dubno, the second point in the Volhynian fortress triangle, was captured.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 10, 1901.

BUFFALO.—President McKinley will be able to attend to the business of his office at least to a moderate extent within the next four weeks, in the opinion of all the physicians now attending him. They have not stated this fact in their official bulletins because they desire to keep their announcements well within the truth, but the statement has been made with scarcely any reservation to Mrs. McKinley, members of the cabinet, Controller Dawes and others. Peritonitis, in view of the physicians, is no longer probable, but it is possible that the President might have a sinking spell at almost any moment. Three full days have now passed since Czolgosz fired the two bullets into the President, and he appears entirely free from blood poisoning of any description. The latest bulletin issued at 9:30 p. m., and signed by the six physicians, headed by Dr. P. M. Rixey, in attendance on the President, says: "The President's condition continues favorable. Pulse, 112; temperature, 101; respiration, 27." There is no worry over the bullet in the abdomen, and there has been no serious attempt so far to locate it exactly.

BUFFALO.—Leon F. Czolgosz was pronounced sane by experts who examined him at the request of the district attorney and in his presence. The examination took place in the office of the superintendent of police and was conducted by Dr. Floyd S. Crego, an alienist, who has testified in almost every big case tried in this country in recent years where the question of sanity was raised. Czolgosz declared that there had never been a case of insanity in his family.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1881.

LONG BRANCH.—This was perhaps the most favorable day which President Garfield has spent since he was shot on July 2. He ate a very good dinner, slept well and gained in strength.

WASHINGTON. — The assassin, Charles J. Guiteau, passed his 40th birthday in jail, and requested of the warden some birthday gifts. Guiteau is in remarkably good health, slightly heavier than when he was placed in jail on July 2, and is in better spirits than he has been. He has learned by some means that the President has been taken to Long Branch.

DANZIG.—Emperor William, the Crown Prince Frederick William and Bismarck met the czar on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and the meeting between the kaiser and the Russian ruler was affectionate in the extreme. Apparently the fear of assassination was the most prominent topic.

CHICAGO.—Gen. U. S. Grant and his son, Col. F. D. Grant, were at the Palmer house for a short time on their way to Galena. U. S. Senator Ben Harrison of Indiana is registered at the Pacific.

HIGH SCHOOL SCHEDULES.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Some health authority said in the spring that only in certain months is there any value to sunshine. What about the growing young people who are kept in high school from ten o'clock until five? It seems to me that in a crowded, double and overlapping school pupils could have their four majors and go home, instead of having them strung out with study periods, lunch, gymnasium, and art.

In the late afternoon, when every one is tired, and with forty pupils in a class, precious little real teaching or learning can be achieved. Why cannot the little, immature junior high pupils be kept in grammar school, where they belong, and the junior high buildings be turned to the use of the senior high, which are crowded to a preposterous degree, by unemployment and the child labor laws? Grammar school principals are paid for half empty schools, or obliged to visit two or three such, as branches, instead of giving constructive and high priced attention to one properly filled and managed school.

The board of education, if it knew anything about school business, could offer a good, workable program of savings which would not cripple the work, would avoid unnecessary building, and would house properly and comfortably its overgrown crowds. But, because it was criticized, it spends its time sawing the air and getting red in the face and running here and there trying to cut the people who are helpless and who are doing the only work for which high schools were invented.

A HORSE LOVER.

Mount Prospect, Ill., Sept. 4.—The series of articles I have been reading about Sun Beau, written by French Lane, seems to me the most interesting ever to appear on the sport page of any Chicago paper. Please give us some more of them. May I suggest Exterminator?

REPLY TO MR. FORD.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Just what will the poor farmers do to get rid of their surplus products if every large corporation were to follow the edict of Henry Ford? Just where will the farmers get money enough to buy Fords if he is going to take away their ability to make money? It's too bad that the farmers cannot build automobiles during their spare time. That would even things up.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Coldwater, Mich., Sept. 5.—Your editorial of Sept. 4 entitled, "The New Lane High School," is a masterpiece. You could well continue the subject, showing the uselessness and, in a sense, criminality of misappropriating public funds for technical education. The purpose of the public school is to make intelligent citizens, not artisans. The enormous amount spent for technical education in Chicago, for a comparatively small number of pupils, is almost beyond belief.

Skilled instruction in fundamentals and academic education is greatly needed, as is proved by the poor reading, writing, and spelling in our grades and high schools, as well as deficiency in the use of numbers.

If the taxpayers' money had been spent to correct these faults, the result might not have been so spectacular, but there would be enough in the treasury to pay the teachers and to put up needed buildings.

A TAXPAYER.

PATIENCE REWARDED.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Your editorial, "Publicity Vs. Hush in Crime War," was a splendid piece of work. I lived in New York four years and therefore know their jealousy of Chicago. When crime occurred here they were the first to know about it and made it colorful. Prior to that time my home was in Chicago. I suffered untold humiliation from the proud New Yorker every time I mentioned our dear Chicago.

A MOTHER'S PLEA BRINGS REVOLT IN CHILE TO AN END

Grief Stricken, She Begs Son to Surrender.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 9.—[Passed by censor.]—The appeal of a grief stricken mother was revealed today as the moving force behind the surrender of the last of the mutinous Chilean navy yesterday. Shocked by the revelation that her son, William Steenbecker, 31, a petty officer and radio expert, was the leader of the rebels, with headquarters aboard the battleship Almirante La Torre, Mrs. Steenbecker, hoping to secure leniency for her son, called on the governor here and induced him to send the following message to the ship:

"If, in the moment of excitement, you forgot your duty to your country, I appeal to you, for the sake of your loving mother and your afflicted wife, to give in and bring peace to your country once more."

Responds to Appeal.

Steenbecker, his emotions affected by the appeal, decided to give in to the demands of part of his followers to surrender. The young officer is described here as a serious young man with a good reputation, and his friends were shocked to find that he had been directing the mutiny.

The Almirante La Torre, which is the largest fighting ship in Latin American waters, was anchored today at the Quintero naval base. The rebel leaders were in irons aboard and about 1,000 members of the crew were held in barracks ashore.

Following the surrender of the warship, it was revealed that Steenbecker had been occupying the admiral's quarters, directing operations and giving orders to the rest of the fleet. He is a Chilean of German extraction and he spent his youth on a German sailing vessel.

Held as Spy During War.

During the war he was arrested in Europe at the request of the allies on a charge of being a German spy. He returned to Chile following the war and entered the navy through the radio school. He is married and has two children.

The following details of events following the aerial bombardment of the rebel fleet at Coquimbo were revealed today:

The rebel ships, cowed by the planes' attack, hoisted signals of surrender, but they stood out to sea. Only a submarine and a few other units, which were seriously damaged, stayed behind. These capitulated and their crews were immediately subjected to naval law. Two destroyers, the Hyatt and the Riquelme, went over to the government and raced to Valparaiso, where the crews were disarmed and placed in custody. There were other defections, but Steenbecker flashed a radio appeal to the rebels pointing out that they could still negotiate with the government with a view of avoiding a firing squad.

Ships Surrender One by One.

Crews on other warships, supporting his attitude, steamed up and down the coast. One destroyer appeared off Valparaiso, but was repelled by shell fire. Defections continued during the whole day. The cruisers Blanco Encalada and the General O'Higgins both went over. By midday all destroys were flying government colors and had been received in Valparaiso and disarmed. These defections caused rifts among the leaders and the crew of the Lee Torre, who were nerve racked by the bombing, and finally the weeping mother induced Steenbecker to order the surrender.

Steenbecker was very desperate toward the end, and his committee made serious threats in the negotiations with the government. They threatened to bombard Valparaiso unless their last condition was conceded—amnesty.

Whether this was granted in the final surrender terms is not yet known, but it is considered doubhtful, since the government was convinced that a bombardment was impossible, thanks to the squad of battle planes hovering over the ship, the remanned destroyers, and the guns of the fort.

WEALTHY GIRL OF 15 LURED AWAY TO GET CHANCE AS ACTRESS

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Emily Grinnell, 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grinnell, wealthy and socially prominent residents of New Bedford, Mass., was found today registered at the Hotel Laurelton in West 55th street as Betty Marshall. She had been missing since Monday, her parents revealed.

Miss Grinnell, who is 6 feet tall and weighs 170 pounds, had ambitions to enter the motion pictures.

Harold Bernstein, youthful student at the University of California, who is said to have induced her to come here, under the impression that she was a woman considerably older, was arrested after Miss Grinnell had told her story.

Held by Magistrate Anthony Burke in $1,000 bail as a technical fugitive from Massachusetts, for hearing Sept. 17, Bernstein explained, through counsel, that he had imagined he could help Miss Grinnell in her theatrical career. Her voice, he thought, was like that of Kate Smith, radio and vaudeville headliner. He insisted she had not been harmed in any way, a statement which seemed thoroughly in accord with the facts.

JUDGE APPROVES DECREE IN GROSS PARENTAGE SUIT

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday signed an order amending the decree which divorced Capt. Christian C. Gross, a member of the staff of the American legation in Canada, from Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross. The amendment named Capt. Gross as the parent of the daughter, Anna, now 3 years old, who was born to Mrs. Gross after their separation.

The child is now with Mrs. Gross in Grenoble, France. The order provided, for that reason, that no ruling would be made regarding custody of the child, but reserved the right, if the child is ever brought into Cook county, to rule on her custody.

Both Attorney Thomas H. Fisher and Judge David denied yesterday that there was any threat of contempt procedure on Tuesday when the judge called on the attorney to explain why Attorney Fisher sent some documents to Judge David's home, setting forth "Mrs. Gross' side" of the case.

HOOVER SAID TO FAVOR ITALIAN ARMAMENT IDEA

Moratorium Until Geneva Conference Is Over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The Italian suggestion that all nations declare a moratorium on naval and other armament building until after the conclusion of the projected league arms conference, which begins at Geneva next February, is viewed with sympathy by the American government, a high official revealed today.

The Hoover administration hopes, it was learned, that a naval building holiday will be effected during the conference period. Although no direct comment was forthcoming, it was indicated that the United States probably will make some direct move in that direction in the not far distant future. No steps are to be taken, however, until the exact meaning of the Italian suggestion, voiced before the league assembly yesterday by Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, has been conveyed to this government.

The United States, according to the views outlined here today, is strongly in sympathy with any move that looks toward curtailing armaments construction while the conference is in session.

Proposal not Detailed.

Just what American ships would be affected by a naval moratorium has not been made clear. Officials here have not been informed as to whether the Grandi proposal contemplated the cessation of work on construction now under way in shipping yards. It is taken for granted that it would operate to prevent the laying down of new keels until after the conference adjourns.

Should the moratorium cover all building it would stop construction work on seven cruisers, one aircraft carrier, and three submarines now building in American private and navy yards. It would certainly suspend the construction of the eleven destroyers for which $10,000,000 starting money was appropriated by the last congress. This would defer all new construction appropriated for since the 1930 London conference. Warships valued at 177 millions would be hit if all construction was stopped.

The immediate effect of such a naval holiday would be to place this country at a distinct disadvantage to Great Britain and Japan, which at present have almost built up to the maximum limits of the London treaty. The United States, which has been spending annually less than one-third of the amount estimated as needed by the navy department for actual replacement warships, is not only far from built up to treaty levels today, but unless other tonnage is appropriated for will be almost 50 per cent under built by the expiration of the London treaty in 1936.

Decided Last December.

It was learned today that President Hoover, as long ago as last December, had decided to deviate from the traditional American isolation policy to the extent of taking an active part in an attempt to promote the Geneva league conference. At that time President Hoover decided to send Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to Europe to urge the necessity of having all the nations settle their private quarrels prior to the conference. The plan calls for continued efforts by this country to help European powers settle their private differences on armament, enhancing the success of Geneva.

SLEUTH READS THE MAIL, FILES BIGAMY CHARGE

James Coulty, 23 years old, a painter, was held yesterday at the detective bureau on charges of bigamy. On Aug. 4, it was said, Coulty married Rose Amato, 18 years old, 734 South Claremont avenue. The parents of the bride invited the young couple to live with them. Her brother, Charles, an amateur detective, found a photograph in Coulty's trunk, inscribed, "From your darling wife, Babe."

Charles also found a letter which led him to Eleanor Scripps, 5344 Winthrop avenue, who asserted that Coulty was her husband, who married her on Oct. 8, 1930.

Armed with Charles' evidence, the Amatos went to the Felony court, obtained a warrant charging bigamy, and Coulty was seized.

All day your underthings absorb perspiration—

Why risk offending? Change daily

ALL DAY LONG the skin perspires—through millions of tiny pores. All day delicate underthings absorb and hold these perspiration acids and odors.

Others get that penetrating hint before you yourself can possibly be aware of it. Don't run the risk of offending . . . of those whispered comments . . . those veiled glances . . . that eventual social isolation.

And now it is so easy. A simple 4-minute habit . . . just a gentle dipping of underthings and stockings in the lukewarm Lux suds. Quick and safe and sure.

Protect your daintiness this simple 4-minute way

2 Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Tests show Lux removes perspiration acids completely yet leaves colors sparkling, like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

3 Don't use too-warm water. Lux gives instant suds in lukewarm water and will not fade colors or shrink fabrics.

4 Wash this 4-minute way:
1 tablespoon of Lux diamonds does 1 day's underthings. Dip up and down, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out. Then they're fresh and sweet!

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your lingerie, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Company, Department XG-2, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

2 NEAR DEATH AS TRAIN HITS AUTO IN SUBURB

Gateman Flees His Post After Accident.

Two men were critically injured last evening when a crowded out-bound Chicago and North Western passenger train demolished the small sedan in which they were riding at 15th avenue, Melrose Park.

The victims are Paul Torocco, 27 years old, 1116 North 23d avenue, Melrose Park, the driver, who suffered fractures of both legs and internal injuries; and Joheph Romano, 16 years old, who lives with Torocco. He sustained internal hurts. Both were taken to the Westlake hospital.

The crossing is protected by gates which are operated by a watchman, Sebastian Zilfe, 53 years old, 6 South 16th avenue, Maywood. He fled after the accident, the police said. The gates, according to the police were down, but they were not damaged.

Killed as Train Hits Car.

Injuries received last evening when his automobile was demolished by a Chicago and North Western passenger train at the Chicago avenue crossing in Palatine resulted in the death early this morning of Edward Harz, 28 years old, of Palatine.

Harz, a gasoline truck driver, was on his way home in his own car. He stopped for the warning signal at the crossing to permit a Chicago bound train to pass. Then he drove behind the passing train in front of an outward bound train. The locomotive crushed the machine. Harz was taken to the Palatine hospital, where he died.

Harry Levinson, 53 years old, 1249 South Harding avenue, was killed in Detroit yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by O. H. Naffsige of Battle Creek, Mich. Levinson was repairing his truck when he was struck.

The deaths of Harz and two others in Cook county brought the automobile toll since Jan. 1 to 832. The other victims:

Mrs. Josephine Ehlbert, 47 years old, 1369 Hyde Park boulevard. Died at Mercy hospital from injuries suffered earlier in the day when she was struck by a police automobile in front of 1343 East 55th street. The driver, Robert T. Hayes of the Hyde Park station, was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

Mack Fields, colored, 32 years old, 5134 Kimbark avenue. Died at the county hospital from injuries suffered Monday when his motor truck was hit by an Illinois Central freight train on Columbia highway.

The body of a man killed Tuesday at Randolph and Ada streets was identified at the county morgue last night as that of Peter O. Anderson, 77 years old, 4809 West Austin avenue, a retired carpenter, by his son, Charles G. T. W. Claridge, 1737 Devon avenue, was the driver of the car.

Mrs. Mary McNamara, Who Lived Here 76 Years, Dies

Mrs. Mary E. McNamara, a resident of Chicago for 76 years, died yesterday afternoon in her home, 6625 Glenwood avenue. Mrs. McNamara was born 78 years ago at Bath, Me. She was the mother of Mark J. LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Awakening

FIVE DIE WHEN SPARK SETS OFF BLAST POWDER

Two Hurt in Benton Explosion.

Benton, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Five men were killed here today and five others injured when the powder house of the Safety Mining company, makers of Cardox shells for use in blasting coal in mines, was destroyed by fire.

The dead are: Carl Mooneyham, Herbert Smith, Joseph Haskins, James Dobry, and Randall Scarborough.

The injured are: W. C. Armstrong, J. R. Henley, Henry Morris, Aden Otterson, and Arthur Norris.

Mooneyham and Smith were killed outright and their bodies, burned beyond recognition, were not recovered until the building had been consumed and embers cooled. Scarborough, Haskins, and Dobry died after being removed to hospital. Scarborough was a son of Mayor Joseph Scarborough of Benton.

While eighty men are employed at the plant, those working in other buildings were not aware of the fire until they heard screams of the victims. Twelve other company buildings nearby were not damaged. The men in the powder house were engaged in tamping powder into shells. These shells are about three feet long and are used extensively in blasting coal. They are discharged by electricity and are said to be so constructed that any fire following the blast is automatically extinguished.

Company officers expressed the opinion that the blast resulted when powder stored in the building became ignited in some manner. They said the materials used in the shells were not explosive but highly inflammable and once ignited would spread quickly.

Bushel of Wheat Is Ticket to Indiana State Fair

TEACHER ELOPES WITH JANITOR AND IS KILLED IN FALL

Scottsbluff, Neb., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The elopement of an Iowa high school principal and the janitor of her school was brought to light here last night when she fell on the stairs of a hotel where they were stopping and was killed instantly.

The pair was Miss Helen Gardner, 33, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, who taught in the Thurman, Ia., High school ten years, and Dave D. Rhode, 38, the janitor, who was already married and the father of five children.

Rhode and Miss Gardner registered at the hotel here last night as "Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yoder, Council Bluffs, Ia."

Rhode was questioned by police for several hours, but was released this morning when authorities were convinced that Miss Gardner's death was accidental.

Rhode said that he and the woman had left Thurman last Monday, after Frank Steele, president of the town school board, had quizzed him concerning a report that he and Miss Gardner had been wed secretly.

Rhode said after talking to Steele he went home and told his wife that he was leaving town in quest of other work. Miss Gardner told her father, a farmer living near Thurman, that she also was leaving town, giving no explanation.

The two met in Omaha, where they stayed Monday night, then went to Kearney, Neb., yesterday in Miss Gardner's car. They arrived in Scottsbluff last night, where tragedy ended their runaway match.

LEAPS 9 FLOORS TO DEATH; NOTE FOUND IN ROOM

A man, who was registered as Jay Myer of Milwaukee, Wis., leaped to his death early this morning from the ninth floor of the Hotel La Salle.

He landed on a glass covered canopy on the La Salle street side of the hotel, but a steel cross beam prevented his body from striking the sidewalk. A number of late loop goers heard the crash. Firemen removed the body.

Lieut. Dave Schwartz examined the man's room. On the table he found a note. The note read: "At one time I was a very prominent merchant on the banks of the Hudson river. Later I became a trade king in one of the very prosperous cities on the lake east of Chicago. I am not known in Milwaukee. What I have written on this paper is the absolute truth."

The leap victim was about 40 years old and fairly well dressed. There were no marks in the clothing, shoes, or hat to furnish possible clews. In the pockets of his suit police found an inexpensive watch and $7. Myer registered yesterday, hotel records showed.

Flora Streyckmans Rites Today; Pioneer Resident

SEEK IDENTITY OF BOY KILLED BY AUTO TRUCK

Sergts. Joseph Starshak and Frank Loskill of the missing persons bureau, are working overtime in an effort to identify a boy whose body has lain unclaimed in the county morgue since Sept. 1. They want to save him from potter's field.

The boy was killed when he slipped off an ice cream truck, on which he had hitched a ride, at 47th street and Greenwood avenue. The rear wheel of the truck crushed his head. Three other boys who were with him fled. Starshak and Loskill believe the boys know the identity of their companion and are fearful of reporting him dead.

The victim, who was about 14 years old, was 5 feet 1 inch tall, and weighed 110 pounds. He wore tennis shoes, a light gray shirt, dark blue sweater, and long tweed trousers. He also wore woman's stockings, cut off. His belt buckle was scratched with the initial "H."

CONVICT WOMAN WHO SOLD BOOZE THAT KILLED BOY

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 9—(UP)—Testimony of two companions of a 15 year old boy who died after drinking alleged poisonous liquor helped to convict Mrs. Pearl Davis on a blind tiger charge in Municipal court today. She was sentenced to the Indiana woman's prison for 90 days and fined $100 by Judge Clifton R. Cameron.

Walter Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Hamilton, was the boy who died. He had been on a fishing trip last Thursday with three other youths. Two of them, Marion Hopper, 17, and Gayle Stevens, 18, testified that they stopped at Mrs. Davis' house and bought the liquor as they began their outing.

Young Hamilton died soon after they returned. The other boys suffered no ill effects.

Blast at Midget Golf Course Wrecks Building

Fire followed an explosion in the South Town Miniature Golf course, 1338 West 63d street, early yesterday, wrecking the structure. The explosion threw glass against the walls of buildings across the street. Chief Howard Andrews of the 12th fire battalion said he believed the explosion was caused by spontaneous combustion of some oil and sawdust used on the golf course.

50 MILES AN HOUR ON OUTER DRIVE SAFE, JUDGE SAYS

A speed of 50 miles an hour on the outer drive is safe and sane, particularly at 2 a. m., Judge Frank M. Padden of the new traffic court ruled yesterday.

The judge criticized motorcycle policemen for making unnecessary arrests along the outer drive while speeding motorists are unmolested on side streets, where dives are lost by reckless driving.

The case against Griffiths Schroeder, 29 East 119th place, arrested at 2 a. m. Sept. 5 for driving 50 miles an hour on the drive, and that against Raymond E. Blackwood, 7521 East End avenue, arrested at 9 a. m. as he traveled 48 miles an hour on the outer drive, were dismissed.

Judge Padden said police officials and Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court would meet today in an effort to outline a more efficient system of controlling dangerous speeding.

BURY ARCHDUKE BENEATH BUSY VIENNESE STREET

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Anti-republican Viennese came into their own today when the principal thoroughfares of the inner city were set apart for the funeral of the former Austrian Archduke Leopold Salvator.

Without objection from Socialists and Republicans, his body was borne through the streets from the military casino to St. Stephen's cathedral and then to the crypt of the Capuchin Monastery church.

Although the Hapsburg dynasty has been expelled and the archduke had insisted on his claim to imperial prerogatives, the members of the dynasty are being accorded burial in their ancestral vaults beneath the busiest portion of the republican capital. Among those at today's services were contingents from the old and new Austrian armies, relatives of the archduke, representatives of the government, and the French and Italian ministers.

Sinclair Jousts with Bacchus, Old and Young

"The Wet Parade" Hits Topers, Dry Law.

"The Wet Parade," by Upton Sinclair. [Farrar & Rinehart. Published today.]

UPTON SINCLAIR, ever since the beginning of the century when he wrote "The Jungle" and won for himself national and international fame and notoriety, has been a polemic writer. Whatever he has written in the way of literature has been subservient to the social reform which he wished to bring about through his writing.

UPTON SINCLAIR.

Every phase of human ill, every abuse of privilege, every misuse of man's liberty has at one time or another come under the literary scalpel which he wields. Sometimes the result is more clinical than literary. But occasionally it is more literary than clinical, and in the case of this novel which is published today, "The Wet Parade," Mr. Sinclair has written primarily a novel rather than a tract. He has chosen his characters and his situations to preach the gospel which he wishes to preach, but even his missionary spirit has not made a bad novel of "The Wet Parade."

"The Wet Parade" is, as you might judge, a book about drinking and its evils, and prohibition and its quite as obvious evils. It begins in the solid south. There, the author infers, drinking was done at its most luxuriant best. There a gentleman held his liquor, never got drunk, but often was forced to leave his home and fireside while he recovered from delirium tremens and less active results of his imbibing. His women folk never saw him drunk—that is, they never did until they saw him practically constantly so, and he died or cut his arteries or blew out his brains or fell off his horse and was dashed to death. Mr. Sinclair takes a wealthy sugar cane planter as his first horrid example. His second is another southerner—a gentleman of the old school who lets his wife and her sister run a boarding house in New York while he drinks up the proceeds. His third is the son of the planter, who goes to New York as a brilliant young poet and sinks into the morass of prohibition almost to a drunkard's grave.

Fighting them in spirit as well as in fact are the daughter and sister of the planter and the poet and the son of the gentleman who stole his wife's pocketbook to get himself a noggin. These two young things are not only prohibitionists by conviction but by soul-searing experience. To them has fallen the lot of picking up the pieces when the bottles in life were flung from drunken hands. Ironically, prohibition destroys them also.

All of the elements of the tract are present in "The Wet Parade." Every lurid picture of the ruin of drinking is drawn in its pages. The life of the rich and powerful is shorn of its glitter. Bootlegging, even by the president of a great banking trust, stalks through the pages. Nobody is above suspicion of cupidity and all around immorality except the two or three who stand out passionately for the slogan, "Lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine." Mr. Sinclair does get very preachy at times.

But in spite of all the propaganda, "The Wet Parade" is primarily a novel, and a good one. Mr. Sinclair may be fundamentally interested in the drinking morals of its characters, but he manages to make every character in it vivid and alive. The sugar cane planter who ends his days in the fairy with his wrists and his throat cut is a tragic character, indeed, his life a series of losing dramatic fights against his craving for liquor, battles which Mr. Sinclair describes with a literary artist's zeal more than with the passion of a reformer.

The life of the drunkard's son in New York, that peculiarly tense, rapid pace of the so-called intelligentsia, Mr. Sinclair chronicles with conviction and with great interest for the reader. He gets a little superlative about the compressions of the gaudy rich, but no more superlative than the tabloids would lead readers to believe that particular life is.

The southern gentleman who tells not and spins nothing but yarns is as living as Sam Weller. The only characters in the book which taper off a little from actual vividness are the youthful reformers when they become active in the reform business. They had an expansive humanness some where in the book, and they never regain it. But Mr. Sinclair does a fine sized living portrait of most of his characters, even though those characters are obviously chosen to point a moral. "The Wet Parade" contains the most popular and the most human writing that Mr. Sinclair has ever done, it seems to me; quite aside from the lesson which he points out, his human delineation is memorable.

Today there came the announcement from Mr. Sinclair of the establishment of the Sinclair Foundation which will provide copies of his numerous books free of charge to "the humble people of may lands." It is a plan which he has cherished ever since he began to write, he says in the announcement. "I wanted my books to be, in their material aspect, what they are in content, an effort at brotherhood." Time has been kind to him financially—he has spent fortunes annually on "crusades" and socialist colonies and radical plays and worked brilliantly for his ideals, so that his present fortune is not what it might have been without such draining, but he has made a will in favor of the revolution and his wife has done the same, and presented to it the plates of all of the books which he owns, as well as large stocks of finished books.

Good morning!

"You talk about your God dealing out blessings like he was a delivery boy with a basketful of groceries. My God's not like that. He's in the first breath of dawn. He's in the sunset. He's in the air. He's here—all around. I can't describe him, but I feel him . . ." said the "pagan lady."

Pagan?

Dot is bar girl in a Cuban dance hall and saloon when the story and "Dingo" Mike Hunter pick her up. "Dingo," a mighty male bootlegger, crashes up the joint where she works and carries her off to Miami with him. He's crazy for her and she for him, and, while matrimony isn't in the cards, both plan on being a heap more monogamous than they have been in the past.

Under the "pagan lady's" hard exterior is a good, honest little country girl heart; while in "Dingo" there breathes a pretty decent chap.

The two live in a free and easy Miami hotel, from which "Dingo" is called away by the exigencies of his business. During his absence a couple of missionaries, uncle and nephew, arrive to do a bit of soul saving before the latter departs to regenerate some jungle tribe whose name I can't remember, and does it matter?

Ernest's holy fire is fanned into something hotter by the fascinations of Dot, to whom he proposes marriage. Never before had any man asked Dot to be his wife.

She accepts—for a certain reason, though her heart is with "Dingo." Cheerup! Things turn out the way you want them to.

Evelyn Brent and Charles Bickford are a splendidly tempestuous couple. The latter sure does make Conrad Nagel look like a sick kitten! Roland Young, as a doctor of sorts who lodges and drinks at the hotel and fishes in the waters nearby, keeps the chuckle pot bubbling. Gwen Lee and Leslie Fenton are amusing as a scrappy married pair. William Farnum is deep-throated and fanatical as his rôle demands. [With a twinkle, I thought.]

Direction is clever. There's one grand, realistic storm that the sound apparatus treats nobly and some scenery to rejoice the eye of the beauty lover.

Doherty Gives Half Million.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Half a million dollars was made available tonight to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by Henry L. Doherty, public utilities owner, to study means of alleviating the unemployment situation.

Mr. Doherty announced he had deposited that sum in the Commercial Trust bank here after Dr. Roy V. Wright of New York, president of the engineering organization, said:

"Engineers and scientists caused the industrial depression by invention of labor saving devices. It is up to them to solve it."

Dr. Wright urged engineers to bend their energies to obtain a $500,000 research fund to provide for a study of the present industrial situation and to work out ways of remedying it.

Classmate of Harris Reads New Biography Dealing with Him

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Kate Stephens, now 73 years old, was busy today reading the final chapters of a biography of Frank Harris, the eccentric writer, who once made disparaging references to Prof. Byron Caldwell Smith, with whom she and Harris studied years ago at the University of Kansas. Miss Stephens was perusing Dr. A. I. Tobin's life of Harris.

Harris made references to Prof. Smith in Harris' suppressed "Life and Love."

Harris and Miss Stephens attended the university at Lawrence in 1875 and were in a class taught by Prof. Smith. Kate Stephens managed her father's 1,000 acres from girlhood, and after Smith's death in 1877 became the first woman to attain a professorship in Greek and Latin in an American university. Later she wrote many books and was an editor in the house of MacMillan.

Today, in an obscure flat on the lower west side of Manhattan, she was going over the Tobin book, which will appear next month.

In 1929 Kate Stephens published "Lies and Libels of Frank Harris." That was her answer to Harris. Her and Smith's romance had been set for twice previously in book form, the latest volume bearing the title "The Love Life of Byron Caldwell Smith," and giving the full texts of love letters they exchanged.

THE HAGUE, Netherland, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Delegates to the world congress of spiritualists meeting here today heard Mrs. Madge Donohue, attending from London, read a message, "all's well, kind regards to everyone," which she said she had received from the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Discussing predictions regarding the end of the world, but stressing the possibility of its rebirth, Sir Francis Younghusband, explorer who won fame in Tibet, told the Modern Churchmen's conference at Oxford today of various scientific arguments.

"In a certain number of thousands of millions of years," said Sir Francis, as he repeated one theory, "the sun will be radiated away in heat. The earth will become unfit for human or any living habitation. All life, love, duty, and every other lovely thing for which we have most urgently striven will have vanished from this planet as a light extinguished.

"The same thing is true of the whole universe. The universe is running down, we are told by astronomers. The second law of thermodynamics is their god. None can dispute it. It lays down a law that heat radiated away can never be recovered. Slowly, but surely and inevitably, heat from the sun and all those other suns and stars will be radiated away. There will be one vast heat death. We living things are like polar bears on icebergs driven south—it is inevitable that we must go under.

"But, against this running down view, some physicists contend that the second law of thermodynamics, although applicable generally, may not be applicable universally. In deep recesses of space, under conditions yet unborn, radiation may be reconstituted and matter may be reborn. Evidence of any such winding up or running down of the universe is not yet forthcoming, but may come. Lodge and Millikan think it will.

"In one way the running down process from some problematical beginning is so much at variance with the course of things we see elsewhere that we suspect somewhere a flaw in the argument.

"Is it likely that, without any external influence, without any internal urge from something more than physical and chemical forces, there could possibly have arisen anything with such marvelous capacities as life—with, in turn, its capacities for that still more wonderful thing, love?

1932 Sun Eclipse to Be Brief.

Delaware, O., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The total solar eclipse visible in New England and eastern Canada on the afternoon of Aug. 31, 1932, will be comparatively brief, Dr. Frederick Sloeum of Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., told the American Astronomical society at Perkins observatory, Ohio Wesleyan university, today.

He said the sun would be obscured a total of 99 seconds at the point most favorable for observation. He said the eclipse of 1925 was total twice that time, and the longest on record was seven minutes.

To Make Surveys Easier.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A simplified method of learning the exact shape of the earth, expected to make far easier the location of landmarks and boundary lines by surveyors, was presented to the American Mathematical society today.

Prof. E. V. Huntington of Harvard university announced he had devised a new mathematical formula for determining the curvature or shape of the earth, known to scientists as the "figure."

The discovery was described by mathematicians as of "tremendous importance" because every landmark and property boundary depends on the assumed curvature of the earth, which in turn depends on the shape of the earth as determined by mathematics.

His formula gives the shape of the earth as though it were smooth like a billiard ball, and surveys are made on that assumption. Mountains and other irregularities are no more significant to the shape of the earth as a whole than the scratches on a billiard ball.

50th Illinois Infantry Issues Call to Reunion

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—A call has been issued for the forty-fifth annual reunion of the veterans of the Fiftieth Illinois volunteer infantry by D. A. Bigelow, adjutant, to be held at the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors' home Sept. 22, 23, and 24. Seventy years ago Oct. 9 the Fiftieth marched to the front from Quincy, and now there are only a few, perhaps a dozen, left of those twelve hundred men. The sons and daughters of the Union veterans will entertain all who attend the reunion.

France May Have Two Buildings at 1933 Fair

France will participate in Chicago's 1933 World's fair. Tentative plans are that France shall be represented in at least two buildings, one in the "Old Europe" group just south of 23d street and the other near the Hall of Science. The exhibit in the "Old Europe" group probably will take the form of a celebrated or typical mediaeval French building in which will be housed a French restaurant and exhibits of French handicrafts and arts. The other contemplated exhibit, limited largely to the accomplishments in French science, will be housed, according to the plans, in a building near the Hall of Science and similar in architectural design.

Spanish War Veterans Plan Higher Pensions

Will Act at the Next Congress Session.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The United Spanish War Veterans, in annual convention here today condemned inclusion of "the pauper clause" in any federal pension legislation. They announced their intention of going before the next congress with a bill upward revision of pensions for Spanish war veterans.

Action on resolutions for law revision to place the service men of 1898 on the same pensions footing with the Grand Army of the Republic was taken after George R. Lunn, former lieutenant governor of New York, and Otto N. Raths, St. Paul, Minn., had been nominated by their respective states for next commander-in-chief to succeed Edward H. Matthias, Columbus, O. The election is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

With the 1932 reunion pledged to Milwaukee the veterans today received formal invitations from Los Angeles, Chicago, St. Petersburg, Fla., and San Antonio, Tex., for the 1933 sessions. These cities will appear on tomorrow's ballots.

The proposed new pension bill, indorsed after long debate, automatically would place all veterans of the Spanish war and their widows on the pension rolls without regard to disability and would be known as "pensions for service."

The minimum rates approved would be $50 a month for veterans, with graduated increases for disability up on $100 a month; $40 a month for veterans' widows; $10 a month for widows who were married to service men during the war period.

Another resolution designated the period of service for purposes of defining eligibles for Spanish war pensions as April 21, 1898, to July 4, 1902, covering the Spanish-American war, the Philippine engagements, and the China relief expedition.

The convention voted that Philippine scouts be dealt with as veterans, urged the repeal of the executive order of April 24, 1931, depriving Spanish war veterans of preference in civil service examinations, indorsed national preparedness, and condemned communistic activity in the United States. A relief for unemployment by giving the war department unlimited enlistment for six months was suggested.

The auxiliary today nominated Mrs. Clara Hendricks, St. Louis, and Mrs. Florence Becker, Louisville, Ky., for the national presidency. The general election will be held tomorrow.

Students Seek More Skill to Enter Business

Break Registry Records in Vocational Courses.

Business conditions have their effect on the kind of studies selected by students in the public schools. That was reiterated by school officials yesterday, the second day of the new fall term. The trend is marked in high schools. Students in larger numbers than ever before are taking vocational and commercial courses.

Of the 45,000 boys in senior high schools, 50 per cent are taking some kind of shop work, and 60 per cent some kind of drawing, according to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. With more than one third of the girls enrolled taking commercial courses, the trend of feminine interest also is toward business, school officials said.

"During this time of depression when jobs are scarce, the students realize that they must be well trained in some special line first to obtain a job, then to hold it," Supt. Bogan said. "The schools can't keep pace with the demand for vocational training. Many boys remain in school just for such twe year courses.

"The competition among unskilled workers is very great—even cruel and disheartening for the youngsters. As a result, those who have gone out from school without having had vocational or commercial courses are returning to the special schools."

Supt. Bogan cited the case of the new Lane Technical High school, not yet ready for occupancy. Hence the Lane students numbering 7,000 to 8,000, must be housed in ninety portables and branches, spread over a wide territory. The original Lane school was built for 1,200 students.

Of the boys attending the Lane school, Supt. Bogan said, 1,000 are studying electricity and 500 auto mechanics. The others are more diversified in their work.

Experimental schools are attracting a big enrollment, according to Supt. James E. McDade, in charge of that work. Both of elementary grade, the schools are the Lewis Champlin and the new Joyce Kilmer. The new school was filled to capacity on the opening day with 705 pupils, while the Lewis-Champlin had 1,300 pupils with accommodations for 1,400.

Actual experience in business is the keynote of the experimental schools, according to Supt. McDade. Model stores are set up, prices figured and pupils sent to "buy" what they might need in their homes. Plans are to teach them how to keep budgets and make investments.

New Singers Obtained for Chicago Opera; Soprano Is Only 19

Enthusiasm for the 1931-'32 season of the Chicago Civic opera almost overflowed the office of Herbert M. Witherspoon yesterday, so glowingly did the new vice president and artistic director of the opera describe the operatic outlook for Chicago.

In the first place Mr. Witherspoon made it be known that he wasn't loitering around Europe during his ten weeks abroad. He was searching for talent of real artistic merit, and yesterday, his first day back at his desk, he announced that he had found it.

And further, Ziegfeld may be envious of some of the feminine beauty that comes from across the Atlantic. Admirers of the crooning Vallee may turn their attention to a young Polish tenor who looks, Mr. Witherspoon added, more like a college athlete than a singer.

"Jan Kiepura is the leading European tenor of the day," Mr. Witherspoon said. "He has made sensational successes already at Covent Garden, in Vienna, and at La Scala in Milan.

"As for the new women artists, there's 19 year old Serafina D'Leo, born in New York of Italian parents, and the youngest prima donna ever to be engaged by a Chicago company. There is Mme. Rosetta Pampanini of the Italian Opera company, and Mme. Clare Clairbert of Belgium."

Mlle. D'Leo, a dark, slim brunette, made her debut at La Scala. She was signed by Mr. Witherspoon after he heard her this summer at Genoa.

Mme. Pampanini, a lyric soprano, was accorded a success in "Mme. Butterfly." She may make her debut here, however, in "Tosca," on the opening night. As for Mme. Claibert, she is a coloratura soprano from Brussels, and lays claim to being the only blond signed during the summer.

Victor Lawson Memorial Is Dedicated at Graceland

A memorial to the late Victor F. Lawson in the form of a statue, "The Crusader," in heroic size, executed by Lorado Taft, was unveiled yesterday on the Lawson burial plot in Graceland cemetery.

The statue was cut from a single block of dark Quincy granite, treated so as to resemble darkly polished bronze by a process revived by Mr. Taft from the days of ancient Egypt. It was the gift of Iver N. Lawson, 2430 Lake View avenue, brother of Victor F. Lawson. Mr. Lawson was publisher of the Daily News for half a century.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.] Sidney Howard, who wrote the screen treatment for "Arrowsmith" as a vehicle for Helen Hayes and Ronald Colman, was preparing to leave Hollywood for New York when he got entangled in a backgammon game with Miss Hayes. Now, while Miss Hayes may not be the recognized backgammon champion of the Pacific slope, she is a very proficient performer with a pair of dice and fifteen checkers, and Howard never got to first base.

"Say, I'm going to stay here until I beat Helen Hayes at backgammon," he said, and his railroad reservations had to be canceled for several successive days before he did.

Joel McCrea, who is enthusiastic about two things—playing film leads for money, and playing cowboy for fun—got the big kick of his young and gratifying movie career when signed for his current rôle, which combines his two interests. He plays opposite Hope Williams, the New York stage star, in her talkie starring vehicle, "Penthouse," which takes the company for six weeks to Miss Williams' Wyoming dude ranch for exterior shots.

So that McCrea, who spends his days off from film work visiting at Will Rogers' ranch and roping calves as an amateur, will have thousands of Wyoming cattle to practice on for the coming month and a half.

One by one the old film landmarks pass. Western Costume Company, Limited, which was supplying film companies with properties and picturesque costumes when Mary Miles Minter and Barbara LaMarr were knocking them dead, recorded a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today.

In the wake of Nancy Carroll's peeve about playing in "The Man I Killed," because Phillips Holmes was to have first prominence in the advertising, comes the announcement that Lionel Barrymore, and neither Nancy nor young Holmes, will take the precedence in the billing. Paramount will lavish much money and attention in an effort to make this an outstanding picture for 1932 release.

Don't Get Tense, Discouraged Over the Baby's Habits

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There are several young mothers who write me at intervals. Some months ago they expressed themselves desperately about what they felt was their complete failure in training their babies, or near-babies, in habits of elimination. They were concentrating on it, but making no headway.

Then recently they wrote me again—all interesting letters. Here is one of them:

"After the toilet training problem solved itself, I often thought I would write and tell you what was the result, but was afraid that it would be just another boring letter.

"Joan suddenly began to go to the toilet without accidents, almost overnight! I scarcely realized the turning point. It was suddenly just natural for her to tell me and go. I think I expected too much of her at eighteen months in view of the elaborate earlier training. It took another two months before she was completely 'waterproof.' I sometimes wonder if the early part had any effect at all. I think that it is more fastidious, anyway—at least in its effect on the mother! With the next one I believe I'll start a bit later, however."

There is one sentence that should be underlined, "I expected too much of her at eighteen months." Many mothers do so in this particular respect. Mothers need to realize that the turning point in this matter does not come at the same age with all children, and that it is a more complicated thing than they realize for a child to develop a sense of responsibility about these habits of elimination.

Our leaflet on the subject contains some suggestions on how to get a reasonable and modern viewpoint on the subject and how to get results. When requesting it please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOOD TALK.

Mrs. G. H. M. wants a recipe for burnt sugar cake, and she writes:

"I would like very much to have a recipe for burnt sugar cake, and to know just how to burn the sugar so that when the sirup is cool enough to add to the cake dough it will pour out of the skillet—not be thick and sticky as mine is."

There is a trick to making burnt sugar sirup and the most important thing for the cook to remember is to make the sirup before she starts her cake batter. For the sugar, after it has once been placed in the skillet over a low flame, should be watched constantly. Stir it frequently to prevent its burning. When it has become a dark amber color—not black—add the hot water, and bring to a boil. Then your sirup can cool as you get your cake ingredients ready for it.

SIRUP.

Melt ½ cup of sugar in a skillet until it is a dark amber. Then add ¼ of a cup of hot water to the sugar and bring to a boil. Cool.

CAKE.
1½ cups of sugar.
2 eggs.
2½ cups of flour.
5 teaspoons of baking powder.
1 cup of milk.
1 teaspoon of vanilla.

Cream the butter; add the sugar, and cream together. Beat the yolks of the eggs well, and add to the sugar and butter. Add the cooled burnt sugar sirup to the mixture. Sift the salt and baking powder with the flour. Alternate in adding the flour and the milk to the batter. Add the vanilla, and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

This is such a rich cake it doesn't need a frosting. If you still feel you would prefer it with one, make a simple white boiled icing, and spread it very thin over the cake.

Tomorrow's lunch brings us a real treat in the "eggs creole." Ask your next door neighbor to come over and enjoy them with you. Maybe she will be more willing to loan your husband the family lawnmower next spring!

EGGS CREOLE.
1 cup canned tomato soup.
1 tablespoon chopped green olives.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
1 teaspoon butter.
½ teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Mix all the ingredients [except the eggs and the parsley] and simmer gently for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, butter four custard cups and drop two eggs in each, being careful not to break the yolks. Sprinkle the eggs with parsley and set in pan about ¼ full of boiling water.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Speaking of stockings—which we haven't been of late, because with the dropped skirt and everything we thought we'd take up eye beautifying and tip tilted bonnets and other things—two full grown gentlemen of reputable character, so far as we know [no police record, at any rate] were come upon by the wife of one of them the other day counting, if you please, the women whose stocking seams were straight and those that went zigzag. Now, as an occupation we recommend—

But then, we don't need to go into that. The irate wife went after her man and the other was within plain hearing. Next time's they'll do their counting from behind a newspaper, we suspect.

But with all the chatter abroad about what men despise in women, and crooked stocking seams and wrinkled stockings being two of their major hates, just why won't women moor theirs to the garter landing more securely. It isn't the crooked seam, but what it does to the shape of the calf, that annoys. Some bright boy, or girl, I don't remember which, said that a woman who went about with wrinkled stockings had lost all hope.

Anyway, that's enough to say about wrinkled hose or crooked seams, except to add that if the boys are making crossword puzzles or playing any other little boyish games while waiting for their wives—lest don't quite yours.

This fall we ought to have a real leg display, due to the popularity of those slenderizing browns that are coming into popularity. The darker shades of stockings, however, must be very thin or when they're washed they do not show up the leg as flatteringly as expected.

But, say what you will about the harmony of lighter shade stockings with dresses, there's nothing quite so kind and good as a very sheer gun metal, brown, or black stocking. In one of the current Broadway shows is a leading lady with a spectacularly fine pair of underpinnings. You're entitled with the price of your ticket to see the lady in one act wearing light stockings, in the next fine, fine black. And what those darker ones do to her already magnificent pedal extremities is just something gorgeous.

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Bonnelle is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined. She leases a Montana rancho and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is the leader. Ranse Brennan, a former foreman of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and swears revenge. Lee hires a new hand, who is recognized by Dune Dargett, an old ranch helper, as Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine near Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares calls at the ranch for dinner and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver. That day while out driving Lee and her ranchera are attacked by a band of soldiers. Megares comes to live at the rancho, to protect them, he says, though they really are his prisoners. Doris is rescued by airplane by her husband. Lee refuses to leave her ranch—and Jack Hadley, whom she loves.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

"WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH ME."

After the girls, metamorphosed into dusky young Mexican maidens, had left the house on their way to the plane Jack waited in a stress of anxiety the result of their adventure. He did not pace the floor or make any display of his worry, but his excitement was none the less keen edged.

He examined his revolver. It was a part of Megares' mocking gesture that he had not disarmed them. But he had taken good care to leave plenty of men to watch they did not escape. Soon now, if the plan of the women to reach the plane did not miscarry, the Lazy R riders would be starting on a long journey.

He heard the distant roar of the plane. He caught a glimpse of it diving northward. The dread lifted from his heart. They had made it. They were headed for safety at last. In a couple of hours they would be looking down on brown Arizona. If they got across the line Megares could do his worst.

Then the door of the room opened . . . and Lee walked in to meet him. From his throat leaped a cry of amazed distress.

"You failed?"

"No, we succeeded. Doris got away."

The eyes of the girl were starlike. "There wasn't room for me."

"Not for you! Did Silver go and leave you here?"

"He wanted to stay. I wouldn't let him. Did you think I'd go and leave you here alone . . . you and my waddies . . . for Megares' to take vengeance on . . . after I'd brought you all here?"

He caught her by the shoulders. "My God, girl, do you realize what you've done?"

"With me here you'll have a better chance," she said simply.

"I am afraid," he confessed, miserably.

"At your expense," he burst out. "Don't you see, Lee? He'll make you pay, too, for what we've done."

"Why shouldn't I, if it has to be?" she cried softly. "Why should you suffer alone? I couldn't go, Jack . . . I couldn't . . . I couldn't . . . and leave you here."

He saw in her eyes the fire which is lit for only one man, and it struck a spark to the banked passion within him. He had ached to take her in his arms, this fine brave young creature who had grown into his life. He snatched her close, and body clung to body in mad sweet intimacy.

They forgot time, forgot the desperate plight in which they were. One certainly stood out, in a situation that made for many doubts. They had found each other. No sinister fate could rob them of that.

"Before I met you I used to think I must be the kind of woman who couldn't love," she confessed. "I met men, and each one was just another man. But when I met you, the very first time, something queer happened inside me, and I knew it was different this time. I knew you were the man I wanted."

Looking down into her shining amber eyes, he laughed, her soft strong body in his arms.

"And I, do you think I wanted love . . . this kind of love, that possesses one? I was hard as nails. I knew all about women. I expected to lead a life of intelligent selfishness . . . that side of me, at least. A sort of Megares inside the law, one fitted to the social system . . . that is about what I intended, to play my own hand first and last."

Her fingers tightened on the muscles of his arm. [And even in that moment a fugitive subconscious joy raced in her at the feel of the flowing, rippling muscles which gave the motions of his body such a tigerish litheness.] That he loved her was still almost too precious to believe.

"I was all for myself too," she admitted. "I had to be first. Everybody had to know that I was boss. And now . . . I am all yours. What are you going to do with me?"

He came to earth. "First, I'm going to save you if I can. We were going to make a break to get away. But with you here . . ."

"Oh I haven't told you yet. Harold is coming back with a big passenger plane to try to pick us up."

"When?"

"He may have to have it sent from San Diego or Los Angeles. He gets things done in a hurry. By tomorrow he'll very likely get back."

It occurred to Jack that tomorrow might be too late, but he did not say so.

"He's going to bring a machine gun," she explained. "I told him to make a landing on the mesa. We're to try to reach the plane."

Swiftly his mind swept over the problem. With Silver and his machine gun, and five or six good fighting men by his side, the chance of escape would be far better than to try to make a run for it now. That is, if Megares left the cowboys free and did not take their arms. For himself, Jack knew that the savage impulse of the bandit would be to put him before a firing squad.

Another plan suggested itself to Hadley. If Lee, in her Mexican garb, could get out of the house again she might wait in the hills back of the mesa until Silver's plane arrived. Lee objected, instantly and with energy. She would not desert her lover. Staying, she would divide the blame and perhaps the punishment. If she went, too, the vengeance of the bandit would fall on Jack alone.

They argued the matter. Into the discussion walked the officer in charge of the soldiers at the rancho.

He gave his name as Lieutenant Rodriguez.

"Where is Señora Silver?" he asked in Spanish.

Lee answered, smiling at him. "We don't know."

"What do you mean you don't know?"

She too spoke in Spanish. "Mr. Silver arrived in an aeroplane and she has gone back with him in it to Arizona."

Rodriguez stared at her, aghast and shocked. The general had left her in his charge, had told him plainly that he was responsible for her safe keeping. If he had let her get away . . . But he would not believe it. They were making a fool of him, these gringos.

He called in soldiers and searched the house. They found Mrs. Silver's clothes, but they did not find the lady. Rodriguez was in a panic. He put Hadley and Lee in a locked room and guarded both door and windows, after he had first disarmed the male prisoner. A messenger was sent post haste to Megares with the news of the escape.

The situation of the two prisoners was precarious, but there was no despair in their hearts. If they were locked in a prison, at least the rest of the world was locked outside.

In the afternoon there broke upon them the sound of thunder. They listened.

"The big guns are booming," Jack said. "Must be a battle on. It has been due several days. Luna has been massing government troops. He ought to win, unless he is attacking prematurely.

Through the windows they observed the restlessness of the soldiers. They were as uneasy as quicksilver. They could not sit still but gathered in groups to talk excitedly.

Even the coming of darkness did not bring a cessation of the artillery fire. It became apparent that this was no skirmish but a major battle.

Juan lit the lamps and afterward brought in food for the prisoners.

Rodrigues came in before they had finished eating to tell them of his dispositions for the night. They were to be in adjoining rooms. The place would be well guarded and if they attempted to escape they would be shot. The officer treated them courteously but with a manner of hurt resentment. He seemed to feel that their connivance in Mrs. Silver's escape had been with deliberate intent to injure him. When he referred to it his voice quavered.

As they lifted their glasses the eyes of the lovers plumbed each into those of the other. They were drinking a pledge to the brave adventure that was to stretch down the years for them.

The Mexican officer drank, but there was no joy for him in the toast. He knew Megares too well.

"I am afraid," he confessed miserably.

Jack had realized this. "Of what use?" he asked. "What is to be will be, unless by foresight and boldness you can avert it."

"I have a wife and a baby."

They were speaking in Spanish. "That is too bad," Jack told him gently. "Why don't you slip away and go over to the Federals? General Luna will win. Go now, while there is time. Take us with you. Miss Reynolds' vaqueros will ride with us as an armed guard. We will protect you."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Spoke the Truth

Some time ago, on a summerlike evening, we had planned to motor to the neighboring suburb. I was donning my coat and hat when the doorbell rang and, hearing some one go to the door I called out, "Mother, I hope that isn't that old gossip come over to get you to play cards."

To say I was embarrassed is putting it mildly for when I walked to the door there stood our gossipy neighbor with a look of hauteur on her face.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Father's Plea.

"I am the father of a large family and haven't had any work in months. We are all in need of clothes and I wonder if you can help me. The boys are 15, 13, and 4, and the girls are 17 11, 9, and 3 years. I wear size 40 and size 7½ shoes. J. P."

This man has been making an earnest effort to locate some kind of employment ever since he lost his job. With a family of his size, unemployment makes the situation serious and any help given him can be well used.

BY THALIA——

THE wedding party of Miss Leslie Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, and Dewey Lockwood Pierce of Riverside, Conn., who are to be married next Thursday afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, the Hallett Thornes, will include Mrs. Robert H. Andrews, Miss Thorne's sister, as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids Mrs. Hallett Thorne, Miss Dorothy Neff of Kenosha, Wis.; Mrs. Gertrude Pierce Thomas of California, the groom's sister, and Miss Eloise Requa.

Joseph A. MacDonald of New York City is to be best man, and the ushers will be Hallett Thorne, Robert H. Andrews, Clarke Miller of Pittsburgh, James Coffey of New York and Chicago, and William Koch and Leonard Lyones, both of New York.

Mrs. Stanley Zaring Calls Meeting of the Service Club.

Mrs. Stanley Zaring, president of the Service club, has called the first board meeting of the fall, in her house at 11 o'clock this morning. The subject under discussion will, of course, be the annual benefit revue, "Hit It Up," to be presented at the Opera house on Oct. 24. There'll be just exactly a month allowed for rehearsals, as the first tryouts are to be the 24th of this month. Several of the board members aren't back from summer vacations yet, but most of them are on the job.

Conversationale—The art class at Mrs. Aldis' studio hopes to keep going through this month and October. Under the instruction of Hubert Ropp [for the last eight years head of the Ohio Street Academy of Design, now discontinued] the students are surprising themselves with the work they're accomplishing. . . . Jean Adams has had a couple of attractive offers to continue her crooning on the radio —one with a coast to coast chain orchestra program — but thinks that she'll probably have too much to do before her marriage to Samuel Carson Pirie Jr. to accept them. . . . Lots of smart young housewives are going in for canning peaches this year, because they're so good and so inexpensive.

Having returned only the day before yesterday from her summer in Europe, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. is departing again this morning with Mr. Faurot and the boys to motor to Coleman Lake, Wis. They will be at the lake until the latter part of this month. Mrs. Faurot met Mrs. Charles Glore when the latter landed in Havre a week or so ago, and they spent a few days in Paris together, and went to Le Touquet for the week-end. Mrs. Glore is sailing on the 16th.

Series of Card Parties to Benefit Education.

The second of the annual series of benefit card parties arranged by the Southern Woman's Educational alliance is to be held on Oct. 2 at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The Evanston women who are to open their houses for the series on that day include Mrs. Edward P. Welles, Madame Burnham, Mrs. Ray Hoover, Mrs. Richard Lake, Mrs. John Wilder, Mrs. J. Horton Fall Jr., Mrs. Bernard Garrison, Mrs. Guy Shepard, Mrs. Monroe Cockrell, and Mrs. J. M. Watkins. The third of the series is to be on Oct. 9 at the Belden-Stratford hotel, and the hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Ochsner, Mrs. William A. Pusey, Mrs. Charles N. Strotz, Mrs. Hal Crompton Bangs, Mrs. Hardin Fitts, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, and Mrs. L. S. Hungerford.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Douglas of 20 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, will return today from their summer camp in Wisconsin to celebrate the ninety-eighth birthday of Mr. Douglas' mother, Mrs. Sue Lyon Douglas.

As the Santa Barbara summer season nears its conclusion . . . the Charles Garfield Kings plan to remain at their residence in Cold Springs road until the first part of October . . . Mr. and Mrs. Leroy W. Fuller, who have been at the Biltmore, are to depart the middle of this month. . . . The John J. Mitchell house has been closed. Mr. Mitchell came east last Saturday, and Mrs. Mitchell left yesterday. . . . The Earle J. Zimmermans, who have been occupying the Mitchells' guest house on Fernald Point since last June, departed on Sunday, planning to stop off in Kansas City for a visit before returning to Winnetka. . . . Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, the Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylors, and the Alister H. McCormicks had small parties at the opening of the movie, "Camille," starring Jane Cowl, at the Lobero last week. . . . The honeymooning John Irving Shaws [Barbara King] are to stay at a ranch near Jasper Park for awhile and won't go back to Santa Barbara before coming to Winnetka, where they're to set up housekeeping.

County Needs 15,000 Pairs of Shoes to Give to the Needy

Fifteen thousand pairs of shoes are needed by the county public welfare bureau to fit out needy persons who have applied for aid. This was learned yesterday from Joseph L. Moss, head of the bureau.

The shortage is caused by the inability of county officials to sell $1,000,000 worth of poor relief bonds voted by the general assembly. No action has been taken by the county board since July 31, when a request for 24,876 pairs of shoes was made. At that time it was suggested that the distribution be made through retail dealers. This was referred to Superintendent of Public Service James C. Russell for study.

New Hat Fashions Are Helping to Restore Bobs

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Many women who have held out thus far against scissors and fashions are now having their "crowning glory" shorn that they may wear the season's new chapeaux. The long bob, curled into soft little ringlets over the nape of the neck, is most popular, as is the swirl. But there is noted as much individuality of coiffure as of costuming. Happy is she who can dress her hair to best frame her face, as she is dressing her figure to emphasize her personality.

Snow Flies in Alberta; Ends Forest Fire Threat

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Snowflakes spread themselves over the foothills of southern Alberta today, ending the forest fire threat and relieving the dried streams and rivers, where fish had been stranded in shallow pools by the extremely dry weather. The snow hindered harvesting, but it was welcomed by weary forest fire fighters.

Episcopalian Divorce Policy Divides Clergy

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The question of divorce will divide the official delegation from the Episcopal diocese of Chicago as it sits in the general convention of that church next week in Denver. Four clergymen and four laymen from this diocese make up that delegation. One of the Chicago deputies, the Very Rev. Frederick C. Grant, dean of the Western Theological seminary, Evanston, was a member of the national commission which drew up a report that is expected to cause heated debate at the convention.

That report is called liberal because it provides for the liberalization of grounds for divorce instead of limiting the church remarriage privilege to the innocent party who wins divorce on grounds of infidelity. It also provides for the formation of a court in each diocese which will judge whether in the eyes of the church appealing divorced persons may remarry.

Dr. Grant, who will lead the fight for the adoption of the report on the floor of the house of deputies, declared there are other grounds for divorce as valid as adultery.

"If we are going to permit persons to remarry who have divorced their mates on the ground of adultery," Dr. Grant said, "then we should recognize other grounds for divorce which are as bad."

Bishop George Craig Stewart, who will be Chicago's representative in the house of bishops at the Denver meeting, listed divorce as the most important matter to be presented to the convention. Other matters in the order of importance as listed by the Chicago bishop, are: Placement of clergy, report on provinces, utterance of the church on unemployment, the church's world wide program and Chicago's invitation for the general convention of 1937.

Dr. Edwin J. Randall, executive secretary of the diocese of Chicago, a clerical deputy, declared he sees no reason why the church should lower its marriage standards to those of Nevada and Arkansas. He spoke concerning the proposed canon. The Rev. W. B. Stoskopf, rector of the Church of the Ascension, who succeeds to Bishop Stephen E. Keeler's seat in the general convention, asserted the marriage bond is indissoluble.

"There are no exceptions," said Father Stoskopf. "However, there are, of course, the impediments to marriage which should be recognized and which make null and void the marriage from the beginning.

FARM AND GARDEN

ORDER TREES AND SHRUBS.

With the advent of fall comes the most favorable time for sending along your order for trees or shrubs—and if you have been late in doing so, the order for early spring flowering bulbs of iris, peonies, and such plants.

Phil S. Haner, in charge of the state division of plant industry, has issued a timely warning to Illinoisians to use some discretion in purchasing either plants or seed. Many attractive offers of cut rates for lawn grass seed, trees, or shrubbery when investigated have been found entirely unsatisfactory and in many cases a distinct disappointment to those who spent money in good faith.

Mr. Haner urges the use of care in selecting the firm to which your orders are sent. Most of the larger firms, and the big majority of Illinois nurserymen, are giving honest measure, he finds. They welcome questions of reference, and in most cases, are willing to guarantee the germination of seed or purity of varieties.

Haner also advises that in placing orders, both the common and botanical names of desired plants or seed be given, to eliminate any possible mistake in filling the order. A second choice is also advisable in the order, so that nurserymen will occasion no delay in shipment. The fall is the best time to set out trees and shrubs; after frosts transplanting may be done.

College Girl's Dance Dress Is Ruffled

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The wide, romantic streak that runs through the first Paris fall fashions takes in dance dresses for the teens and twenties. Ruffled muslin and other cotton dresses which are more than a little like the get-up of Empress Eugénie are being worn by many a Paris debutante. These dresses have no actual hoops, but they have crinolined stiffening to their many ruffles and the result is just as near to the inflexibly bouffant skirt of the sixties as the Paris dressmakers dare to come at the present writing.

The frock from Callot Soeurs shown in our sketch is one of the big successes in this category of youthful dance frocks. It is made of a kind of muslin in an ice-white shade—that is to say, a white that has a definite bluish tinge, and is just ravishing. The blouse is a simple, girlish thing, with a daytime V-shaped neck, and a bertha of the material slung around the shoulders, ending in a double camelia at the front.

The skirt of this dress is fitted from the waist to the hipline, and below this it flares like a muslin bell, and it is exactly floor length. You're supposed to hold it up when you dance. From hips to hem this skirt is ruffled. First there are two rather narrow ruffles, then three wide ones, placed over each other so that the lower two show only in part, and below this three more, while the hem is one very wide ruffle.

Camelias are placed in the ruffles in front. Every ruffle is crinolined, so it stands out crisply.

Is Doris Duke Home? Maids, Baggage Arrive!

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Miss Doris Duke, 1931's "poor little rich girl," came home today aboard the liner Ile de France. That is, her baggage, and her maid, and her secretary came home, ship news reporters failed to find Miss Duke herself. Miss Duke is only 18, but she is heiress to two trusts aggregating $20,624,000, created by her father, the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate. Although she "came out" last year, and bowed before the queen last spring, she was quoted in Paris as having said: "It's no fun to be the richest girl in the world. I would rather be able to go places unrecognized."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Associate Justice James C. McReynolds of the Supreme court who has been abroad through the summer, has returned to his apartment in the Rochambeau.

The commercial secretary of the British embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart have leased the house at 3324 16th street. It was built and occupied for some years by Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Long of St. Louis when Mr. Long was third assistant secretary of state. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart have lived at 1785 Massachusetts avenue since their marriage, having the apartment formerly occupied by Prince Caetani when he was Italian ambassador. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart are spending the summer at Bar Harbor, where the former's mother, Mrs. Frederick L. McCormick-Goodhart, a native of Chicago, has a cottage.

The governor of the federal reserve board, Eugene Meyer, has returned to Washington from his summer home at Mount Kisco. He will be joined Sept. 23 by Mrs. Meyer and their two older daughters, Miss Florence Meyer and Miss Katharine Meyer. Two Cases of Second Choice Love Put Their Problem Up to Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In one case the girl is 25, the man 37. He loves his old girl. She does not love him. In the second case, the man is 25, his girl 24. He met her knowing she had just broken off with the boy she loved. She tells him that she is doing her best to forget the old love, but it seems impossible. Each victim of second choice love asks about the advisability of giving up the hunt for happiness with one heart bound to another.

It all depends upon the degree of affection felt. If love runs deep for the man or girl involved, it's worth the gamble to hold on a while. It's quite possible to win out completely in the end. I've known case after case of comparable mixed up emotions to work out agreeably.

That phantom love does put a crimp in the dreams of a perfect romance. It's infinitely more agreeable to feel that you and you only occupy the beloved's thoughts. But then time and distraction do clear away memories of an old love. And the more of the latter you can bring into activity, the quicker your sole claim will be staked.

It's mooning over these shadowy background figures that hurts. Every time they're dragged out in the open, they're given an added pound of flesh, so to speak. Their presence is felt more keenly. When ignoring that they ever existed and proceeding on the principle that if you have the beloved's company you have all that can be expected—happiness would be more readily found.

Of course, it depends on how possessive your nature is. There are men and women so feverishly possessive that the thought of another man or woman in the loved one's life throws them into jealous fits. For that type person the best recommendation would be to exit from the one sided heart affair as quickly as possible. If one is made of calmer stuff and understanding there's every chance that his or her patience will be rewarded.

FIND INVESTORS ARE ATTRACTED TO FARM LANDS

Recent Sales in Chicago Area Reported.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Farm lands in the Chicago area are reaching a price level that makes them attractive for investment according to Henry B. Fargo of Geneva, who told yesterday of his recent purchase of three farms, and said he knew of acquaintances who were planning similar investments.

"I have just purchased two farms in Kane county and one in DeKalb county," said Mr. Fargo. "I believe any man able to take hold of one of the many bargains in good Illinois farm land ought to do so. Several farms have changed hands in this section recently, and more will be purchased in the coming months, I am sure."

Other Recent Sales of Farms.

Mr. Fargo, a former state representative is known in the Fox river valley for investments he has made in Geneva and nearby communities, especially Sycamore.

Several other farms in De Kalb county have been purchased at prices ranging from $125 to $175 an acre in recent weeks. Theodore Malen of De Kalb bought the John Hallet farm of 150 acres, north of Sycamore, for $140 an acre. The Constant Marshall farm of 133 acres on the state road north of Serena was purchased by Dr. F. E. Schreppler of Somonauk at $165.50 an acre.

John Nelson of De Kalb paid $175 an acre recently for 160 acres southwest of De Kalb, and the same price was paid by Mrs. Earl Kreiser for an improved 80 acres east of Troy Grove in De Kalb county.

Bank Heads Predict Activity.

Another farm at Four Miles Grove, in De Kalb county, consisting of 205 acres of farm land and 70 acres of timber was bought at $125 by R. N. Crawford of the Mendota National bank, with two other banks interested in the sale to settle an estate.

Farm managers for banks at Aurora, Joliet and Kankakee expressed the opinion that land prices were beginning to interest new buyers in recent weeks. While few sales are being made and most of these to satisfy mortgage holders, these men agreed that new capital would enter Chicago area farming during the next six months.

FRENCH CHIEF WARNS INDO-CHINA FACES COMMUNIST PERIL

PARIS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Minister of Colonies Paul Reynaud declared today on the eve of his departure for French Indo-China that the economic and political situation there is serious because of communist influence.

"Although there has been a betterment from the political standpoint," he said, "there is still a situation requiring all of the government's attention due to communist agitation."

He added that economic conditions in Indio-China were due to a crisis of overproduction in raw materials, rice, rubber, and other commodities. M. Reynaud will also visit the Dutch East Indies and Siam.

NEW CIVIL WAR IN CHINA; CHIANG RUSHES TROOPS

Canton Rebel Army Enters Hunan Province.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Only one month of peace has elapsed since the ill-fated rebellion of Gen. Shih Yu-San was crushed in the north, but China today was girding herself for another civil war.

With the Cantonese invasion of Hunan province confirmed, Nanking, while repeatedly professing a desire for peace, is energetically preparing for conflict. President Chiang Kai-Shek's activities have been diverted from flood relief measures to war preparations.

Indications are that he is making ready to strike swiftly, hoping to shatter the southern invasion before it penetrates too far into Hunan.

Three divisions of National Guards, Chiang's crack units, are en route to central Hunan while other forces are concentrating on the Hunan-Kiangsi border. It was reported nine Nanking air squadrons, totaling seventy planes, are being mobilized for the expected conflict.

Military experts expressed the opinion the Hunan campaign probably will be swift and sanguinary, since the armies of both sides rank as the highest among the Chinese military in offensive qualities.

Confirmation of the Hunan invasion by the southerners was contained in dispatches stating an advance column of Gen. Chang Fah-Kwei, one of the Cantonese commanders, occupied Chenchow, southern Hunan, on Sept. 4. Apparently there was on resistance.

Meanwhile the national flood relief commission approved the $70,000,000 Mexican (about $21,000,000 gold) program of Finance Minister T. V. Soong for the relief of China's destitute millions.

SPEED FLYER BAYLES TAKES INJURED AIDS HOME BY AIRPLANE

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Lowell R. Bayles, Thompson trophy winner, tonight repaid a debt of loyalty to two mechanics, Harry Jones Jr. and Nelson O. Lundgren, who had worked on the plane in which he won his victory at the national air races. He brought them back to this city by air from Ashtabula, O., where they were injured in a motorcycle crash early Tuesday morning.

Bayles left for Ashtabula at 6 this morning, and returned here at 6 tonight with the boys lying on cots placed in a Ford tri-motor. They were transferred from the plane into ambulances at the Springfield airport and then taken to a local hospital.

The condition of the men was considered critical tonight and it is possible that amputations of their left legs may be necessary to save their lives.

Bayles will be tendered a formal reception by city officials tomorrow in honor of his victories at Cleveland.

WOMAN GRAFTER AT 80 IS WARD OF SALVATION ARMY

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marian La Touche, the 80 year old confidence woman, who escaped a life sentence as a fourth offender under the Baumes law a month and a half ago by pleading guilty to petty larceny while under a grand larceny indictment, was committed to the care and supervision of the Salvation Army by Judge George L. Donnellan in the Court of General Sessions today. She did not appear to be particularly pleased.

MRS. MARIAN LA TOUCHE. [A. & P. Photo.]

While she escaped a sentence to prison for life she faces confinement for the rest of her days in a Salvation Army home, and the prospect is not inviting to the old woman, who is still lively and knows her way about.

The General Sessions probation officer made an exhaustive investigation of the career of Mrs. La Touche. The investigators found that she was born in Canada, came to the United States sixty years ago and for the last 27 years, when she was not in prison in this or other states, she made her headquarters in New York City.

The report to Judge Donellan stated that up to middle age Mrs. La Touche was a tall, handsome, well dressed woman, addicted to showy jewelry. She was well educated, easily mingled with prominent and wealthy persons, and made a good living by selling them things she did not own.

Her record shows convictions of grand larceny in Philadelphia, Boston, and Chicago, as well as in this city. These convictions the probation report stated, constituted only a small percentage of the complaints which were made against her, but were never pressed.

MEXICAN STATE BANS ALL BUT 9 CATHOLIC PRIESTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—Henceforth there will be only nine Catholic priests permitted in the entire state of Yucatan, according to a law passed by the state legislature today. There are now three Mexican states which have practically ousted Catholic priests from their territories—Vera Cruz, Yucatan and Tabasco.

In Tabasco, Catholic worship has been held secretly for several years. The law there declares that no unmarried priest or minister of religion shall officiate in the state, thus barring Catholic priests. In Vera Cruz only 11 priests are permitted for a population of over 1,000,000, almost all Catholic—nominally, at least. The churches have been returned to the federal government, which under the law owns them.

SANDS POINT POLOISTS LOSE TO HURRICANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Meadow Brook, L. I., Sept. 9.—The Hurricanes, leading contenders for the open championship among the United States polo teams, won the first game of the tournament on International field this afternoon from Sands Point, 18 to 9. A crowd of 7,000 saw the game. The weather was perfect, the field fast and the game closely contested for three chukkers.

Stephen (Laddie) Sanford's Hurricanes, however, got their team play and mallets to working early in the fourth chukker and soon began to ride away from their Sands Point rivals. It was a 21 goal team against a 16 goal team and the result was about as expected. The first part of the game, however, proved a thriller to the crowd. The score was tied after each of the first three periods and Sands Point was riding as it never had ridden before.

Roark, Guest, Sanford Stars.

The powerful mallets of Capt. Pat Roark and Winston Guest, noted internationalists, and the scoring of Laddie Sanford overshadowed the playing of the Sands Point stars. H. S. (Shorty) Knox of Buffalo, a newcomer to Long Island polo, and Jimmy Mills, who starred in Chicago against the Santa Paula team, played well for Sands Point, but it was young Harry Hopping who rode the hardest and scored the most goals.

Guest and Hopping staged several sensational riding duels and Capt. Roark was taking care of both Mills and Knox at times. Roark probably played the hardest, cleverest game of any man on the field, but Sanford's riding and scoring brought the crowd to its feet in almost every chukker.

Until the fourth period was well under way it seemed it was anybody's game. Then Sanford began passing to Roark and Roark began passing to Sanford and the scores began to pile up. The Hurricanes scored three goals in the fourth, five in the seventh, and three in the eighth, and Roark and Sanford were in on every goal shot.

Score Four Free Shots.

Four of the Sands Point goals were the result of fouls by the Hurricanes. One of the free shots was from the 10 yard line in the seventh, when the referee called Sanford and Roark for dangerous riding.

Young Preece, son of a Westbury pole pony breeder, was playing in his first big tournament and his three goals, one of them a steal from Hopping, insured him a permanent place as some Long Island team.

Billy Post II., who played back for Sands Point, found Sanford a tough man to ride against and as a consequence was not in much of the scoring.

Meet Hurlingham Tuesday.

The Hurricanes will go against Hurlingham, the highest goal team in South America, in the semi-finals next Tuesday. The next game in the open championship will be played here Saturday between Santa Paula, another Argentine high goal organization, and Sands Point.

The lineup:

RUTH REGAINS BATTING LEAD, THOUGH IDLE

The big six and American league batting lead today fell to Babe Ruth. The Babe was idle as far as American league competition was concerned yesterday, but he took the lead when Al Simmons failed to get a hit in four times. As the result the standings give Ruth leading by the slim margin of one point. Simmons was the only member of the honored group to see action yesterday. Standing:

SWEET CHARITY.

Friend Arch: Well, Arch, you said I should go out to the Cubs-White Sox charity baseball game and write anything that Irving Vaughan and Ed Burns didn't see. So I sat down right between them and watched them to tell when they weren't looking, and they were looking all the time and I had thought from the way you talked that maybe they went out every now and then for two or three innings and you wanted me to report while they were gone. But they were there at the start and stayed to the finish.

Well, Arch, it was a great game and a great crowd and a great cause. And when you get about 35,000 people out to a ball game and they get more than their money's worth, and their money's worth amounts to nearly $45,000, it's some affair.

Because Irv and Ed seemed to be watching all the time and maybe didn't miss anything, I'm not going to tell you things they didn't see, but just give you my impressions. Well, we saw one play I never saw before and never expect to see again. It was a batter retired at first base on a sharp bounding ball to third which was thrown to second for a force out, only it didn't go to second base but it did get to first in time to beat the runner. It wasn't exactly difficult but conditions like that don't often happen.

It was in the last of the sixth inning, two outs, man on first, Watwood at bat. Watwood hit a sharp ball to Hornsby which bounded high. Rogers turned and chose the shorter throw toward second instead of first. Fonseca probably was there ahead of the ball anyway, but the throw was wide and the ball traveled on into the hands of Herman, who had started late to cover second, thinking the play would be to first. His late start enabled him to receive the throw perfectly and relay on to first ahead of the runner

Another thing, Arch, it was worth $1.50 of my money, which doesn't go on the expense account, to see old Red Faber go along the way he did for six innings. Perhaps if there hadn't been that dropped fly in center field, the game might have been going yet, only the Sox had to take a train for New York in the late afternoon and maybe that's the reason Watwood dropped the fly, so they could catch the train. After that, of course, it didn't make so much difference, the way Root was going and the way the Cubs were fielding, just trying for and coming up with everything.

There wasn't the least bit of "exhibition" about it the way the game was played. Both teams were trying harder than in their usual games and the thought occurred to me that if they played against each other all season, one Chicago team would win every day, which is somewhat better than the percentages of the last week or so.

Another thing, Arch, isn't this lemon thing becoming trite? It's mildly humorous the first 100 or 200 times you see it, but after that it's just monotonous. It was in evidence whenever Rogers Hornsby came to bat.

That ought to make some more reading matter for fans in your column, because Cub fans will say Sox fans threw the lemons and Sox fans will say that McCarthy and Hack Wilson Cub fans threw the lemons. So, whenever Hornsby came up there were lemons, boos and cheers, according to the sympathies.

I sort of hate to bring up the subject, but do you think I ought to pay my own cab fare, too, or does that go on the expense account? Please let me know about it. See you tomorrow.

Levinsky Floors O'Kelly Twice, but Gets Only a Draw

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky knocked down Con O'Kelly, champion of Ireland, for the first time in that young Irishman's life last night at White City. More than that, Levinsky sent O'Kelly to the floor twice in the first round. Then the King followed with a series of punches which tattooed O'Kelly from waist to chin for the remainder of the fight, except the fifth round, which went to O'Kelly.

It was well for the west side boy that he bounced the Irish lad around in that first round, for at the end the judges ruled the bout a draw.

The decision was arrived at as follows: Judge R. H. Bell voted for O'Kelly, 52 points to 48; Judge William Battya decided the bout was a draw, while Referee Dave Miller gave the decision to Levinsky, 56 to 44.

Officials announced the paid attendance last night as 4,999 and the net receipts as $7,234.

O'Kelly Goes Down Twice.

With the exception of the first round, the fight was very uninteresting. Neither heavyweight is a boxer, and, knowing this, the crowd could only have been satisfied with a knockout. It seemed that would be the ending in the first round. Less than a minute after the start O'Kelly walked out with his chin up and the King tagged it with a right. For the first time in his life O'Kelly was on the floor.

O'Kelly popped up at the count of nine and, still dazed, caught another full powered right. This time O'Kelly spun on his heels and dropped for three seconds. The King swarmed in and hammered at his nearly helpless opponent, but the bell found O'Kelly still up and hanging on.

This demonstration of stamina should have taught Levinsky that O'Kelly was not to be knocked out, but the King paid no attention. In every round he kept punching at O'Kelly, probably thinking that he would at least pile up the winning points in that fashion.

O'Kelly Takes Everything.

Levinsky slowed a bit in the fifth when he was worried about a gash O'Kelly's glancing left had opened over his eye, and O'Kelly won that round, principally because the King didn't hit him.

O'Kelly was game. He took every punch he could intercept and rushed the King. But in the main, O'Kelly forgot to punch and in the seventh round, he couldn't, for once again he wobbled around the ring dazed by another of Levinsky's rights.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., welterweight, won as he pleased from Al Wolgast, Cadillac, Mich. Wolgast gamely finished the bout, which was the last on the card.

Taft Yields to Calmes.

Nick Taft, Chicago light heavyweight, became discouraged in the second round of his match with Baxter Calmes and asked the referee to stop the bout. Taft's discouragement was a right hand which popped against his face repeatedly, and, unable to find how this was done, Taft resigned in favor of Calmes.

Dick Sisk and Jackie Davis, lightweights, put on the best bout of the night. For six rounds the battering was about even, with Davis starting a bit faster but Sisk coming on in the fifth. The verdict was a draw, which saved Sisk's long record of victories.

New York Benefit Game Nets $59,642.50.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Sept. 9.—The Yankees and the Giants today played their first ball game together since the world series of 1923, a benefit performance for the local unemployed which drew 60,549 customers at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2, and the Yanks won, 7 to 3. This was more customers than the Cardinals and Athletics can hope to play to in any one game of the impending world series, because today's crowd seemed to split some of the seams of the Yankee stadium, the largest ball yard in the country, with about 50 per cent more capacity than the St. Louis yard, which is larger than the one in Philadelphia.

There was a patron for every seat in the house and there were some patrons dangling from the girders whom the architects, even in their vast optimism of 1923, did not anticipate. All present, with the exception of the players and the umpires, were supposed to have paid to get in, including those who toil at the typewriters and telegraph bugs in the press coop. The receipts were $59,642.50, so the gate crashing apparently was held to a scant minimum.

The Babe Hits Homer.

Babe Ruth, according to his lifelong habit, rose to the occasion with a home run in the eighth inning. The day would not have been an artistic success without this hit and the Babe obliged as he did on those fine occasions in the past when he hit one to adorn the ceremonies dedicating the park and hit one to order for President Warren G. Harding.

It was hoped that this notion to charge the boys of the press coop admission to their place of employment would not be taken as a precedent lest some day the U. S. Steel or Henry Ford should take to charging their factory hands admission to the works. But, at that, there may be some factory hands around the country now who haven't seen the inside of a plant in so long a time that they would cheerfully pay something to get in if they had something to pay.

Might Make It a Series.

The game was prompted and promoted by the local fourth estate on an idea borrowed from Chicago, where the Cubs and White Sox beat New York to the highly original, even revolutionary, scheme of running a big sport event for charity and actually turning the whole gate over to charity. The owners of the Yankees and Giants responded to the proposal with something less than a spontaneous hooray, but they did respond, after all, with reservations. They said that if the patrons betrayed sufficient interest in a single game they would then arrange a three sided series of games, to include the Brooklyn Robins, for the local major league championship, continuing after the close of the regular season.

Lacking sufficient interest to justify a whole series, they would turn over today's entire kitty to the unemployed. The interest was large and noisy, so it is probable that when the magnates meet with the committee Friday morning they will plan to go ahead with the show. In that case the unemployed will get 50 per cent of all the receipts and the players and magnates will divide the rest on a sharing plan somewhat similar to the one laid down for world series money distribution.

The Players Don't Like It.

The athletes, themselves, were not entirely happy over the whole idea and some of them wished that the subject hadn't been brought up, as their shares of a series purse, at popular prices, will not amount to much. But public opinion wouldn't take no for an answer, so they played today and very likely they will continue to.

The big Babe was the only player on the field today who took an active part in the last meeting between the two teams when the Yanks, in three years of trying, finally beat the Giants in a world series. He showed up wearing a soiled white bandage on his right wrist and thumb, reminiscent of

CADDIES STRIKE AFTER FEE CUT; 30 ARE ARRESTED

Philadelphia, Pa. Sept. 9.— (AP) — Thirty striking caddies of the Green Valley Country club were arrested today on charges of creating a disturbance after a meeting to protest against a 10 cent reduction in their $1 fee.

The 75 caddies of the club went on strike today after, they said, a committee which they had appointed to call on club officials to protest against the fee reduction was refused a hearing. The boys gathered at the entrance to the club to discuss the situation while volunteers carried the bags.

When police were called to disperse them the boys scattered, but police caught 30 of them and took them to the station house.

34,865 Fans Pay $44,489 at Sox Park

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The customers at Comiskey park yesterday paid an average of $1.28 a head—that is, if we know how to divide the receipts, $44,489, by the attendance, 34,865.

And when you consider the ballyhoo the show had, what with the Cubs losing nine straight and the Sox losing seven out of their last eight, that's not so bad.

Three Sox players were figured to make errors and two of the selections, Appling and Watwood, came through, Watwood with a muff such as only he can stage. Thomas made an error, but he didn't figure in the advance dope.

One shouldn't be too severe on Johnny, however. He tied Billy Sullivan in the matter of hitting with a double and a single. Watwood was not asked whether he would have liked to have had a chance to throw his bat at Malone, who had been slated to pitch until he got in bad for hoodlum behavior. Malone, it will be recalled, fractured Watwood's skull with a bean ball in the last city series.

The Sox got two men to third before any Cub arrived at that station. But they didn't have a Charley Root to drive them home.

With anybody but old Red Faber on base, the Sox would have made the first run of the game in the third inning. Red was on first as a result of a walk when Sullivan knocked what should have been a run producing triple. But the farthest Red could hobble was third base. So Billy had to stop at second.

Hornsby put himself in the lineup to add batting strength to the Cubs. Rog and Gabby Hartnett were the only ones who didn't get a hit.

The big fielding thrill of the day came when Cuyler raced to the center field flagpole to pull down Smead Jolley's wallop.

The experts disagreed as to what Hornsby intended to do when Watwood knocked him a grounder with Fonseca on first and two out in the sixth. Herman made a slow move to get to second base for a force on Fonseca, but English reached the bag. For an instant it appeared that Rog had thrown the ball into right field, but Herman caught it in his regular fielding position some 10 or 15 feet away from second and relayed the ball to Grimm in time to get Watwood and retire the side.

Manager Donie Bush of the Sox had figured many ways that the Cubs could Charley Root, the ace man of the Cubs' pitching staff, is a charitable fellow when the welfare of his mates is at stake. Ask the White Sox or any of 34,865 folks who paid $44,489 into Gov. Emmerson's unemployment fund at Comiskey park yesterday to watch the two time honored town rivals engage in a battle which was worthy of its cause.

Root was charitable to the National league, and to himself, by confining the American leaguers to six hits, but that wasn't all. He stole most of the day's spot light by his pitching and he also hit. Up three times in a pinch he produced twice—once with a single in the sixth and once with a double in the eighth. His attack drove in three runs and the Cubs won by that margin of 3 to 0.

Sox Use Three Pitchers.

Three Sox pitchers were swept up in a rather fiery attack with which the Cubs supported Root's impressive effort. First there was Old Folks Faber. At the end of six innings he was excused, but there was only one run marring his record and a muffed fly by Johnny Watwood brought that on. Manager Donie Bush shoved in Vic Frasier, youthful and eager for work, but the Cubs turned on him in the eighth and out he went when an opportunity arose for the use of a pinch hitter. Then luckless Tommy Thomas took a hand in the ninth against an enemy he stood on its head a year ago. Tommy wasn't scored on, but he knew he was at work.

Possibly Root won't mind sharing some of his luster with a few of his working pals. There wasn't a slip in their defense, whereas the Sox blundered three times. Even Manager Hornsby, who went to third, where he isn't exactly at home, handled himself like an expert. However, he didn't hit, and hitting was the real purpose of his presence. The prize work was around second base, where English and the youthful Herman looked the part of a pair who had labored long together.

Hornsby Gets Mixed Welcome.

You could tell right in the first inning that there was something extraordinary about the occasion. There was great glee expressed in some quarters when English, leading off, bounced out to Blue. There were more expressions of satisfaction when Faber fanned Herman. Noise broke out in a new spot and in a different tone when Cuyler looped a two bagger close to the line in right field. This brought up Hornsby for a test of sentiment on the Wilson case. Hack was a spectator at the game.

When the manager stepped up there were a few boos, apparently from some of the north side constituents. There also were a few lemons and limes tossed forth by disconsolate sportsmen. But the cheering and hand clapping reduced the booing to the state of a faint squawk in a wind-swept wilderness. Hornsby finished his appearance by grounding out to Appling. In the Sox half Cuyler showed how center field should be played by racing back to the center field wall for Jolley's drive.

For a few moments in the second it looked as if the Cub adherents were going to be able to yell, "I told you so" over to their neighbors. Dan Taylor singled to right with one out and Grimm forced him on a fast pickup and throw by Blue. Hartnett survived when Appling's over-anxiety led him to fumble an easy grounder. It did no harm, because Root fouled to Grube. Then Watwood steamed up the south side element in the home half by doubling into the left field corner with one gone. He went to third on an out but no farther.

More Threats in Third.

Both factions continued making threats in the third, that of the Sox being the most promising. English opened for the Cubs by beating out a slow bounder to Sullivan. Herman tried to sacrifice but bunted to

GAR WOOD NOW DENIES TRICK TO DISQUALIFY DON

Merely Wanted to Beat Briton, He Says.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The 1931 Harmsworth trophy race passed into history today, but reverberations over the international event continued.

Kaye Don, British challenger, whose Miss England II. was removed yesterday from the bottom of the Detroit river after it capsized Monday at a turn, took the boat to Windsor today to prepare it for shipment to Toronto.

Wood Denies Tricking Don.

Gar Wood, whose Miss America IX. was disqualified along with Don's boat because both crossed the starting line too far ahead of the gun, contradicted statements attributed to him yesterday to the effect that he had deliberately drawn Don over the line ahead of the gun, with resultant disqualification of both boats. Wood was quoted yesterday as saying he had planned the false start and "everything worked out according to my plans."

Today Wood declared there had been a "misunderstanding," and said he did not lure Don over the starting line, but that his determination to get away ahead of Don led him to "jump the gun," the British challenger following him.

Don Awarded Speed Trophy.

Whether Miss America VIII., piloted by George Wood, brother of Gar, which yesterday circled the course after having finished third in Sunday's heat and after having finished the second heat alone, will be declared winner of the race probably will not be decided by the now scattered international racing commission for several weeks.

Don today was awarded the Weyhing trophy for the fastest lap in the race—93.017 miles an hour—made in Sunday's heat. Gar Wood was the first to offer congratulations after the ceremony.

OFFICIAL KNEW OF PLAN.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9.—(AP)—W. D. Edenburn, chairman of the race committee for the Harmsworth cup, said today he knew 15 minutes before the start of the second heat on Monday that Gar Wood was going to attempt to lead Kaye Don across the line for a false start but that he was powerless to warn Don or deter Wood.

"You can't tell those fellows anything," Edenburn said. "They're keyed to a terrific pitch. Besides, Don was out in the river by that time."

Edenburn was inclined to uphold Wood in his action, and he also explained that Don was perfectly justified in refusing a 45 minute postponement the American driver had asked for.

"Gar took the long chance of the Englishman's not following him," Edenburn continued. "In that case Wood alone would have been disqualified and the trophy would have been lost to America."

NEW JERSEY RING BOARD SUSPENDS HENRY PERLICK

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Henry Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., boxer, and Eddie Borden and Charley Bennett of New York, his managers, were placed on the permanently suspended list of the New Jersey state athletic commission after a hearing today.

The suspension came as a result of Perlick's refusal to go on with a fight against Jimmy Phillips at Englewood Monday after the boxers had been called to the center of the ring to receive the referee's instructions. Perlick said he resented the statement of Referee Harry McCoy that he "had heard the fight was 'in the bag.'" Bennett and Borden were said to have urged him on when he left the ring without warning and refused to return.

The commission informed Perlick that the action "indicated a primary admission of guilt." Perlick was offered a chance to avoid suspension by going through with the bout at the next Englewood show, but he refused.

COLEMAN QUITS AS MANAGER OF EVANSVILLE CLUB

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The resignation of Bob Coleman as president-manager of the Evansville Three Eye League Baseball club was announced today.

Coleman has served as manager here since 1928, and has had a winning team each year. Several of his players now are in the major leagues, among them Hubby and Gerald Walker, Tommy Bridges, John Stone, Chief Hogsett and Orin Collier with the Detroit Tigers.

Although Coleman made no statement as to his future plans reports were that he will take charge of a club owned by Detroit in a stronger league than the Three Eye, perhaps Beaumont of the Texas league.

Berg to Shoot at Canzoneri's Crown Tonight

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri puts his lightweight title on the block again tomorrow night for Jackie Kid Berg to shoot at.

The pressure on Tony will not be so great this time as it was in Chicago a few months ago when he gave the Englishman his first championship chance. In that duel Canzoneri struggled against memory of a ten round drubbing Berg gave him in Madison Square Garden before Tony knocked the lightweight crown from Al Singer's head. But in Chicago Canzoneri knocked Berg out in the second round with a right to the jaw.

So tonight Canzoneri rules a 2 to 1 favorite. There is even a conviction among the experts that Berg has worn himself out and again will go down before Canzoneri's right hand punches. Tony, always a fine boxer, seems to have cut down his speed somewhat to add heft to his right hand walloping.

Although the outdoor season so far has set nothing but new lows, a crowd of about 30,000 is expected at the Polo grounds. Since the recent Billy Petrolle-Jimmy McLarnin financial fiasco, prices have been slashed and tomorrow night's bout will be offered at a top price of $5.

Canzoneri came in from Summit, N. J., today, weighing about 133 pounds, two less than the lightweight limit, while Berg completed his work at Orangeburg scaling 134½.

DE PAUL COACH SEEKS 8 STAR REPLACEMENTS

The De Paul university football squad continued dummy scrimmage yesterday. Coach Eddie Anderson must replace eight lost regulars within two weeks to be ready for the opening game with Detroit.

The veterans graduated were Paddy Driscoll and Al Gilbertson, centers; Art Stafford, full back; Red Harrington, half back, and Bill Stotts, tackle. Bill Griffin, star lineman, suffered a broken leg in spring drill and will be out for the season.

Athletic Director Kelly announced a captain will be elected this week to succeed Red Harrington.

CHURCH TEAMS PLAY SUNDAY AT COMISKEY PARK

The first championship baseball game of the Evangelical Lutheran Athletic association will be played next Sunday, at Comiskey park with Golgotha, winners of south side junior division, meeting Bethlehem, Evanston.

The winner of the senior division will play Grace church, the winner of north division, on Sept. 20, at Logan Square park and the juniors will continue their series.

It's a Mistake; Bats Do Not Fly Into Your Hair

BY BOB BECKER.

One has to be careful about bats, because they will make a sudden loop in their flight and get into your hair. Handling a toad will give you warts. Milk snakes can milk cows. The kind of a winter we are going to have can be determined from an examination of a muskrat's house. If a mild winter is coming the house will be low and the walls will be thin.

These are just a few of the fairy tales still going the rounds among adults and children. Not one of the above statements is true. Bats do not burrow into the hair and the muskrat has no special almanac that tells him how to forecast weather. Nor can birds tell anything about long distance forecasting.

If they could they would have more sense than to migrate just before bad weather and perish while fighting a severe spring storm.

The "bat in your hair" myth was tossed at us just a short time ago when we were in Mount Carroll, Ill. We heard the old story one evening at dusk when the first bat made its appearance. Everybody has heard it. It probably goes back many hundreds of years to the days of witchcraft. (Remember how bats are always associated with witches on brooms?) And it's still going strong. There are many grownups who refuse to believe otherwise.

As a matter of fact, the bat is a harmless, inoffensive creature equipped with such marvelous "detection" powers that he not only does not want a contact with humans, but, being able to fly by sound, he can always avoid such a contact.

We know of no animal that can fly "blind" like a bat. Put out his eyes, turn him loose in a room and he'll never bump a thing in his flight. We have seen them, or rather felt them, do it. Once we stood in the chamber of a big South American cave that was filled with red brown bats. Our kerosene torch was extinguished. And then we stood while the bats milled around, hundreds of them. They'd swish past our head mighty close, but not one struck us in the dark. Moreover, not one bored into our hair, although they had every chance.

PLAYGROUNDS TO CONCLUDE TRACK MEET SATURDAY

The Chicago Playground council boys' track and field meet, part of which was held at Soldiers' field on Labor day, will be resumed at Ogden park next Saturday afternoon. All three classes, seniors, intermediates, and juniors, will finish their activities.

The seniors will compete in the high jump, broad jump, and the mile relay, while the intermediates will engage in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, high jump, and the half mile relay. The juniors finished only one event, the 440 yard run, and will participate in the 50 yard dash, high jump, broad jump, and half mile relay.

3 CALIFORNIANS WIN IN NATIONAL GIRLS' TENNIS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP)—California has three chances and Massachusetts one to win the national girls' tennis championship, left undefended by Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., who is no longer eligible for junior competition.

Alice Marble, national hard court junior champion from San Francisco; Gracyn Wheeler, Pacific coast junior titleholder from Santa Monica, and Ruby Bishop of Pasadena, are the three whose quarter-final victories today entitle them to play in the semi-final round tomorrow. They are playing in the national meet for the first time.

Miss Boehm will meet Miss Marble in the semi-finals. Miss Marble had to go three sets to beat Elizabeth Kesting of St. Paul, Minn., 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Bonnie Miller, Los Angeles high school senior, lost to Miss Wheeler, 1-6, 6-3, 6-6. Miss Bishop won from Kay Winthrop of Boston, 6-4, 6-1.

Sullivan on the fly. A fly ball and a grounder disposed of Cuyler and Hornsby. In the Sox half Faber walked with one out. Blue fouled to Barton and Sullivan slapped a long hit to right center but had to restrict himself to a double because of the time needed by Faber to reach third. Root escaped from this jam when Jolley bounced gently to Herman.

The inclination to do something worth while was in evidence again in the fourth. Blue made a beautiful pickup to get Barton, whereupon Dan Taylor walked and Grimm singled to left. Hartnett ruined this by bouncing into a double play. Watwood singled for the Sox just after English, by a perfect scoop back of third, was able to rifle the ball to Grimm in time to turn back Fonseca. Root had no trouble suppressing the ambitions of Appling and Kerr.

Muff Leads to Cub Run.

The usual tokens of esteem were again handed out when Hornsby stepped up to open the sixth with a lazy fly to Watwood. Not much was said when the ball hopped out of Watwood's hands a la Nick Altrock. Grube further complicated matters for Faber by letting Hornsby reach second on a passed ball, but a moment later Barton lightened the load for the 43 year old veteran by fouling to Grube. Dan Taylor bounced to Sullivan and Hornsby was nailed between second and third.

Capt. Grimm was next and he responded with his second single over short. A pass to Hartnett filled the bases. Then Root started making himself doubly annoying. He singled, the ball shooting between Blue and Kerr. D. Taylor scored from third and Grimm started to follow him, but remembered that Jolley throws fairly well. So he turned and went back to the far corner. He was still there when English flied to Jolley to conclude the inning.

Hartnett Picks Off Sullivan.

What the Sox might have done in their half of the sixth if they hadn't been victimized by Hartnett's arm, can't be guessed. Sullivan opened the inning with a single to right. Jolley flied to left and Fonseca shoved a single through short. Shortly after this Sullivan took too big a lead off second and Hartnett's peg to English put him out. A queer play then came up. Watwood bounced to Hornsby, who shot the ball to second. Herman, who should have covered, was back in his position and English, who managed to get to the bag, couldn't reach the throw. But it worked out satisfactorily for the Cubs. Herman caught the ball and threw it to first to retire Watwood.

Frasier's appearance in the seventh caused no outburst on the part of the Cubs, but the eighth was different. Barton opened with a single to right and speedy Dan Taylor beat out a bunt. A fly ball put Grimm back on the bench. Hartnett fanned, but before taking his third swing he furnished a real thrill with a drive which whistled into the upper left field deck. It was foul by inches. Then Root climaxed his day with his double over third, Barton and D. Taylor raging home.

Thomas Saved by Double Play.

There were no runs off Thomas in the ninth, but he had his troubles. Herman singled and Cuyler was safe when Tommy fumbled a bunt. Hornsby looked at a third strike. Barton filled the bases with a single knocked down by Blue. Then a double play by way of the plate on D. Taylor's tap to Thomas ended the inning. In the Sox ninth Jolley singled for the sixth hit off Root, but a fast double play shocked possibilities of a southside spurge.

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—James J. Johnston, promoter of the Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera heavyweight match scheduled for Ebbets field Oct. 1, announced today he had "practically completed negotiations" with Jack Dempsey for a bout with the winner here next summer.

Johnston said he had been negotiating by long distance telephone for a week with Dempsey, who is engaging in exhibitions on the Pacific coast.

"Dempsey is coming back," Johnston said. "His first major opponent will be the winner of the Carnera-Sharkey match. In a day or two I will be able to make public the actual terms and figures of my agreement with Dempsey."

CHAPMAN BEATS 3 MORE RIVALS FOR DASH TITLE

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Ben Chapman, fleet Yankee left fielder and champion base stealer of the league, who has defeated all the speed merchants he has met in the American league, today won a four man race at the Yankee stadium as a preliminary to the meeting between the Giants and Yankees.

He did 100 yards in his baseball togs in 10 3-5 seconds. Earl Combs, a team mate, was second with Francis Healey, Giant catcher, third, and Roy Parmelee, recruit Giant pitcher, fourth.

beat his boys, but none of them included the possibility that Charley Root would knock in all the runs after two were out.

Al Capone was among the spectators. He sat in a box on the Sox side.

Faber had complete control of the situation so long as he had the American league ball, but he didn't like the National league product. One ball seemed about as good as the other to Root.

Each team made two double plays. The Sox executed theirs in the fourth and ninth innings to stave off much trouble. The Cubs' pair were neatly executed routine affairs that blighted the Sox before they could get going in the eighth and ninth innings.

Faber received the biggest hand during the early stages of the game. Hornsby got the most Bronx cheers. Rogers got many lemons and a few straw hats, but didn't seem to mind much.

There was only one threatened homer in the game. In the eighth Gabby Hartnett drove the ball into the left field stand and there were two on at the time. It was foul, however. Gabby furnished the second out by fanning. Then Root drove in the two runs with a double.

The Sox who had come from Cleveland to play the game, took an evening train for New York, where they will play a double header Friday against Joe McCarthy's Yankees. The Sox must win ten of their remaining 18 games to finish as well as they did last year.

a similar badge of suffering worn in one of those conflicts years ago when he limped and groaned through a whole series a mass of anguish.

In those days the Babe was one of the town's most prominent nevergo-homes and the foul breath of scandal reported that he had added a slice in his arm to the fair wear and tear of his trade by banging the heel of a bottle against a hotel wall to pop the cork out. The Babe has reorganized himself socially since then, however, becoming a home loving, book reading householder so domestic that something loud and frisky on the radio is his notion of a night's dissipation.

The Babe Set the Stage.

The Babe popped out in the first inning, struck out in the third, and hit into a double play in the fifth, to heighten the dramatic effect of his home run when he finally did sail one over the right field screen in the eighth with nobody on. A lot of sallow straw hats, rumpled programs and such rubbish came sailing down to greet him as he followed his gently undulating canter around the bases at a slow trot, lifting his cap now and again with a gesture that has become a regal acknowledgment with the practice of years.

Otherwise, the most prominent figure on the ball yard was Big Shot McGowan, the American league umpire, who was working behind the plate. Mr. McGowan called a third strike on Ruth in the third which brought him some sour acclaim as the Babe walked off, his whole being eloquent of martyrdom like a convict going away for what is called a bum rap.

In the fifth, McGowan was compelled to use all his authority on Dave Bancroft, the Giants' coach, who howled too stridently over a close decision as Marshall of his side slid home trying to score. Mr. McGowan finally had to send Bancroft away and this incident had not been forgotten when, in the sixth, there was a dispute over a foul down the third base line.

Spirit of Charity Lacking.

The ukelele umpire at third base, a National leaguer named Stark, called the ball fair and a hit. McGowan called it foul and a strike, and they were thus divided on strict party lines when McGowan reversed Stark by virtue of his authority as chief justice. The spirit of charity was not manifest in any of the remarks addressed to Mr. McGowan.

There was a direct test under clinical conditions of the difference between the National league's sleepy ball with the thick hide and the prominent seams and the American league's official apple with its lively tendencies. In the first four and one-half innings the Giants made six of their ten hits and the Yankees three with the lively ball in place. Thereafter, against the dead ball, the Yanks made 11 hits and all seven of their runs, proving nobody seemed to know just what.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched six innings for the Giants and the score was 3 to 2 for the Yanks when he went away. Bill Walker, who relieved him, was all right in the seventh, but in the eighth six hitters faced him and three runs scored before a man was out.

Forest Hills, L. I., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Frederick J. Perry, England's young Davis cup player, stood as the lone foreign threat in the men's national tennis championship tonight as play came down to the quarter final round.

The elimination of Christian Boussus of France by John Van Ryn of East Orange at 7-5, 6-0, 6-4, left the lower half of the field in the possession of Americans, with John Hope Doeg of Newark, the defending champion, George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago, and Frank Shields of New York as the occupants of the other three brackets.

Shields Meets Doeg Today.

Ellsworth Vines Jr. of Pasadena, Cal., Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex., and Frank Bowden of New York stand between Perry and a place in the upper final bracket. Bowden earned the right to face the British ace tomorrow by putting out Clayton Burwell, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Of the four quarter final matches listed for tomorrow afternoon chief interest centers in the meeting between Doeg and Shields. Shields is rated the favorite, though Doeg has shown definite improvement with each match.

Shields defeated Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., in a five set match. The tide of battle turned against Shields in the fourth set and threatened to sweep him to defeat until he effected the vital break in the seventh game of the fifth set. The score was 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Perry and Bell Pressed.

Perry and Bell also had their worries, while Vines and Lott both came through easily. Lott, who has been playing remarkably fine tennis all week, added to the conviction held by many that he is one of the most dangerous men in the tournament when he disposed of Gregory Mangin of Newark, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. Vines showed his best form for the first time in the tournament in defeating J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5. Perry gained his place in the quarter finals at the expense of Clifford Sutter of New Orleans.

OH DAVE DIDN'T WANT TO WIN, BUT FRONK MADE HIM

Jockey's Ride Eclipses My Dandy's Victory.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Some 10,000 racing folks traveled to Lincoln Fields yesterday to see some of the west's most stylish handicap horses perform in the Stevens Hotel handicap.

But when they left the track they had forgotten the handicap and that My Dandy had won it. But fresh in their memory was Jockey Bill Fronk's ride on the 2 year old Oh Dave, which captured the Narcissus purse at six furlongs.

Nor will they soon forget this piece of jockeyship, for Fronk suddenly came to life and soared into stardom in a little less than a minute. He did it in a way that will cause those who watched him to talk about it for months.

Fronk Started Late.

Fronk wasn't riding a heavily backed horse when he climbed on Oh Dave. Newgro was the one everybody fancied and he went to the post one of the shortest priced favorites of the afternoon.

Newgro is a notorious front runner and when he headed into the stretch lead, it caused little surprised. But the spectators were surprised to see Fronk begin a ride on Oh Dave that would have been a credit to Sloan or Archer in their palmiest days.

Oh Dave was back next to last when this started and was trailing Newgro and the other leaders by some eight lengths. And he was loafing like many good 2 year olds like to loaf on a warm autumn afternoon.

Billy Used Everything.

He wasn't behind long after the stretch run started. For Fronk went to work on him with his whip and his heels. In a half furiong he had Oh Dave running like the midnight express. But Oh Dave, so bewildered by the wild man Fronk in the pilot house, didn't know which way to go.

For a time Fronk let him circle his field and run on the outside. Then he saw a chance to move over next to the rail without interfering with any of those he had just passed up. So he went to the inside. But Newgro still was some four lengths in front of him and Sunday was a close second.

Fronk moved the now flying Oh Dave through a narrow opening and went on past Sunday. He took after Newgro, which was beginning to show the distress signal. At every jump Fronk slashed the lazy Oh Dave with the leather, doing the whipping with his left hand. There wasn't a chance to go around on the outside and beat Newgro. So Fronk drove Oh Dave through on the rail again and got the decision in the last stride.

Dark Sea Wins.

Oh Dave, paying $11.60 in the two dollar mutuels, had thrilled the crowd. And even those who had bet against him joined in the cheering for Fronk when they came back to salute the judge.

My Dandy's triumph in the Stevens was his most brilliant race of the season. For aside from running the seven furlongs in 1:22 4-5, he beat such stylish company as Satin Spar, Battleship and Pittsburgher much as he pleased and had a three lengths advantage at the end. He had led from the beginning. He had his backers, and paid $7.94 to win. The time was within four-fifths of a second of the track record.

Another sizzling race came out of the fourth event, a claiming affair, when Dark Sea turned up as the winner after running a mile in 1:36 2-5. This was the fastest mile of the Lincoln Fields season, and after Lady Capulet had made the early pace, Dark Sea took command rounding into the stretch. He was an easy winner from there home, although Seguro came from far back to be second and Fiddler passed up Lady Capulet to get third money.

Dark Sea was backed by most of those in the crowd, and was an odds on choice at $2.44.

SHORTY CANTLON MAY ENTER ROBY SPEEDWAY CRASH

Shorty Cantlon, winner of the 100 mile race at Altoona Labor day, when he defeated Bill Cummings, recent Roby winner, in the last few laps, will probably ship has car back to Chicago to take part of the series of ten races to be held at Roby speedway on Sept. 27.

Leading race drivers of the country have been sent entry blanks for this meeting, which will have the greatest number of races ever carded on one afternoon.

Injunction Halts Raid on Edwardsville Dog Track

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A writ of injunction issued by Circuit Judge Brown late today frustrated a raid on the Madison Kennel club by Walter L. Moody, chief of the Illinois state highway police, and his men as they were seizing the electrical rabbit and betting tickets at the dog track.

PRECEDE, well ridden and away fast, was rated along under slight restraint the opening three-sixths, went around the leaders at the stretch turn and, continuing well after drawing clear, withstood Lazy Mary. Latter, never far back, but forced to lose ground, closed strong. PLAYAROUND responded when urged hard after reaching the final five-sixteenths, slightly impeded PUPPET in the stretch, and weakened in the final drive. WATER HEN had speed, saved ground much of the way, and faltered in the stretch run. PUPPET was tiring when impeded in the stretch. SUSU appeared to bear in repeatedly and never threatened.

BUGS LEARY broke fast, forced the early pace under restraint, drew into command gradually, and had something left. DIODORA never far back, closed with good courage, but could not threaten the winner. MONTGOMERY MAID broke fast, but was lazy, under restraint, raced wide, and held on well under hand riding. HIGH POCKETS saved ground throughout, displayed speed, and weakened in the last three-sixteenths. GEORGE MAYPOLE had no mishap. LOOP, blocked at the far turn, lost ground thereafter and Tilden finished with a foot out of the iron.

OH DAVE, outrun and dropping far out of it when approaching the stretch, rallied fine speed after straightening up in the final quarter and, coming through on the inside, headed NEWGRO in the final strides for a lucky win. Latter had speed, was considerably raced racing with SUNIDAY, never clear enough to rally, and raced wide while holding on well, losing a tough race. GIVANNA raced forwardly saved ground, and was best of the others. SLASH raced well. SUNIDAY had speed and dropped out of it gradually in the stretch.

Time, :23, :45 4-5, 1:11, 1:36 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dark Sea, $3.44 straight, $3.10 place, $2.42 show; Seguro, $19.08 place, $6.26 show; Fiddler, $2.40 show. Winner trained by T. Stewart. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 3:45½. Off at once.

DARK SEA, going in his best form and under strong restraint while forcing the early pace, drew into command gradually and without need of pressure, winning handily. SEGURO raced wide much of the distance, responded strongly when urged hard, and closed ground steadily in final three-sixteenths. FIDDLER, a forward factor throughout, held on fairly well. LADY CAPULET had speed, was rated well, but weakened badly after being headed. TELA was allowed to drop out of it and never threatened. SKIRL was done after five-eighths.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse $1,700. Handicap. Three year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,250; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50.

MY DANDY moved fast from the start, made the early pace well in hand, slowly drew away after reaching the stretch, and had speed in reserve. SATIN SPAR, a keen factor from the start, went wide at the stretch turn and weakened after three-quarters. BATTLESHIP, Latter, lacking room on the inside during the backstretch, improved his position after entering the stretch, but weakened badly in the last sixteenth. PITTSBURGHER had no mishap. WHO WIN was outrun. PRINCE ATHELING displayed early speed under strong urging.

DABSTER, well ridden and rated along under snug restraint for three-quarters, easily worked his way to the front and came away fast in the final eighth. ROY, taken into the lead, was occasionally shaken up during the first three-quarters, held on well, despite inability to withstand the winner and outfinished CESARE. Latter, a prominent factor throughout, went with good courage in the drive. GALAHAD began slowly, lacked his usual belated speed, and showed a poor effort. JODHPUR quit. VERMICULITE, allowed to drop out of it, was weakly ridden throughout.

ENGLEWOOD, under strong restraint first three-quarters, closed ground slowly thereafter and, standing the drive gamely, got up in the final strides. BRUSH, closer up than usual during the early stages, easily disposed of PRINCESS EDITH, drew clear quickly, and was inclined to loaf in final eighth. TOP HATTIE had no mishap and, holding on fairly well, outstayed the others. PRINCESS EDITH was done after showing speed in the stretch. THUNWIN had no mishap. WELL BEHAVED failed to respond to hard urging and was eased up in the stretch.

Victory Rates Her Best of Age.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Top Flight, Mr. C. V. Whitney's champion filly, led from start to finish in the Matron stakes at Belmont Park today to add $23,750 to her score as the greatest juvenile money winner of the year. The undefeated daughter of Dis Donc and Fly At It seems certain to go to the post favorite for the $100,000 Futurity, the richest race in the world.

Mr. Whitney's color bearer now has won five stakes in succession—the Clover, the Lassie, the Saratoga Special, the Spinaway and the Matron—and is generally accepted as being best of her age regardless of sex. Her total winnings are $68,050. She carried 127 pounds today, conceding weight to all of the six others, and won as easily as she had with lighter imposts earlier in her career.

As good a filly as Mrs. Payne Whitney's Parry, herself a stake winner in the Rosedale, was driving to stay close to Top Flight. At the end of the six furlongs Top Flight won easily by a length and a half from Parry which hung on with tenacity and gameness to save second by a like distance from Mr. Whitney's other color bearer, Pintail. Pintail and Top Flight ran coupled in the betting at the short price of 1 to 7 after opening at 1 to 12. The time was 1:11 3-5.

Bottom Is Reached; Fall Drive Begins.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is paradoxical that sentiment in the steel industry appears to be more cheerful this week despite the fact that operations are at the lowest level in years. The mid-week trade reviews issued yesterday emphasize the belief that steel production is on the bottom, that prices have struck resistance levels, and that a drive for autumn business has begun.

"The passing of Labor day, which marks the end of the summer vacation period, has had the usual effect of injecting renewed vigor into iron and steel sales programs," the Iron Age says. "While it would be an exaggeration to say that any marked betterment in demand is expected to result from a more concerted drive for business, the industry is at least more cheerful, viewing such favorable indications as there are with satisfaction and awaiting further developments with hope.

At Resistance Levels.

"Although adversely affected by Labor day curtailment, present ingot output averages about 30 per cent and before the week-end may again equal or possibly exceed the 31 per cent rate of a week ago. Prices have held rather evenly since the first of August. While the month was a disappointment in that it failed to give any one ha to fall business prospects, it was nevertheless reassuring in that it showed that both production and prices have struck resistance levels.

"Steel ingot output varied little throughout the month and registered the smallest decline from a previous month since the inception of the current recession last April. The record since the first of September likewise suggests that bottom has been plumbed so far as production is concerned. Evidence of improved demand, although too fragmentary to be regarded as conclusive, include a slight gain in releases from the automobile industry, the appearance of several rail inquiries, a heavier flow of public works requirements in structural steel, and more active consumption by a number of miscellaneous industries, among them radio, stove, and steel barrel manufacturers."

Is Less Reassuring.

The picture presented by "Steel" is less reassuring, however. It placed current mill operations at about 28 per cent of capacity, compared with 31 per cent last week. But it says the outlook is that operations will rebound in the next week to at least the level before the holiday.

"Considering all products," the review continues, "there is no change in the market situation so far as mill books are concerned and no expansion in consumers' commitments. But there is still a rather widespread conviction that over the final weeks of September and carrying through October there will be some mild improvement. This, too, is more of an expectation than a deduction founded on actual business."

American Train Speeds Lag Behind March of Progress

BY SCRUTATOR.

Although the efficiency of the American railroad locomotive has been greatly increased in the last decade, road beds of the important trunk lines possibly are the peers of any in the world, and mechanical devices designed to promote safety in operation have been multiplied a great majority of the passenger trains of the nation travel no faster than they did before the war. And, in fact, it has been many years since eighteen hour trains have been running between Chicago and New York.

It is true that some of the transcontinental trains have improved their time between Chicago and the Pacific coast in recent years by about five hours and that on certain lines—between Chicago and the Twin Cities, for example—the running time has been stepped up somewhat, still there has been no startling development on the way of faster trains such as might be expected from the great advances made in other fields of man's activity.

Faster Trains Abroad.

The tempo of life in England and in Europe is generally considered to be much slower than it is in the United States. Yet when the Englishman or Frenchman steps on certain trains he is carried at higher average speeds than are found in the United States.

The passenger business, as well as the freight business, of the railroad is suffering from outside competition. The airplane likely will get the business of the passenger to whom time is vital. But the average traveler for many years will probably prefer the railroad train. At the same time he wishes to be transported to his destination in the shortest possible time. And it is the obligation of the transportation company to fulfill this demand.

Consider the most important passenger haul on the American continent—that between Chicago and New York. It has been stated that given ideal conditions it is possible to make the run on a steam locomotive drawn train at an average speed of eighty-five miles an hour. This would give a running time of from about 10¾ to 11½ hours, respectively, on the longer of the two most important routes between the cities. And it has been stated that these speeds could be made with safety.

New York-Chicago Speed.

The best time reported between New York and Chicago over the New York Central is given as 15 hours and 56 minutes for 960.5 miles, or at an average speed of 60.28 miles an hour. A special on the Pennsylvania covered the 908.2 miles via this route in 16 hours 56 minutes, or at 52.9 miles an hour. Averaging about 70 miles an hour the trip could be made in 14 hours.

However, the operating conditions would have to be perfect for the highest speeds. In effect, private tracks for the express use of these ultra-fast trains—an exceedingly costly matter—would be required. There should be neither highway grade nor railway grade crossings, tracks should be either elevated or depressed through all towns, existing curves would have to be improved, the heaviest rails would be necessary, etc.

Of course, it is stated that the railroads are in no condition financially to embark on any such undertaking as this at this time. But if they are to survive they must improve their services, both passenger and freight. Methods have been suggested to reduce operating costs such as through elimination of unnecessary and costly competition, elimination of nonprofitable branches, etc. Savings secured from the lopping of nonprofitable business could be used to improve service. No corporation would operate for any considerable time a part of its business at a deficit. Factories not able to make a profit have gone out of business. And yet practically every mile of track ever laid in this country, whether now needed or not and whether operated at a profit or loss, is still in use.

Fastest Train in World.

Possibly the fastest train in this country operates between Camden and Atlantic City, N.J. Running once a week, on Saturdays, it makes the 58 mile run in 57 minutes. Contrast this with a train to go in operation next Monday between Paddington station, London, and Swindon. It will make the 77.5 mile journey in 67 minutes, including starting and stopping, or an average speed of 69.2 miles an hour. During the middle of the journey the train will run from 73 to 74 miles an hour. This will be the fastest train in the world.

England has many trains that do sixty miles an hour or better. In France the 95¼ mile run from Paris to St. Quentin is done in 88 minutes, or at 64.8 miles and hour. A Canadian Pacific train running between Smith's Falls and Montreal West—a distance of 124 miles—makes the journey in 110 minutes in one direction and 108 minutes in the other, with average speeds of 67.6 and 68.9 miles an hour, respectively.

In the meantime the American roads, under the impetus of competition, are said to be giving more thought to the matter of speed. One road is watching with interest the experiments in Germany with a propeller driven car.

AMERICANS INVEST OVER 24 BILLIONS IN FOREIGN SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The United States and its citizens on Dec. 31 last held approximately $24,500,000,000 in foreign investments.

The figure included $7,740,000,000 worth of war loans to foreign governments, $15,000,000,000 in private long term investments in factories, mines, public utilities, and government bonds of all kinds and $1,725,759,000 in short term credits.

These statistics were compiled in a study of American investments abroad by Paul D. Dickens of the commerce department's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

The face value of the war debt to the United States treasury is $11,640,000,000, but the actual worth of this debt was fixed by the study at $7,740,000,000 on a 4 per cent compound discount basis. Gov. Grosvenor M. Jones, chief of the bureau of finance and investment said today that the seven billion dollar figure should be taken as the actual value of the war debt.

"Private long term American investments in foreign countries at the end of 1930," the new study said, "amounted to between $14,900,000,000 and $15,400,000,000. Their rapid growth is brought out clearly when the present total is compared with the estimates of investments in 1900 of $500,000,000 and in 1912 of $1,902,500,000. In the last eighteen years this country has increased its holdings abroad by about $13,268,000,000, or about $737,000,000 a year, excluding of course, the war debts to the United States treasury and short term investments."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Directors of New York Central railroad today declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $4 annual basis, compared with $8 paid previously.

This marked the second cut in the New York Central dividend this year, the rate having been reduced from $3 a share by the earlier action. Last year the road earned $7.21 a share on the common, compared with $16.88 in 1929. Indicated earnings in the twelve months to July 31 this year were $3.25 a share. The $8 rate was established by New York Central in 1928. Action of the directors was anticipated by the market, with New York Central selling down to the lowest levels on record since 1860 yesterday.

From 10 to 20 Per Cent.

"Officers and employes receiving over $500 and less than $1,667 per month will receive a 10 per cent reduction in salaries. Those receiving $1,667 and less than $3,350 will have their pay reduced 15 per cent per month. Those receiving over $3,350 will have their salaries reduced 20 per cent per month, effective Oct. 1, 1931.

"In view of the continuing loss of earnings due to the diminution in the volume of passenger and freight traffic the board of directors of the New York Central decided on this reduction, which is ½ per cent less than the dividend paid on Aug. 1 last."

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, was elected a member of the executive committee of the New York Central in place of the late George F. Baker.

The Air Reduction company declared the usual extra dividend of $1.50 a share and the regular quarterly of 75 cents a share. In the last two years similar extras were paid at this time. Rice Bros. & Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on its common, reducing the annual rate from $2 to $1. John H. Price, president, stated that a considerable part of this year's cut of lumber had been sold and that the outlook for newsprint sales in the coming year was "relatively good."

The L. A. Young Spring and Wire corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, reducing the annual basis from $3 to $2.

United Shoe Machinery company has declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents on the common stock, payable Oct. 2 to stock of record Sept. 15. Similar were paid in October last year and 1929.

Initial Distribution.

Mead, Johnson & Co. declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common.

Merchants and Manufacturers' Securities corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on its class A stock, reducing the annual rate from $1.50 to 80 cents. The company explained that it was believed a larger portion of the profits should be placed in reserves.

DU PONTS ACTIVE IN PROPOSED ARMS COMBINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Negotiations looking to the acquisition of the assets of the Winchester Repeating Arms company are being carried on by the Remington Arms company. If the deal is consummated Du Pont de Nemours & Co. will purchase a minority interest in the stock of Remington Arms company.

Acquisition of the assets of Winchester Arms would give Remington total assets of $51,000,000. The Winchester company's assets are about $30,500,000 and the Remington company's assets are $29,500,000. The two companies are the largest producers of firearms in the country, and by obtaining an interest in Remington Du Pont would have a larger outlet for its powder production.

The negotiations looking to the merger are being carried on by Remington's officers and the two bondholders' committees of the Winchester company, which has been in receivership since last January.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Hawked bargains offered by holders grown itchy over the fall business outlook gave the stock market a woe-begone look again today. The list as a whole, however, displayed much better resistance than yesterday and some of the industrial favorites, like United States Steel and American Can, were so strongly supported that they emerged showing slight gains on the day. Many others established new low levels for the year or movement and some compilations show a new low on the "averages."

The news of the day could scarcely be termed favorable, although it probably was no more discouraging than in recent weeks. Reduction of the New York Central railroad dividend to a $4 basis, statistics showing a further curtailment of steel production, and a 12 per cent drop in motor car production for August from the preceding month were among the items on the debit side of the ledger.

Get Comfort from Rumor.

On the brighter side of the picture was a report—unconfirmed but industriously circulated and widely credited—that an important constructive statement might be expected from the White House within a fortnight.

Although no one would presume to guess the subject or nature of the anticipated pronouncement and although efforts to establish the source of the report were equally fruitless, it undoubtedly helped to allay the street's throbbing headache for the time being. Indeed many were disposed to credit this rumor with the steadying tendencies developed by the market as the day wore on. Analysis of the final figures showed a vast majority of the hundreds of issues traded in above their lows of the day when the close first came.

Steel Under Pressure.

While the New York Central dividend reduction was the chief bit of bad news marketwise, it was in the industrial division of the list that the heaviest selling pressure was exerted. United States Steel under unrelenting pressure in the earlier dealings was battered to a new low for the last two years before its friends could get busy and General Motors tumbled to with-

STANDARD DIVIDENDS FOR THIRD QUARTER TO TOTAL $51,900,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Cash dividend payments of the Standard Oil group of oil companies for the third quarter will reach the smallest aggregate since 1928, an estimate of the total indicates. The apparent sum of their payments will be $51,900,000. In 1928 payments for the first quarter were just a trifle less than $49,000,000, while those for the third quarter of 1928 exceeded $50,000,000 by a small margin.

Payments of less than $52,000,000 for the third quarter of this year compare with approximately $58,000,000 disbursed during the second quarter and with $63,000,000 paid the first quarter. In the third quarter of last year the Standard Oil companies paid $68,900,000 to their stockholders.

The sharp drop of approximately $8,000,000 in payments by Standard Oil companies for the third quarter compared with the second quarter was due, first, to the action of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in cutting its dividend from 50 cents to 25 cents a share, and, second, to the failure of the Prairie Pipe Line company to declare a dividend.

In the case of the latter company it was stated that dividend action had been deferred for lack of a quorum, but it was surmised that negotiations for merging the company with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and others may have been the principal motive for postponing action.

SEEKS TO ENJOIN SALE OF CITIES SERVICE STOCK

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 9.—(AP)—In an effort to bring stocks of the Cities Service company under the scope of the Kansas speculative securities act, Attorney General Roland Boynton filed suit today to enjoin sale of the stocks in the state.

Filing of the suit in the Shawnee County District court marked the latest development in the extended controversy between Gov. Harry H. Woodring and other state officials with the Cities Service company and its president, Henry L. Doherty of New York, over gas rates, stock sales, and the right of subsidiaries of the concern to sell merchandise in Kansas.

The Kansas banking department attempted last July to bar the sale of all Cities Service securities except first preferred. Enforcement of the banking department's action was enjoined by the Shawnee County District court on the ground it had been taken under an unconstitutional provision of the act. An appeal in the suit has been carried to the Kansas Supreme court by state's attorneys.

Gov. Woodring has denied responsibility for the banking department action. It was started, however, after representatives of the company, which, through subsidiaries distribute gas in approximately 100 cities in the state, refused the governor's demand for a rate reduction of 10 cents a thousand cubic feet.

Chicago Daily News, Inc., Omits Preferred Dividend

The Chicago Daily News, Inc., has omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, according to an announcement made yesterday following a meeting of directors. Quarterly and annual dividends requirements on the 61,359 shares of preferred stock outstanding amount to $107,193 and $428,813, respectively. According to the report of the company for 1930, earnings amounted to $989,-902, which was equivalent to $1.40 a share on the 400,000 shares of no par common stock after provision for preferred dividends. No dividends have been paid on the common stock. The preferred stock has been on a $7 annual basis since 1926.

Taussig Quits Presidency of Wabash and Ann Arbor

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—(AP)—James E. Taussig, president of the Wabash railroad system, today announced his resignation after 11½ years in that office, and his retirement from active railroad service. He also resigned the presidency of the Ann Arbor railroad, a Michigan subsidiary of the Wabash.

Taussig's withdrawal as president comes at a time when the Pennsylvania railroad is acquiring control of the Wabash. This action follows that of the Baltimore and Ohio, competitor of the Pennsylvania, in acquiring the Chicago and Alton, a competitor of the Wabash.

About this time, N. W. Harris started with small capital the banking house of N. W. Harris & Co. in two rooms in the old Ashland Block down town. From this developed the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, now offering complete banking facilities to modern Chicago. The same spirit of friendly cooperation and the same conservative policies laid down by the founder still guide the management of the bank which takes pride in serving the third and fourth generations of families who became customers in the early days.

TAKE BIDS FOR N. U. AUDITORIUM ON CITY CAMPUS

Cost to Be Approximately $300,000.

BY AL CHASE.

Bids are now being taken on the Thorne auditorium building to be erected on the north side campus of Northwestern university, which it is expected will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. Plans by Childs & Smith, Chicago architects, with James Gamble Rogers, a former Chicagoan, associated, call for a Tudor Gothic structure, to correspond with the other buildings on the campus. The exterior walls will be of field stone.

The building will be two stories and will contain an auditorium with balcony seating 1,050 to accomodate students of the commerce and professional schools of the Chicago campus group. In addition to a completely equipped stage and pipe organ the building will have a dining room, kitchen and lounge. The building will be erected, if bids are satisfactory, at Lake Shore drive and Superior street. Bids close on Sept. 26th.

Seek Aid For Unemployed.

Plans to relieve local unemployment by preventing outside firms from obtaining contractors in Chicago for ornamental and structural iron work were discussed at a meeting of the Iron League of Chicago at the Sherman hotel yesterday.

Chicago's iron foundries are said to represent a capital investment of $50,000,000. At present they are running between 10 and 20 per cent of capacity, said A. J. Preble, secretary of the league.

The Iron league claims that other communities during the depression have prevented outside firms from obtaining contracts for local work. In Chicago many outside firms have been permitted to close bids on a number of important building projects, thus throwing local labor into unemployment, said Mr. Preble.

Activity on Near North Side.

C. F. Durland & Co. report closing several leases in the Ford-Hopkins building at 400-412 West Erie street. Among them are: the Mitchell Manufacturing company, lamp makers; Boswin Engineering company, ventilating contractors; Vandalas & Knafle, makers of plaster and cement ornamental objects; Simon & Dimkel, makers of leather goods and P. A. Falk, lamp maker.

Durland & Co. state that the fall renting season on the near north side mercantile district has started off in good shape. They call it "a gratifying increase in rental prospects after the dullness of the previous two or three months."

Residences Suffer Least.

The value of private residential property has suffered less during the current deflation than any other type of real estate, according to an extensive appraisal of homes, apartment buildings, and apartment-hotel in Rogers Park and Evanston, made by Healey & Watt, appraisers, in a report just completed for a loop bank.

The general decrease in values since the peak of 1926-'27, as shown by the survey, was as follows: Private residences, 15 per cent; two, three, and six flats, 25 per cent; large court apartments, 25 per cent to 40 per cent; buildings over three stories, small suites, 25 per cent to 40 per cent; vacant property, 30 per cent.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 28,000.

Producers and feeders of live stock are unloading supplies in volume at all leading markets lately and considering the size of offerings yesterday, prices held up well.

Cattle receipts at Chicago totaled 12,000, only 1,100 under the largest Wednesday total of the year. Nineteen thousand hogs came on the market, the biggest number for Wednesday since the middle of June, with the proportion of spring pigs largest of the season. The sheep men dumped 22,000 lambs yesterday, the largest Wednesday receipts since Dec. 3, 1930.

This increase in offerings is seasonal and has been expected. The movement of the "new" crop of pigs is still running about a month earlier than in 1930 and 45 to 60 days earlier than in most other years.

More action was noted in the hog market soon after a slow top heavy opening, and closing sales were highest of the day and about in line with the general selling the previous day. The extreme top, however, shows 10c loss at $6.50, while the general average for the whole day was lowered 5c at $5.55. Most interests were eager for hogs, despite increased supplies and less favorable reports from the dressed meat trade.

Deliver $8.00 Hogs.

Producers delivered about 20 carloads of September hogs yesterday, filling contracts that had been sold on the futures market earlier in the year within a range of $7.00@8.00. Edward Stevens, Vermillion county, Illinois, was one of those who contracted to deliver mediums in September at $8.00 and filled his contract yesterday. His hogs show a margin of $1.50 over the "cash" trade.

Buying in the futures market showed more life yesterday, with volume of businesss the greatest since last May. The Brennan Packing company obtained 23 contracts at $6.75 for that many loads of heavy hogs to be delivered during the first half of the present month. Mediums for the same delivery were sold at $6.60.

The price level in the cattle market has been an inducement to unload finished stock, as there are few in the trade who hope for additional gains in top kinds that are selling around the $10.00 line. During the last few days cattle feeders have been getting margins of $1.00@4.50 over initial costs.

W. H. Kertzman, Haakon county, South Dakota, for instance, received $10.00 for cattle Tuesday but cost only $5.50 last fall. Nebraska steers averaging 1,165@1,369 lbs topped the price list yesterday at $10.10. Yearlings averaging 1,047 lbs reached $10.00. Only the steers eligible to $9.75 and above held to a steady basis yesterday, while others ruled weak to 25c lower, medium grades showing fully 25c loss in midseason and later.

Thousands of fair to good grades of beef steers are selling at $6.50@8.00 and fair sized shipments of common steers of beef merit range downwards to $4.75. The range of prices is gradually spreading out and now is almost as wide as it was at this time in 1930. Cows and heifers were fairly active and steady, a load of fancy baby beef heifers going for slaughter at $9.75, the highest of the season for that class. Calves were steady.

Colorado Lambs at $7.75.

Chicago handled 40 per cent of the total receipts credited to the seven leading markets yesterday, but the cut in prices was very light and most sales were about in line with the low point of Tuesday's trade. Ten carloads of Colorado lambs were sold at $7.75, the extreme top of the market, while bulk of range lambs sold at $7.00@7.40 and most natives went to packers at $7.00@7.25.

City butchers took several hundred of their selections as high as $7.50@7.60. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding and breeding stock met good demand at strong prices, light yearling ewes on the lamb order going for future breeders as high as $5.75. Top feeder lambs stepped at $5.85.

WHEAT MARKETS SHOW STRENGTH; PRICES ADVANCE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

American wheat markets developed surprising strength yesterday in the face of an easier undertone in Canada and abroad, but the upturn was largely the result of spreading operations and did not reflect any material change in the domestic or world situation. Minneapolis September led the advance and closed 1¼c higher at 61¾c, finishing 14¾c over Chicago and 22c above the same delivery at Kansas City.

There was buying of September wheat here against sales of the deferred futures, and also buying of wheat against sales of corn, although the latter business was not heavy. September wheat finished ¾c higher at 47c, while the distant months were ¼@½c higher, with December 48¾c, and May 53¾@53¾c, the latter being 11c over May corn at the last against 10½c over at the finish on Tuesday.

Hedging pressure is becoming heavier in Winnipeg as the result of active progress in threshing operations, and the close there was ¼@⅝c lower, with October 51⅝c. Selling in Winnipeg against purchases in Chicago helped to cause the easier finish in the Canadian market. Liverpool reported a slow demand for cash wheat, and closed ⅛@⅜d lower, with October finishing at 53⅜c.

Canada Has Small Wheat Crop.

The most disastrous drought in the southern section of the three Canadian provinces has resulted in a small wheat crop this season, but the Searle Grain company of Winnipeg estimates the aggregate yield at 238,000,000 bu, while the Free Press placed it at 254,000,000 bu, both showing above trade expectations, and comparing with 374,000,000 bu harvested in 1930.

Heavy frost damage is feared in the less advanced sections in the Canadian west, a message to J. E. Bennett & Co. late in the day claiming frost occurred in the Peace river country Tuesday night, which will catch the late grain. Reports were received after the close yesterday telling of rains in widely scattered areas in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

More favorable weather conditions prevailed in Europe, but crop estimates are being revised downward—5,000,000 bu being cut from the previous figures on the aggregate Hungarian and Swedish wheat yields—and are now 22,000,000 bu short of the final returns in 1930. Export sales in all positions at the seaboard Wednesday were estimated at 300,000 to 400,000 bu.

Corn in Good Rally.

The corn market was decidedly unsettled, liquidation carrying the September off 1¾c from Tuesday's finish to a low of 41¾c, and the new crop months dropped ⅞@1¼c, with some stop loss orders uncovered on the way down. The pit had an impression that a leading local operator was going out of a line of September and December, but as soon as the pressure let up shorts started to cover and found offerings light. The finish was unchanged to ¼c lower, with September 42¾c; December, 38⅝@38¼c, and May, 42¾@42⅝c.

So far this month around 2,000,000 bu cash corn has been sold for shipment by Chicago handlers, sales yesterday being reported at 230,000 bu, and charters were made for 200,000 bu to Buffalo. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 17,000 bu. Despite the low prices prevailing at the present time there appears to be little prospect of export business, and the Rumanian crop this season is estimated at 229,000,000 bu, or 75,000,000 bu more than last year and only 20,000,000 bu under the record crop of 1929.

Oats Close Unchanged.

The oats market reflected that of corn and closed unchanged to ¼c lower, with September, 20¼c; December, 22⅝c, and May, 25¼@25⅝c. Estimates on the crop of the three Canadian provinces ranged from 151,000,000 to 218,000,000 bu, compared with 354,000,000 bu harvested last year.

A belief that a scarcity of rye would ultimately develop in the United States was responsible for aggressive buying of futures yesterday. The market developed independent strength and closed 1¼@2¼c higher, with September, 36⅝c; December, 37½c, and May, 41⅝c. According to recent reports there is only 45,000,000 bu rye available in this country for the 1931-'32 season, including the crop and carryover, compared with 60,000,000 bu last year, while Canada has a total available supply of 22,000,000 bu, or 8,000,000 bu less than in 1930. A fairly good export business was reported at the seaboard during the day, but totals were not given.

CANADIAN WHEAT CROP ABOVE EXPECTATIONS

While Canada has harvested a total wheat crop of 126,000,000 bu less than in 1930, the yield this season was surprisingly liberal in view of the record breaking drought which prevailed throughout the year in the southern section of Saskatchewan, the banner producer in the western provinces. A total yield of 271,400,000 bu, compared with 397,872,000 bu, was indicated by the dominion government report given to the trade late yesterday. The aggregate oats crop is 84,000,000 bu less than last year, while barley shows a decrease of nearly 40,000,000 bu, and rye a decline of 14,500,000 bu. Details follow:

CHICAGO STOCK LEADERS FIND MARKET SUPPORT

But the Final Quotations Average Lower.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago stock market displayed a somewhat steadier tone yesterday, with a few issues making moderate recovery from the preceding day's prices. Sellers continued to make price concessions in the majority of stocks, however, and the final quotations in the main represented further slight losses.

Despite the continued downward trend in the New York market support was given several of the leading shares here. U. S. Radio, which had been hard pressed by sellers Tuesday, was in better demand and recovered part of its loss. The rally in the stock came after a temporary sinking spell in the early trading.

Finishes Higher.

Automotive shares ruled steady in the face of the heavy selling of General Motors on the big board. Borg Warner was able to finish the day with a slight gain while Bendix held its own. Utilities and miscellaneous shares, however, were bringing moderately lower prices when the day ended.

No trades appeared in Ross Gear and Tool company stock following the action of directors in reducing the annual dividend rate from $2 to $1.20 through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 30 cents. The stock is currently quoted at 19 bid and 24 asked. Directors of the Backstay-Welt company yesterday voted to omit the quarterly dividend of 25 cents which is due at this time.

Great Lakes Aircraft stock was quoted at 4, unchanged from its previous closing price. A retail selling campaign is being conducted in the stock. The company announced that it has started construction on 22 torpedo and bombing planes for the navy department. The planes will cost $1,0y0,000, while replacement parts will amount to an additional $200,000, the company reported.

New Type Amphibian.

It is expected that the job will be completed in a year, after which the firm will begin work on a new type of amphibian to be equipped with folding wings for airplane carrier service.

Governors at the exchange yesterday approved the listing of an additional 5,000 shares of Central West Public Service company class A stock. Of the new stock, 1,773 shares will be turned over to an investment firm for retail distribution at market prices.

Transfer of two exchange memberships at $9,000 each was completed yesterday. The last previous price was $10,000.

COTTON WORKS HIGHER; BEST PRICES AT CLOSE

A strong market was on in cotton throughout yesterday, particularly at the last, when Wall street buying, coupled with that of the south, came into the market in volume and advanced prices, making a close around the top, with gains on futures in Chicago 19@23 points, equal to $1.00 a bale, and 17@23 points in other markets, New Orleans being the strongest. Spots in the latter market were up 20 points to 6.65c, 15 points up in New York at 6.90c, Galveston 6.75c and Houston 6.85c. Liverpool was 8@9 points net higher, with spot sales of 22,000 bales, an unusually large business and a surprise to the trade. Prices follow:

Why Assume RISKS

You Need Not Take?

If you have made your Will but have named your wife or son as Executor—

if you have taken out life insurance but have left the policies payable in one lump sum to inexperienced beneficiaries—

you are assuming risks that you need not take. How you may avoid these and other hazards in developing a well-rounded plan of protection for your family is explained fully in our booklets, "How to Preserve Your Estate by Will" and "How to Conserve Your Estate with Life Insurance". WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A government report on spring wheat, corn, oats, rye, and barley will be given out at 3 o'clock Chicago time today. Estimates on spring wheat are around 113,000,000 to 116,000,000 bu, compared with 118,000,000 bu last month and 251,000,000 bu of bread and durum last year. The principal interest centers in corn, with estimates ranging from 2,700,000,000 to 2,760,000,000 bu. The average of the private reports was 2,733,000,000 bu, and the government last month was 2,775,000,000 bu and last year's harvest 2,094,000,000 bu. Estimates for oats are around 1,155,000,000 to 1,165,000,000 bu. Last month's estimate was 1,170,000,000 bu and last year's harvest was 1,353,000,000 bu.

Absorption of wheat on breaks is attracting attention, as the wheat is being taken apparently by some of the largest houses. One of the closest students of pit conditions expresses the belief that present conditions are likely to continue for a considerable period. A noticeable feature is the narrowing of the spread between near and distant futures. Recently the difference between September and May was 9½c. At the close yesterday it had narrowed to 6⅞c.

Corn traders have it that the large selling of September the last few days, attributed to a large local trader, possibly is hedged against cash grain. The open interest in September is large and the trade mixed on the situation, being disposed to sell on all bulges. The belief is expressed by a few close observers that while deliveries of cash corn have been light so far this month, they are likely to be greatly increased later. Sales of cash corn this month are estimated at 2,000,000 bu or above, while receipts are running small.
